OIL TRUST BEGINS WAR ON ROOSEVELT

Henry H. Rogers Surprises the White House by Coming Out in the Open to Fight.

TRIES TO SCARE PUBLIC.

People Urged to Believe That the President's Policy Is a Menace to Savings of the Poor.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—According to the view of administration men here the Standard Oil trust is now fairly at the head of the anti-Roosevelt movement, and it has begun to fight in the open.

There is said to be much significance in the interview with H. H. Rogers, published today in the Manufacturers' Record at Baltimore, in which the master man of the System seeks to put on President Roosevelt the personal responsibility for the fall in the prices of securities.

The more the interview is scanned the more it appears to contain a definite program, which was sketched out by the Standard Oil people long ago, when they were first prosecuted for receiving rebates, and which has since been formulated through speeches by Mayor Reyburn of Philadelphia and others in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the two states where the anti-Roosevelt propaganda has been openly begun.

In his Baltimore interview Mr. Rogers says: "I believe that the sentiment of the country will have so crystallized within a few months that there will be practically unanimous conservatism in the conduct of the government."

There is some sense in this, of course, and yet from the whole tenor of the interview the attitude of President Roosevelt is attacked by inference, although, of course, he is not mentioned by name.

Plans of the Campaign.

It is evident according to the statement of Mr. Rogers that the plan of campaign adopted by the anti-Roosevelt crowd is to put out a series of interviews and arguments and to back these up by occasional flurries in Wall street, with the idea of persuading business men and small investors that President Roosevelt's attitude is unsettling prices and that the policy he has advocated of the regulation of railroads and corporations will break down the value of all securities and thus reduce the savings of the poor and the fortunes of the moderately rich, as well as of those having large investments.

Every one who is in touch with the Wall street district even remotely knows how bitter has been the spirit there against Roosevelt and his financial and economic policies. The stock speculators have been really influenced by the railroad men, insurance manipulators, and a thousand and one henchmen of Standard Oil, until they have honestly come to believe that the scarcity of money, the depression in the prices of stock, and everything else undesirable from a frost on the peach crop to decreased attendance in the churches is to be laid at the doors of President Roosevelt, and of him alone.

Hitherto this feeling has had but little influence throughout the country, where the opinions of Wall street are not received with respect.

Work Secretly and Openly.

Now, however, an attempt is to be made to attack President Roosevelt and his administration both secretly and openly.

Politicians who are in sympathy with the Standard Oil movement are afraid to attack the administration openly, but they are expected to cooperate under the surface. In this way, Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania proclaims his loyalty to the administration, while Mayor Reyburn of Philadelphia, who was put in his place by Penrose, has attacked the administration openly and bitterly.

It was not supposed that the Standard Oil company would show its hand openly at such an early stage of the campaign. It has often been said, however, that H. H. Rogers and others in the management of the great oil monopoly had no conception of the real condition of public opinion in regard to them and their financial operations. Evidently this is so, because the interview with Mr. Rogers which is printed in the Manufacturers' Record, instead of crystallizing public sentiment against Roosevelt, is almost certain to have a contrary effect.

Any open statement of hostility by the head of the Standard Oil company can only make friends for Roosevelt, and it is strange that the political allies of Mr. Rogers should not have made this fact perfectly clear to him before he embarked on the uncertain sea of interviews and adopted a policy of taking the public into his confidence, as Harriman did when he was here in Washington.

Instead of crystallizing public opinion many of the friends of the administration declare they will secure copies of this interview and circulate it throughout the country for the express purpose of showing that Standard Oil is openly arrayed against the president and his policies.

What H. H. Rogers Said.

Particular attention has been drawn to one significant paragraph of Rogers' interview, in which he says:

"There is more wealth in the country today than ever known before. Conditions, requirements, and methods of carrying on all kinds of business, including farming, have so changed in recent years that general stagnation is almost impossible today. The people throughout the country will seek to invest their surplus funds in bonds and other securities, and they will demand that conditions exist whereby these investments will not be subject to disturbing influences, and that important development enterprises are not hampered by unnecessary and continued agitation."

This statement is exactly in line with reports previously made to President Roosevelt and administration leaders as to the ideas of the anti-Roosevelt crowd. By public speeches, by private letters, and by means of newspapers favorable to their ideas, they expect during next year to mold public opinion in such a way as to make it appear that the radical policy of President Roosevelt is injuring the business of the country.

To Hurt Him Personally.

The purpose of this campaign is first of all to hurt the president personally. They would like to discredit him and his policies, but they would rather start with him and wind up with his policies. In the second place, the purpose of this plan of campaign is evidently to educate the people in such a

GUMSHOE BILL'S MYSTERY SOLVED.

House Measure 777 Intended to Validate Millions of Chicago and Western Indiana Bonds.

ALTON DEAL NOT MEANT.

Speaker Shurtleff's Effort to Conceal Purpose of the Law Means a Big Fight Over It.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—"The mystery" of the legislature is explained with the discovery that house bill 777 is intended to validate the bonds of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, which owns the Polk street station and terminals. It involves millions of dollars in bonds which need a legislative cure for radical defects.

Of a bond issue of $50,000,000 authorized July 1, 1901, $18,000,000 is said to have been issued by the company. What other issues are out is not known definitely. The state records indicate that the stockholders have authorized the following amounts:

Jan. 7, 1882	$10,000,000
Aug. 16, 1892	2,500,000
July 1, 1901	50,000,000

Of the last issue authorized it is said that $18,000,000 have been sold, and that the remainder is to be used to rebuild the station and terminals of the company.

Explains Shurtleff's Big Job.

These figures explain the magnitude of the task which Speaker Shurtleff attempted when he endeavored to put through the house the "blind" bill, of which there was no other explanation than that it validated "less than $100,000 worth of bonds of some stub end railroads."

That the discovery has been made is not due to any revelations on the part of men who knew the facts. When Mr. Shurtleff amended the bill yesterday to restrict the period from ten years to one during which consolidations of railroads and indebtedness incurred by them should be legalized and validated he gave a clew to the "mystery."

Investigation in the office of the secretary of state revealed the rest.

The bill was brought to Springfield by Attorney William J. Henley, who is general counsel of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad company.

What the Bill Means.

It is desired by the provisions of the measure to legalize the mergers of railroads between Jan. 1, 1882, and Jan. 1, 1883, and to validate the indebtedness of such consolidations "heretofore" contracted.

"Heretofore" would mean prior to July 1, 1907, when the act would become a law if it were successful in all the legislative stages and were signed by the governor. Any bonds issued by a railroad consolidation effected in 1882 would be made legal, whether the bonds were issued in 1882 or 1907.

Articles of incorporations filed in the office of the secretary of state show that the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad company was formed in 1882 by the consolidation of three companies. The same articles carry resolutions which show that the stockholders authorized an issue of $10,000,000 in bonds on the same day that they authorized the consolidation.

Three Roads Merged.

The roads merged were the South Chicago and Western Indiana railroad company, the Chicago and Western Indiana Belt railway company, and the Chicago and Western Indiana railway company, consolidated under the name of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad company.

The articles of consolidation are signed by Andrew Crawford, president of the Chicago and Western Indiana Belt railway company, and were filed with the secretary of state Jan. 27, 1882, and include resolutions presented at a stockholders' meeting Jan. 7, fixing the capital stock at $5,000,000, and authorizing the borrowing of a sum not to exceed $10,000,000.

Documents subsequently filed with the secretary of state, as late as July 1, 1901, show other authorizations of bond issues, the amount in one instance being $50,000,000. There also are filed resolutions adopted by stockholders which indicate the expenditure of various sums in improvements and purchase of terminal facilities. How many of the bonds authorized by the stockholders have been issued is not apparent from the figures available in the office of the secretary

Bigger Roads Involved.

The records in the secretary's office show that he roads using the terminals of the Chicago and Western Indiana also are interested in the question, the Santa Fé, the Monon and the Wabash having either stock or bonds issued by the consolidation.

It is suggested that the probable move of the company, if it finds the legislative remedy difficult to secure, will be to reincorporate, which would result in the payment of a fee of something like $10,000 or $15,000 to the state according to the amount for which the company should be incorporated.

This remedy, on the surface, would suffice, but in spite of it the company has made the point that the validating bill is essential.

History of the Bill.

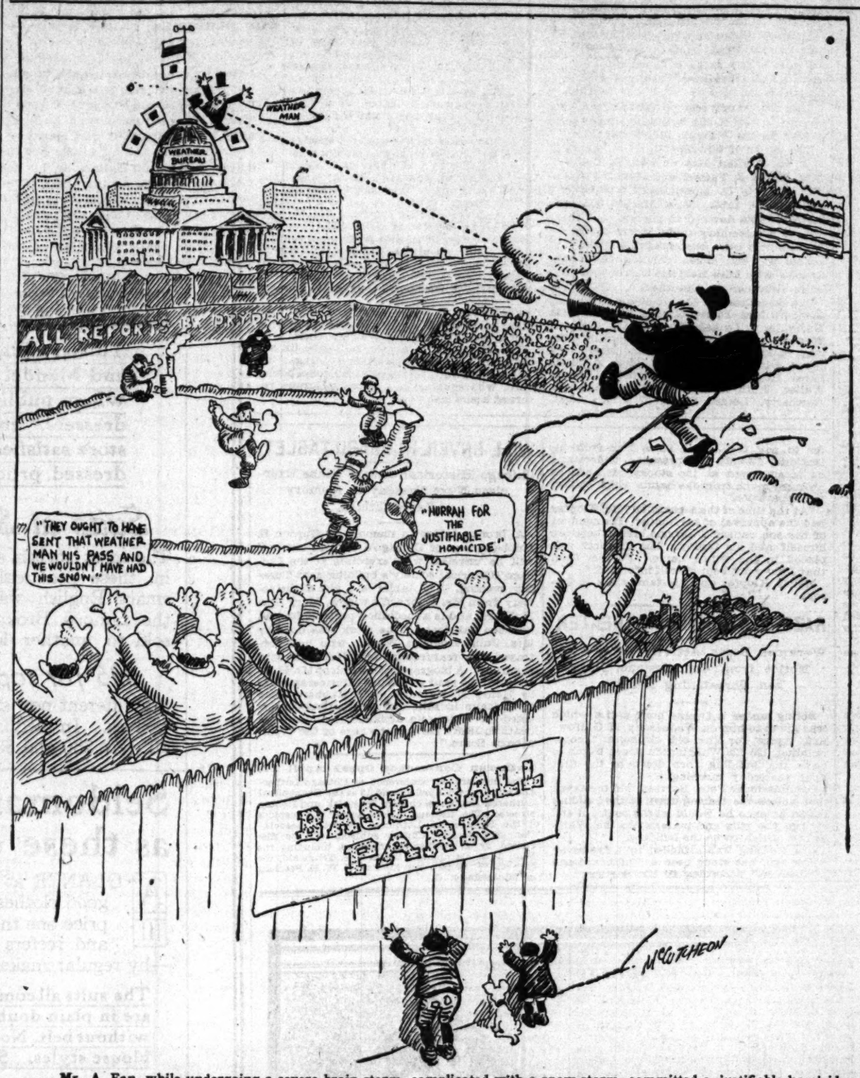

The fact that the Chicago and Western Indiana is involved was indicated first by the fact that Attorney Henley brought the bill to Springfield. He called on Gov. Deneen. He submitted the bill to at least one member of the legislature other than Speaker Shurtleff, that being Representative Robert McKinlay, a democrat. Mr. Henley, who formerly was a judge in Indiana, now lives in Gov. Deneen's senatorial district in Chicago, and Mr. McKinlay is the minority representative from this district.

Mr. Shurtleff will not admit that this is the road involved, and he does not know the sums involved. The amount of the bonds which it is sought to validate, however, is admitted to be far beyond the dreams of the legislator, who was informed at first that they amounted to less than $10,000.

It is said that the consolidation was brought about after a mistaken idea of the consolidation law of Illinois. There have been two acts passed by the general assembly to legalize mergers of railroads, one in 1883 and one in 1897. The present bill, which is desired to validate the bonds in question, is a practical copy of the law of 1897 except that it contains the much opposed provision

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

Mr. A. Fan, while undergoing a severe brain storm, complicated with a snow storm, committed a justifiable homicide yesterday afternoon. The bad weather is supposed to have enraged Mr. Fan, who is somewhat weak in the attic, and he imagined his victim to be responsible for the unpleasant spring we are having. Prominent sports strongly approve of Mr. Fan's act and are going to give him a testimonial.

WEDDING KNOT TIED AGAIN.

Philip Henrici and Frances Kavanagh Married at Waukegan.

FIRST CEREMONY YEAR AGO.

That Came Too Soon After a Divorce, Causing Legal Defect.

Philip Henrici, who lost an inheritance of a quarter of a million dollars on account of one matrimonial venture, was married to Miss Frances G. Kavanagh Thursday afternoon in Waukegan. The wedding was not the first between Mr. Henrici and Miss Kavanagh, but it was the first one officially acknowledged. He was married to Miss Kavanagh just a year ago, but kept it quiet because he was apprehensive that he might get into trouble with the law. It was just four days after he had been divorced from his former wife, a mind reader.

Mrs. Henrici, it appears, had been looking up the law and found that her husband had taken chances when he wedded her in New York on April 11, 1906. Under the Illinois law if a man marries within a year after securing a divorce he can be sent to jail.

Mrs. Henrici formerly was on the stage as Miss Gwendolyn Phillips. She played with Mrs. Fiske and Henrietta Crosman.

Another Legal Defect.

It also appeared that the New York wedding was performed under Miss Kavanagh's stage name. A lawyer told her and Mr. Henrici that there might be legal complications in the event of Mr. Henrici's death.

Mr. and Mrs. Henrici have been living for the last year at 716 La Salle avenue, and when they discovered that under the Illinois law young Mr. Henrici might be arrested any day they asked a lawyer friend if he could suggest anything.

He suggested that they go to some quiet hamlet, where the newspapers wouldn't hear about it or their friends ask foolish questions. So they selected Waukegan.

Mr. and Mrs. Henrici hadn't more than left the train at the north shore town when Mayor Bullock, who knows Philip well, came up and asked them where they were going. Mr. Henrici introduced his wife.

"Just Going to Be Married."

"We are going to get married," he said, "but just keep that to yourself."

Mayor Bullock said he would, but before they had gone a block a dozen or more of Henrici's acquaintances met him, and more explanations had to be made. It was a great bore. When they got to the county clerk's office there was found another old friend in that official. Every friend Henrici met insisted on going over to the Lake county court house, and there must have been fifty, more or less, when he took out the license.

"I can keep this quiet for two or three weeks," said his old friend, the county clerk, "but if I were you I wouldn't try to. There's nothing to be ashamed of, and it's bound to get out some time."

"I guess that's right," said Henrici, as he sized up the crowd in the corridor. Mrs. Henrici thought so too.

Both Had Been Divorced.

Mr. Henrici gave his age as 35 and the bride gave hers as 33. Both, it appeared, had been divorced. Mr. Henrici obtained his divorce on April 7, 1906. Mrs. Henrici, on account of incompatability, or something like that, on Sept. 8, 1904.

Then some of the crowd out in the corridor happened to recall that the first Mrs. Philip Henrici, in the capacity of mind reader, had given an exhibition, in company with Charles Carter, the magician, in Waukegan a couple of days before. It was all quite romantic.

After getting the license Mr. and Mrs. Henrici were married in the vault of the County courtroom by the Rev. J. A. J. Whipple.

"We thought we'd better get married over again," said Mr. Henrici at his apartment last night. "That Illinois law is no joke. You see, we were married April 11, 1906, in New York, just four days after I got a divorce from my first wife."

Wouldn't Look Well in Stripes.

"He wouldn't look well in stripes, would he?" said Mrs. Henrici, merrily.

Henrici wore a striped dressing gown, but the stripes run the other way.

"We were married in New York under my stage name, Gwendolyn Phillips," continued Mrs. Henrici.

"And to make everything regular we were married this time under her family name of Miss Kavanagh," added the bridegroom. They seemed quite happy, though they were going to move. The furniture was packed and the rugs were rolled up. They thought their second wedding a great joke.

Mr. Henrici didn't say much about his first wife, who formerly was Beatrice Price, a Michigan girl, who is said to have had a jealous disposition. He said she became a mind reader after the divorce, so that accomplishment hadn't much to do with the habits he contracted which led to the divorce. Mrs. Henrici alleged beatings.

Henrici's Heavy Losses.

Mr. Henrici, whose late father was the wealthy restaurateur, eloped to marry his first wife, and on that account he lost an inheritance of $250,000. He also lost $70,000 in Northern Pacific stock soon after his first marriage, and he had to turn over a Michigan farm worth $68,000 to the mind reader, leaving him a comparatively poor man, with nothing but a restaurant in East Van Buren street and an allowance of $1,800 a year, that ends when he dies. He will get $500,000 from his grandmother's estate in eight years, however.

The first Mrs. Henrici went on the stage soon after being divorced. It was a compromise divorce, her husband said last night. At the time of the divorce he had charged her with drinking thirty-one highballs at a sitting. Mrs. Henrici the first said that would have been a physical impossibility, and that, anyway, whenever she drank it was in company with her husband. She claimed that her desire to take up Hindoo philosophy was the real cause of the disagreement.

BOY, KIDNAPED, GIVES CLEW TO CAPTURE IN KANSAS CITY.

Allen L. Shirley, Who Disappeared from Lakeside on April 4, Writes Father, and Police Act Quickly.

Allen L. Shirley, son of J. C. Shirley of Lakeside, Ill., who disappeared from home April 4, was found in Kansas City yesterday. The boy himself gave the clew on a postal card mailed to his father Wednesday.

As soon as the postal card was received the parent notified the Chicago police, and a message sent to Kansas City resulted in the recovery of the boy and the arrest of a man said to be Henry E. Davy.

According to young Shirley's story Davy induced him to leave Lakeside by a promise to buy a team and engage in the express business in Chicago. Instead of doing this, he says, Davy forced him to go to Kansas City with him, where the two were employed by Hally Dewey, a carpenter who married Davy's sister.

Davy, when he learned Shirley had written his father, attempted to take the boy from his sister's home at 344 Cecil avenue to another part of the city, but the police acted so quickly his effort failed.

Shirley's father is said to be a bookkeeper employed by the First National bank.

CHARGES PLOT IN CITY HALL.

Taxpayer Says W. L. O'Connell Conspired in $625,000 Job.

REPLIES WITH BRIBE TALE.

Official Retorts That He Was "Approached" by J. J. Gallery.

William L. O'Connell, ex-Mayor Dunne's commissioner of public works, is charged with fraud in rescinding a $625,000 contract obtained by John J. Gallery and awarding it to the Jackson & Corbett company.

The charges are made in a bill for injunction filed yesterday by Charles B. Donoghue, a taxpayer, who asks that the contract which he avers was obtained through a conspiracy, be declared null and void, and that the city be restrained from making any payment to the Jackson & Corbett company.

The bill charges that O'Connell and representatives of the Jackson & Corbett company met in the city hall at midnight on April 5, when the Gallery contract was rescinded and the other awarded. It is charged that O'Connell hastened the action because he thought Mr. Busse might take hold in the city hall at once.

Says Gallery Offered Bribe.

In an interview after the bill was filed, O'Connell charged that Gallery was the contractor who, more than a year ago, attempted to bribe him to obtain a contract.

Donoghue says Gallery submitted a bid to construct the Blue Island avenue land tunnel for $625,000, $10,000 below the bid of the Jackson & Corbett Co. This contract, he avers, was granted to Gallery on March 28. Under the law he was to have twenty days to file a bond. On April 5, Donoghue avers, O'Connell and the Jackson & Corbett company, "confederating and conspiring for the purpose of getting the contract," met in O'Connell's office late at night, after business hours in the city hall.

"Pretends" to Rescind It.

"In pursuance of this fraud," the petitioner avers, "I am informed, and believe and so state the fact to be, that William L. O'Connell, then and there, in the dead of night on April 5, 1907, pretended to rescind the contract awarded to Gallery and did award it to the Jackson & Corbett company. This contract was signed, and the signature of Edward F. Dunne, then mayor, was affixed to it. Edward F. Dunne, however, knew nothing of this transaction."

The petitioner says that on April 6 a letter was sent to Gallery notifying him the contract had been rescinded, and that another letter was sent to the Jackson & Corbett company notifying it that the contract had been awarded. These letters, he avers, were shams, inasmuch as the contract had been signed on April 5, but dated April 6.

Charges There Was Fraud.

"Such proceedings," the petition says, "are unheard of and would not have been done except to carry out the fraud and conspiracy. The bond was for only $900,000, while the law states the amount should be for $1,270,000. Real estate was scheduled for $200,000 which is worth $88,215.

"John J. Corbett and George W. Jackson each swore that he was worth $350,000, while they should have scheduled real estate instead. The printed affidavit attached to the bond was changed and mutilated to permit them to make this statement without scheduling. I state on belief and information that Commissioner O'Connell permitted the affidavit on the bond to be altered and mutilated."

Wilbur F. Steele.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—After having struggled for nearly forty-eight hours to reach a verdict the Thaw jury reported a disagreement late this afternoon and was immediately discharged. The final ballot stood 7 for conviction for murder in the first degree and 5 for acquittal on the ground of insanity.

The scene in the court when the jury announced its disagreement, though accompanied by all the formality usual on such occasions, lost much of the dramatic quality it would otherwise have possessed for the reason that Thaw and all the members of the family were aware that no agreement had been reached by the jury, counsel for each side having been told of this by Justice Fitzgerald before they entered the courtroom.

No Bail; Another Trial.

Thaw was at once taken back to the Tombs. Application that he be released on bail will undoubtedly be made soon, but it is regarded as almost certain that this application will be denied. District Attorney Jerome announced immediately after the jury's discharge that Thaw would be tried again, though not for several months. Later he added that he would vigorously oppose any application for bail or for a change of venue in the case.

One of the first reports that followed the announcement of the jury's disagreement was to the effect that Lawyer Delmas and every other member of Thaw's staff of counsel, with the exception of Daniel O'Reilly, would be discharged, and a fresh batch of lawyers hired for the new trial.

Delmas Hurts His Client.

It was stated that everybody connected with the case regretted Delmas' "dementia Americana" plea. Late tonight jurymen who were seen at their homes declared Delmas had made little impression on them. Neither the oratory of the Californian nor the terrible story told by Thaw's wife influenced their deliberation. Not one of them, it was asserted, thought of the "unwritten law" in the case. The sole question with which they concerned themselves was whether Thaw was sane or insane when he shot and killed Stanford White.

Some of the jurymen also admitted that the last few hours of their deliberations had been quarrelsome ones and that on two occasions two of their number almost came to blows.

Story of Fight in Juryroom.

The story of the two day effort made by the Thaw jury to arrive at some agreement regarding the guilt or the innocence of Harry K. Thaw on the charge of murdering Stanford White is a story of constant strife between the two parties into which the jury was divided from the first. When the jury went out on Wednesday a ballot was taken fifteen minutes after they retired from the courtroom. There was some general talk among the twelve before this ballot was taken, in the course of which Juror Harney flatly announced that he was irrevocably of the opinion that Thaw was insane when he killed the architect.

When the votes cast on the first ballot were counted it proved that eight of the jurors voted to convict Thaw of murder in the first degree, the other four voting to acquit upon the ground of insanity. The original four who stood for acquittal were Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser, and Steele.

Two Factions Irreconcilable.

From this time on the contest was one between these two extreme wings. There never was much hope of reconciling them from the first. The four who originally were for acquittal never voted for anything else from the start to the finish, while seven of the eight for murder in the first degree the first time the ballots were cast remained of the same opinion to the bitter end, although some of them were willing to compromise if the champions of acquittal could be induced to meet them half way.

This, however, was never possible, and before the twelve men finally gave it up the forces that fought for acquittal had won over Juror Dennee to their side.

Having learned by this first ballot what was the general drift of opinion the twelve men went over the case on their return from dinner for some time, and at a quarter of 10 Wednesday night they took a second ballot. It resulted precisely as had the first, eight for murder in the first degree and four for acquittal on the ground of insanity. Every juror voted exactly as he had done at first.

Night of Ceaseless Argument.

All night long the contending forces battled. The jury room contains only two or three tables and chairs and one inadequate couch. About the room twelve men gathered in little groups, each one composed of representatives of the different opinions.

There was, of course, a little sleep, but it was precious little this first night. The jurors took turns in trying to convince each other of the correctness of their divergent positions, those who favored a verdict against Thaw pointing out the evidence which convinced them that the defendant was sane and therefore guilty, and the acquittal jurors advancing what facts they could against this view.

In this manner the night was passed and not long after daybreak Thursday morning the twelve men had nearly made up their minds as to the points which were vitally in dispute and about which they needed further enlightenment.

Dennee the Only Wavering One.

In the course of the night's talk Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser, and Steele had made so much progress towards the conversion of Juror Dennee to their way of thinking that he made up his mind that he would like to scrutinize the exhibits in the case upon which the original four champions of acquittal based their opinion.

Things were in this condition when the jury filed into the courtroom at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, and it was largely at the request of Juror Dennee that Foreman Smith asked that the letters written by Thaw to Frederick W. Longfellow, his former counsel, and known on the record as exhibits A to I, be turned over to the jury for closer scrutiny. Up to this time, however, it should be remembered that there had been no change from the original ballot of 8 to 4 for conviction.

The jury retired from the courtroom at half past 1 that day and at once had luncheon sent in. When that was disposed of the Thaw letters, together with the will and its codicil, which the defendant executed on April 4, 1905, the day of his marriage, and the letter which he wrote to Anthony Comstock, asking him to prosecute Stanford White for offenses against young women, were carefully scrutinized by all the jury.

First Change in Fourth Ballot.

In the course of the afternoon there was for the first time some talk in the jury room of a compromise upon a verdict of manslaughter. By this time, however, Juror Dennee was beginning to believe that Thaw's mind was not sound when he shot White. This wavering state of Mr. Dennee's mind was reflected not in the third ballot, which took place at 4:30 p. m. and resulted precisely as had all the others, eight to four for conviction of murder in the first degree, but in the fourth ballot, which was cast an hour later.

This time the party that had stood out for conviction of murder in the first degree lost one of their number. The backslider, of course, was Juror Dennee, but he did not at that time go over entirely to the acquittal forces, the ballot resulting as follows: Murder, in the first degree, 7; manslaughter in the first degree, 1; the one being Juror Dennee; acquittal, 4. Thus all the jurors voted on the ballot as they had from the start, with the exception of Juror Dennee.

Between the fourth and the fifth ballots Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser, and Steele got to work in good earnest upon Juror Dennee. They went over all the Thaw letters and argued that no man in his right mind could possibly have written them.

Dennee Won Over to Acquittal.

This view at last prevailed, and upon the fifth ballot, which was taken at 6:20 that same night, Thursday, Juror Dennee voted for acquittal, on the ground of insanity. This made five men now holding out to set Thaw free. The other seven did not, however, vote upon this ballot for a conviction in the first degree.

It had by this time become evident to Foreman Smith, and the others who shared his views, that the acquittal party were so positive in their views that they could never be brought around to vote for conviction of murder in the first degree. Six of them, therefore, decided in the interests of harmony to make a concession, and they voted on this the fifth ballot for a conviction of manslaughter in the first degree.

One of their number, however, was so positive in his views that he declined any suggestion of compromise. This was Juror George Pfaff, a Center street hardware dealer. He voted for murder in the first degree on this ballot, as on all others, and when the two days' struggle was over he was the only man who had voted from the start to the finish for murder in the first degree.

On the fifth ballot, therefore, the jurors were divided thus:

Murder in first degree, Juror Pfaff.

Manslaughter in the first degree, Jurors Smith, Fecke, Brearley, Newton, Bolton, and Gerstman.

Acquittal, Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser, Steel, and Dennee.

Two Factions in Deadlock.

One more ballot was taken on Thursday. This was cast three hours after the fifth. In the meantime the jurors who had voted for conviction did their best to swing the others over to some kind of a compromise, but the men who had stood out for acquittal replied that there was no use of talking about it, either Thaw was sane or insane, and whoever believed that he was insane was forced to vote for acquittal outright. In their minds, believing the defendant to be insane, it would in theory at least be as unjust to vote for manslaughter as for murder.

On these lines, therefore, the twelve men were still divided at 9:25 o'clock, when the count stood just as it had three hours before—six for manslaughter in the first degree, one juror, Pfaff, still for murder in the first degree, and five for acquittal.

That brought matters to a deadlock that seemed impossible to break. However, all the twelve agreed that it was their duty to make still further efforts to get together. There was no further voting that night. It was spent, like the night before, in arguments, which by this time, for the reason that the views of every man had been pretty thoroughly outlined, were more or less fragmentary.

Second Night Almost Sleepless.

Moreover, by this time everybody was worn and weary from loss of sleep and constant mental strain. That night the jurors got a little sleep all around stretched out on the tops of the tables or lounging in the chairs, but nobody slept more that four hours, and few more than three.

There wasn't any sleep, however, until after the seventh ballot was cast, which was at twenty minutes after midnight. As before, Jurors Pink, Harney, Fraser, Steel, and Dennee voted to acquit. Jurors Smith, Pfaff, Fecke, Newton, Bolton, and Gerstman returned to murder in the first degree, while Juror Brearley cast his vote for manslaughter in the first degree, with a recommendation to mercy.

Argue in Little Groups.

In the early hours of the morning there wasn't much doing. Everybody was talked to a standstill and tempers were on the ragged edge. After breakfast, however, the argument began all over again. It was done for the most part in groups of two or three and all the exhibits were utilized for arguments by the different partisans. There didn't seem to be any progress made in the process of getting together, but at 3:45 today it was decided as a matter of form to take another ballot.

By this time the forces that fought for acquittal had made it so evident that it was perfectly hopeless to expect another of them to agree to a compromise, that the others made up their minds that they might as well cast the votes that exactly expressed their views. They consequently all voted to convict for murder in the first degree, the eighth and last ballot standing seven for conviction and five for acquittal.

Hopeless but Refuse to Quit.

There the matter rested until a quarter after 4. The jurors were still arguing with each other at that time, though several of them were so weary they could hardly talk, but weary though they were they still kept at it and sent no message to the judge, who was waiting in his chambers.

On the contrary it was Justice Fitzgerald who made the first move. He sent Court Captain Lynch into the courtroom to inquire if the jury could agree on a verdict. Foreman Smith sent word that they had not. Thereupon Justice Fitzgerald sent out for District Attorney Jerome and for Daniel O'Reilly, of counsel for the defense. Lawyers Hartridge, Gleason, and Peabody were within reach, but when Justice Fitzgerald sent for a representative of the counsel for the defense it was Mr. O'Reilly who responded.

The judge informed Mr. Jerome and Lawyer O'Reilly that the jury had been unable to agree upon a verdict, and he had come to the conclusion that the jury had been out so long without agreeing that it looked hopeless. He asked if there was any objection on the part of counsel for either side against the jury being discharged, and both Mr. Jerome and Mr. O'Reilly said they had no objection.

It was then formally agreed tha. the jury should be called into court and if the foreman announced that they had not agreed they were to be discharged with the consent of both sides. It was then that Justice Fitzgerald sent for the jury.

When Justice Fitzgerald first sent Capt. Lynch to inquire what progress the jury was making the clock on the courtroom wall informed those who looked at it that the hour was exactly 4:15. At that time there were not more than fifty people in the courtroom. Most of them were reporters, who had been there all day and all the day before and were pretty nearly as weary as the jurors. They were scattered about the room reading newspapers or books or chatting in little groups and wondering when the vigil would end. A few of them were snatching a moment's much needed sleep in odd corners. Mr. Gleason of counsel for the defense was the only one of the lawyers in the case who was in the room.

Jury's Appearance Surprises.

In a few moments the rumor spread that the jury was coming in. All hands inside the courtroom scrambled for the seats they had regularly occupied from the start of the trial. Those who were smoking or idling in the corridors outside made a rush for the door. A little group of court officers gathered by the narrow door that leads to the juryroom.

At 4:25 the door opened and the jury filed in headed by Foreman Smith. Every eye in the courtroom was upon them as they passed down the aisle and into the jury box. The first impression was one of surprise that they looked in such good condition. For men who had slept so few hours and had been under such constant mental strain for so long they looked wonderfully fresh and strong.

Within thirty seconds there were few persons in the courtroom who were not perfectly convinced that Thaw's life was safe for the time. Not one of the jurors looked like a man who was about to send a fellow creature to the executioner. There was an unmistakable air of relief pervading the jury box. The twelve men sat back easily in their chairs and chatted with each other.

Several of them exchanged smiles. Juror Harney looked particularly amiable and satisfied. The composite impression produced was that of twelve men who had tried hard to complete an impossible task and whose principal feeling was one of satisfaction that their labor and responsibility were over.

Thaw Prepared for News.

By this time Lawyers Gleason, Peabody, and Hartridge were in their usual places at the counsel table. Three minutes after the jury arrived Thaw entered, followed as usual by a prison guard. He marched straight down the aisle, looking neither to the right nor the left, placed his overcoat over the back of a chair, and sat down. Then he looked over and bowed to several reporters who sat close by. His face was white but impassive. It had none of the strained quality that characterizes the expression of a man who is bracing himself to meet a shock. His lawyers had already informed him that the jury had failed to agree.

A moment later District Attorney Jerome and Daniel O'Reilly came in, the district attorney taking his seat inside the rail. Mr. Garvan, wearing an overcoat, arrived an instant later and joined his chief. At precisely 4:30 o'clock young Mrs. Thaw entered from the witness room. She was alone, and looked pale and frightened. She had scarcely taken her usual seat when Mrs. William Thaw, followed with the countess of Yarmouth, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, Edward Thaw, and Josiah Thaw. At the same moment Justice Fitzgerald entered from his chambers, while everybody in the courtroom arose.

Wife at His Side, Hands Clasped.

Dan O'Reilly went back and spoke to Thaw's wife. She at once slipped forward and took a chair at her husband's side. He turned to her, and as he did so his face was illuminated with one of those rare smiles of his. She slipped her left hand into his right, and so they sat while Clerk Penny called the roll. That concluded, Clerk Penny said in a quiet, conversational voice:

"The defendant will arise."

Then the clerk repeated the conventional formula.

"Jurors, please arise. Defendant, look upon the jurors. Jurors, look upon the defendant. Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We have not, sir," said Foreman Smith, in an even tone.

At that the jurors sank into their seats again, while Thaw resumed his chair and again took his wife's hand. It had been strangely silent in the courtroom, but at the words of Foreman Smith a little buzz of conversation breathed through the room. It died away entirely with the first word of Justice Fitzgerald.

Thaw Family Like Stoics.

All this time the entire Thaw family had sat motionless. With one exception they showed the utmost stoicism. The exception was the countess of Yarmouth, who smiled in a pleased way when she heard Foreman Smith's announcement. The moment that was pronounced the court door, which had been locked after the jury came in, opened just wide enough to allow one man to emerge. The instant he got out he shouted at the top of his voice, "Disagreement."

Before the door had closed again there was heard the roar of the waiting crowd. The next moment perfect stillness again reigned in the half empty courtroom. Justice Fitzgerald consulted some notes which he had before him.

Judge Discharges the Jury.

Then, speaking slowly, he said:

"Gentlemen of the jury. I have kept you together for this long time for the reason that I deemed it my duty to do so as long as there was any possible hope of you being able to reach a verdict. I have arrived at the conclusion that this is impossible to be expected, and I consulted with counsel representing the people and the defendant—the defense's counsel and the learned district attorney—and I am going to discharge you from further consideration of this case, with the leave of the court and the public prosecutor and counsel for the defense consenting to such discharge."

"Correct," said Mr. Jerome, as the judge paused.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Hartridge, from his seat outside of the rail.

"With the leave of the court the public prosecutor and counsel for the defense consenting to such discharge," repeated Justice Fitzgerald interrogatively. This time it was Lawyer O'Reilly who said "yes, sir."

"Then, gentlemen, you are relieved from further consideration of this case," declared Justice Fitzgerald.

Thaw Remanded to Custody.

Mr. Jerome began to make a remark to the court, and the court reminded him that he had not asked that Thaw be remanded to custody. This request the district attorney promptly made, whereupon Justice Fitzgerald said:

"The defendant is remanded."

Immediately the jurors rose and filed out of the box, up the aisle, and out of the courtroom. Thaw did not look at them, though some of them glanced down at him as they passed. He still sat there in the seat he has occupied for over eleven weeks, holding the hand of his wife. Then he was taken out by the prison guard.

None of the jurors had taken his hat or coat into the courtroom, and all of them went back to the room where they had deliberated for two days. While they were putting their things on Thaw was brought through the corridor and passed some of them. He nodded pleasantly and went upstairs to the pen on the floor right over the jury room. In a few minutes the courtroom was deserted except for an official or two.

Thaw Cheers His Women Folk.

The police outside scattered the crowd, and Mrs. William Thaw, the countess of Yarmouth, and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie came out of the courtroom and walked upstairs to where Thaw was waiting. They were escorted by Lawyer Hartridge. Before they got to the room where Thaw was, young Mrs. Thaw, accompanied by Lawyer O'Reilly, came out of the courtroom. Her veil was drawn over her face, and she leaned on the lawyer's arm. Her steps were slow and faltering, and she looked worse than at any time since the beginning of the trial.

All the Thaw women entered the pen and talked with Thaw. He seemed in good spirits. Instead of being cheered by the women, he told them that they must not worry or fret, that everything would come out all right eventually, and that he himself was all right. He was in such cheerful spirits that everybody left him except his wife, who staid for a few minutes' final chat. Then she went away with Lawyer O'Reilly.

Sad Homegoing for Wife.

The women went at once in automobiles to the Lorraine at Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street, where they have been living. There was a crowd in White street as they came out of the Criminal Courts building, but a lane had been formed by the cops, and they were not bothered. Lawyer O'Reilly accompanied Mrs. Harry Thaw part of the way home. Then her automobile driver put on extra speed, and she got to the hotel just as the other women were stepping out of their machines.

"I cannot understand it," said the prisoner's wife, when she entered the hotel. "On the evidence in the case I thought that the jury would certainly bring in a verdict of acquittal."

Then she hurried upstairs to her rooms. The countess of Yarmouth, who was excited, remarked to one of the hotel managers: "Isn't this terrible." She would add nothing to that remark. Mrs. William Thaw refused to say a word, except that she had made no statement of any kind, and she did not intend to make one now. The other members of the family refused to make any comment on the action of the jury.

Thaw's Comment on Result.

When Thaw got to the Tombs he talked to one or two of the keepers and then made this statement, which he insisted upon dictating:

"This is the first statement since the disagreement and the second and last today. I believe that every man in the jury possessing over average intelligence, excepting possibly Mr. Bolton, comprehended the weight of evidence and balloted for acquittal. All my family bid me good-by with courage. I trust. D. V., we may all keep well."

The first statement to which Thaw refers was given out early today. It was:

"I wish the jury and every one else to understand that no one more despises a person who carries a concealed weapon than I. That only after my life was in jeopardy, as I was informed by persons, and as was communicated to me by professional detectives, did I protect myself. Then I employed the Pinkertons—and they could never prove these attempts so I could invoke the protection of the law or disprove them so I could safely continue defenseless. Then, doubting my judgment, I consulted an ex-chief of police, a man respected in his community, and he advised that my duty was to protect myself.

"In this trial I wish my case solely and simply based upon the law of the state and upon the evidence, which had convinced not only me as I reviewed all this evidence but also the district attorney that I am innocent under the written law of the state."

Jurors Tell Story to Jerome.

District Attorney Jerome as soon as the jury had been discharged went upstairs to his office. When he got there he had a surprise awaiting him. One of his attendants told him that several of the jurors were inside waiting for him. They were standing in the room which is occupied by Mr. Jerome's secretary, and he went right in to them. The jurors were Fecke, Pink, Dennee, and Foreman Smith. A little later Juror Bolton came in, carrying a little satchel.

The door was locked, and Mr. Jerome listened to the jurors for about twenty minutes. They explained to him their recollection of everything that went on in the jury room. Mr. Jerome was much pleased to get an accurate account of what happened, though he refused to say anything about what the jurors had told him. They all went away after shaking hands with the district attorney.

The district attorney's manner indicated that he was not much put out over the outcome. His belief right along has been that the chances were in favor of a disagreement. He was asked about what he had to say as to the result.

Must Be Second Trial, He Says.

"There is nothing that I can with propriety say about the trial," he said. "From what went on in the jury room, and the way the jurors stood, it appears certain that there should be a second trial. As to the date of that trial, there is no telling now. There are fifteen prisoners in the Tombs awaiting trial on the charge of murder in the first degree, and their cases will have to be disposed of in the regular course of events before we can get to Thaw again. It certainly will not be before fall.

"As to bail, an application will of course be made, but I shall vigorously oppose the release of Thaw. Taking into consideration the number of jurors who voted to convict the defendant of murder in the first degree I think it extremely unlikely that any judge would allow the application."

It was suggested that application might be made for a change of venue before another trial, but Mr. Jerome said that was not an arbitrary matter either for the district attorney or the court. Satisfactory reasons would have to be set forth in sworn affidavits for the trial to be transferred to some other county on the ground that it was impossible to get a jury in this county. In view of the precedent of the boodle aldermen cases in 1884, over which there was a good deal of public excitement, Mr. Jerome said, he could not see at this time why a jury could not be obtained in this city to give Thaw a fair second trial.

Gleason Blames Lawyer Delmas.

Delphin Michael Delmas, chief counsel for Thaw, was in court a part of the morning, but was not present when the jury was discharged. The only comment he would make tonight was that he thought that the outcome of the case indicated that the course he had pursued was the proper one. Lawyer Gleason said testily, early in the day, that if the defense of "dementia Americana" had not been interposed at the last moment the defense outlined by him in his opening speech would have resulted in freeing Thaw. He said tonight that he still held to the same opinion. Lawyers Hartridge and Peabody said they did not care to make any statement.

All Lawyers but O'Reilly Fired.

From all that could be learned tonight a report that all of the Thaw lawyers except Daniel O'Reilly had been thrown over or would be thrown over by the Thaw family appeared to be correct. Lawyer O'Reilly said that so far as he knew he was the only one of the lot who had been retained for further proceedings. It was said that both Thaw and his mother were dissatisfied with the conduct of the last stages of the trial.

When Mr. Delmas was asked tonight about this report he said: "I have not withdrawn from the case and have no reason to believe that either Messrs. Hartridge, Gleason or Peabody have."

Concerning the criticism of his "dementia Americana" remarks, Mr. Delmas would say only: "I have no wish to comment on these remarks."

The comments on the closing speech of Mr. Delmas did not please Mrs. William Thaw. She was asked tonight if Lawyer O'Reilly was the only one of the present lawyers who would be retained, and she declined to say anything about it. It was said that the Thaws might go back to the firm of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge, who were employed by Thaw and then left the case soon after his arrest.

All through the trial there has been friction between the Thaw lawyers. At times some of the lawyers have not been on friendly terms. In the last week or so they have even been making remarks about one another which have not been complimentary.

Jurors Tell of Squabbling.

From statements made by several of the jurors after they had been discharged, it appears that the last twenty-four hours of their confinement were stormy in the extreme. On at least two occasions one of the men who held out for acquittal all but came to blows with one of the opposite party.

At one time the voices of the jurymen rose to such a pitch and there was so much shuffling of feet and dragging about of chairs that the officers on duty just outside of the door became alarmed and reported to Justice Fitzgerald that it sounded as if there was a fight going on inside.

The Judge at once instructed Capt. Lynch to enter the jury room and inquire if there was any trouble. Everything was quiet by the time he arrived, and he departed at once, advising the twelve men on behalf of the court to manage their deliberations with less noise, inasmuch as already there were rumors going about that all was not well there.

Pfaff the Trouble Maker.

Juror Wilbur F. Steele, who voted for acquittal from the start, and during the deliberations of the jury acted as spokesman of that party, was found tonight at his home, 528 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street. He said that he was willing that everybody should know where he stood, and everything that went on in the jury room. The first day, he said, right after the jury began to consider the case, Juror Pfaff suggested that proceedings should be opened with prayer. This was objected to by Juror Gerstman on the ground that he was a member of the Jewish faith. Personally Mr. Steele said that he didn't consider that a prayer was particularly appropriate on such an occasion, but he had no great objection to it. Finally Juror Gerstman said that he would consent to the proceedings being opened with prayer if he were allowed to say one of his own afterward. This program was accordingly followed out.

Juror Steele said that while he usually spoke for the minority, Juror Brearley usually acted as spokesman for the majority. Juror Pfaff, said Mr. Steele, after one or two ballots had been taken and the sentiments of the jurors had been pretty well made known, took occasion to make a speech in which he laid great stress upon the fact that he himself was honest. Mr. Pfaff went on to make a statement which Mr. Steele regarded as an insinuation. Whereupon Steele said: "If you mean me you had better cut out that sort of talk."

Pfaff Starts Row in Night.

At about 4 o'clock this morning, when every juror's body was weary and tempers were strained to the breaking point, Juror Steele went on, he himself was trying to get a little sleep on the only couch the room contained, when he was aroused by Juror Pfaff, who was talking at the top of his resonant voice about there being something wrong somewhere. Juror Steele understood Mr. Pfaff to say that he was worrying about what the world would think when it found that some of these jurors had been sticking out for acquittal in view of the evidence that had been presented.

That woke Juror Steele up with a jump, he said. He got to his feet without any appreciable delay and remarked that he wasn't afraid of what people would say. According to Mr. Steele, he got close up to Juror Pfaff's face and remarked:

"Myself and four other jurors are of the honest opinion that the evidence shows that the defendant was insane. Let no man impugn my motives."

According to Juror Steele's account, Juror Fraser, who worked overtime as a peacemaker all during the two days session, seized this opportunity to jump in between the two disputants. Whereupon Juror Steele said he closed the incident, expressing his opinion of Juror Pfaff. It was not at all a complimentary opinion. As a matter of fact, he said, "You are a dirty contemptible cur."

After breakfast this morning there was something like a reconciliation, but this was followed by another controversy between the same two, which was again terminated by Peacemaker Fraser.

Juror Steele went on to say that some little time after this episode one of the jurors had a talk with Pfaff, as a result of which he came over and manifested a disposition to apologize. Juror Steel said he told his fellow juror: "If you meant, all right, but if you don't, well——" At this point Juror Steele again expressed his provisional opinion of Juror Pfaff.

"I haven't any use," added Mr. Steele, "for a man who puts one hand on the Lord's prayer and dishes out murder in the first degree with the other."

Effect of Evelyn's Story.

Mr. Steele went on to discuss the evidence in the case at some length. He said that he was much impressed by the fact that after Evelyn Thaw had been kept from the stand four or five days after her direct testimony she was recalled, and under the sharpest crossexamination the district attorney could devise she told the same story without a flaw. This, said Mr. Steele, convinced him that she was telling the truth, and he thought it had the same effect on the other jurors who voted for acquittal.

He was disposed also to lay special weight on the testimony of Drs. Evans and Wagner because they had examined Thaw physically in the Tombs not long after the murder.

Another juror said that Mr. Jerome's address had made a much greater impression upon the jury than that of Mr. Delmas, but he believed that both pleas might just as well have been omitted so far as any practical result went.

Hummel Affidavit Ignored.

This same juror declared that the Hummel affidavit did not affect the result in the slightest, and they had strictly obeyed the instructions of the court to disregard the question of the character of Stanford White or that of Evelyn Thaw, except insofar as it affected her credibility. This juror said he got only four hours' sleep during the two days the jury was out. He spent those four hours on a table, and he gives it as his verdict that tables are hard.

Mr. Steele's description of the stormy scenes in the jury room were more or less borne out by the statement of still another juror. When asked if the jury parted amicably he replied:

"I am sorry to say we did not. There was considerable hard feeling during the last few hours of our session, and I regret to say that some of us went away feeling pretty sore. I hope when we have been thoroughly rested and have had plenty of sleep that these feelings of animosity will wear off."

Jury to Have Peace Dinner.

This same juror said that in the interests of peace it had been agreed that the jury should meet next week Saturday night for a dinner at the Broadway Central. This is the hotel where the jurors have taken all the meals which they took as a body outside of the jury room.

All day long a crowd of staring, wild eyed persons hung around the four corners of the Criminal Courts building, hoping to get a glimpse of somebody connected with the trial.

The crowd came so early that Inspector McClusky got on the job with an extra force of reserves early in the morning.

He distributed the police along Center and Lafayette streets, and Franklin and White streets, and they kept everybody moving. But even with the strictest precautions the men, and women, and boys who were anxious to get at least a glimpse of the outside of the courtroom forced their way into the building until the several floors were pretty well crowded. The congestion became so great on the floor where the four courts of General Sessions were doing business that the police decided to clear the corridors. In the mixup that followed witnesses who were waiting to be called in cases were driven away. But they all got back sooner or later.

Deluge of Leters for Thaw.

Thaw was brought over from the Tombs early in the morning. It took him an hour or more to wade through his mail. Warden Flynn says he has recived more letters than any prisoner who was ever in the Tombs. Thaw makes a practice of going over all the letters he gets and answers many of them personally. While he was waiting in the pen for the jury he chatted with the prison guards who were watching him. He looked well and said he had slept well.

Not long after noon Capt. Lynch of the court squad inquired if the jury had agreed and he was told that they had not, but that they were hungry and would like to have luncheon a little earlier than usual. The luncheon was sent for and Justice Fitzgerald ordered a recess until 2 o'clock. The women of the Thaw family said that they would not have luncheon sent in, as they had done the day before, and started for their automobiles. While the street was jammed with men and boys from the neighborhood and the police had to do some lively work to keep the crowd from rushing the Thaw automobiles. After a brief struggle the autos got away without being held up. Evelyn Thaw and Lawyer O'Reilly went to a downtown restaurant. The other members of the family went uptown.

Family Tells Friends Result.

Thaw was taken back to the Tombs for his luncheon. Justice Fitzgerald got back to the court about 2 o'clock. At that time he had about made up his mind that there was little chance of the jury agreeing. Thaw who had been brought back from the Tombs, found that he didn't have much to occupy his time, so he wrote the first of his two statements for the newspapers.

An hour or so after this Thaw was brought into court when the jury was discharged.

The members of the Thaw family sent several telegrams and cablegrams from the Hotel Lorraine tonight. They were messages advising friends as to the disagreement of the jury. Two of the cablegrams went to the earl of Yarmouth. It is said that the countess may return to England soon.

FEATURES OF HARRY K. THAW TRIAL.

THE CRIME.—While seated alone at a table on Madison Square roof garden at the first performance of a new musical play on the night of June 25, 1906, Stanford White was shot three times and killed by Harry K. Thaw, who was attending the performance with his wife and a friend. The murder was committed while the roof garden chorus was in the middle of the song, "I Could Love a Million Girls." Immediately after shooting White, Thaw raised the revolver above his head and submitted quietly to arrest. When taken into custody Thaw cried out, "He has ruined my wife."

THE MURDERER, HARRY KENDALL THAW.—Son of the late William Thaw, a resident of Pittsburg and one of its richest men. His waywardness as a boy caused his father to cut him off in his will with an allowance of $2,500 a year. Later, by a family agreement, he was allowed a proportionate share in the estate left by his father. His expenditures are said to have reached $100,000 a year. On one of his many trips to Europe he is believed to have married Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. They returned from Europe together and were ejected from a New York hotel. The report of this marriage estranged Thaw and his family, but after the report had figured in the newspapers for some time it was announced that Thaw had been forgiven by his mother. He and Evelyn were summoned to Pittsburg, where, on the night of June 5, 1905, they were married in the Thaw home. Thereafter, until the night of the tragedy, Thaw and his wife divided their time between Pittsburg and New York.

THE VICTIM, STANFORD WHITE.—He was one of the great architects, at the time of his death a member of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, a leading architectural firm in New York. White was born in New York City in 1853 and was educated at the University of New York. He chose architecture as his profession and studied under Charles D. Gambrill and H. H. Richardson. Under the latter architect White had much to do with the plans and execution of Trinity church in Boston, one of the finest examples of ecclesiastical architecture in this country. White spent the two years between 1878 and 1880 in Europe studying his profession. His real career as an architect began after his return to New York from this trip. In the years that intervened between that time and his death he had earned for himself the recognition, both of this country and of Europe, of being one of the greatest of modern architects. A few of his principal achievements were the Madison Square Garden building, in which he was killed; the Metropolitan and Century clubs in New York, the University of New York, the Washington arch, the University of Virginia, and pedestals for a number of the most important statues erected throughout the country, including all those of the famous sculptor, St. Gaudens. White married Elizabeth Smith of Smithstown, L. I., who survives him with one son, Lawrence G. White, who is a student at Harvard.

THE CAUSE, FLORENCE EVELYN NESBIT.—She is the daughter of Winfield Scott Nesbit, a Pittsburg lawyer, who died while she was still a child in Pittsburg. Her early life was spent in poverty. Before she was 14 years old she developed beauty of a remarkable order. At 14 she began the career of an artist's model in Philadelphia to eke out the scanty resources of her mother. Her beauty soon attracted the attention of artists and her mother brought her to New York, which offered a wider field. In New York she created a sensation and her services as a model were sought after by every great artist. From the artist's studio she drifted on to the stage and finally became a member of the famous Florodora chorus. As a chorus girl she came into the lives of Stanford White and Harry K. Thaw. Both strove for her. Her career during this period of her life she herself described on the witness stand in one of the most shameful stories ever uttered by a girl. Finally, after she had been the toy of the great architect, she became the wife of Thaw. A year afterward the sordid story of her loves reached its climax in the murder of White by Thaw.

THE TRIAL.—Thaw was indicted for the murder of White June 28, 1906, two weeks after the murder, and pleaded not guilty. The legal firm of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge was engaged for the defense, and after going into the case decided that the plea of emotional insanity was the best they could put up. Thaw would have nothing to do with this plea and refused to listen to anything which hinted at his insanity. The result of this was the discharge of the first lawyers hired and the employment of a new set headed by Delphin M. Delmas, the leading criminal lawyer of California. The trial opened on Jan. 23, 1907, and on Feb. 1 the last of the twelve jurymen had been accepted. The feature of the trial and of the defense was the story of Thaw's wife, which created a tremendous sensation. The girl was two days on the stand and gave to the jury what purported to be the story of her ruin by White. This story she declared she told her husband before their marriage, and it was the argument of the defense that it so worked on his mind as to render him temporarily insane and that it was while laboring under this insanity he had shot and killed White. An army of medical experts was called by the defense to testify that Thaw was insane on the night of the murder. The battle of alienists added in the early stages of the trial the term "brain storm" to medical language, and in its last stage Thaw's leading attorney coined the phrase "dementia Americana" as representing the insanity from which Thaw was suffering. District Attorney Jerome fought strenuously to break down the story of the wife and also the temporary insanity theory. His contention was that although Thaw might have been medically insane on the night of the murder, he was sane in the eyes of the law. Jerome called to the stand one insanity expert who was ready to swear that Thaw was suffering from a form of paranoiac insanity, which was practically incurable, and that if he was insane when he killed Stanford White he was insane now and always would be insane. Failing to secure the admission of this evidence Jerome succeeded in the last stages of the trial in having the court appoint a commission in lunacy to settle the present condition of Thaw's mind. After an inquiry this commission ruled that Thaw was sane and the trial proceeded. In his closing address for the prisoner Attorney Delmas appealed eloquently, though indirectly, to the "unwritten law." Jerome, in his closing appeal, characterized the murder of White as "a mere vulgar Tenderloin homicide" and appealed for the death penalty as fitting punishment. The case was given to the jury at 5:15 o'clock on the night of April 10, and after deliberating 47 hours and 8 minutes the jury was discharged, having hopelessly disagreed.

THE RESULT—DISAGREEMENT.—The jury stood seven for conviction for murder in the first degree and five for acquittal on the ground of insanity.

THAW BORDERING ON LUNACY.

German Specialist Declares His Case Result of Riches and Idleness as a Child.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—Dr. Arnold Lorand of Carlsbad, Germany, a specialist in nervous diseases, in a lecture delivered tonight before the Medical Jurisprudence society, declared that Harry K. Thaw was the probable victim of a condition bordering on insanity proper, where the will and reason have been so weakened that the patient, though knowing that he is doing wrong, is driven to crime by an impulse he cannot resist. Idleness in the children of the rich," he said, "the lack of proper occupation, the gratification of every desire for whatever can be purchased, are powerful factors in producing criminality. In the Thaw case we see the results of such factors working together with hereditary predisposition to nervous disease."

KELSEY IN COMMITTEE'S HANDS

Fate of New York Superintendent of Insurance Rests with State Senate Body.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—[Special.]—The fate of State Superintendent of Insurance Kelsey for the time, rests with the senate judiciary committee. The hearing closed at Albany tonight, and next week the committee is to consider the report that it will make to the senate. There is no doubt now that Senator John Raines is against the governor in regard to the removal of Mr. Kelsey.

As matters now stand Senator Cohalan may have the balance of power in the committee. The following senators are put down as against the removal of Mr. Kelsey: Allds, Smith, Raines, McCarren, and Grady. Senators Armstrong, Cobb, Davis, Hinman, Page, and Taylor will favor removal.

Senator Grattan, representative of William Barnes Jr., is doubtful, although he voted on all questions in the committee with Senator Raines. Senator Cohalan had been recorded up to last week on all motions with the governor's friends. The vote in the senate itself will be close.

LOSES RACE AGAINST DEATH.

Army Officer Reaches Iowa Home After Long Trip Just Thirty Minutes After His Wife Died.

Iowa City, Ia., April 12.—[Special.]—Racing against death from San Antonio, Tex., to Iowa, Capt. Hanson E. Ely of the United States army reached Iowa City just thirty minutes after his wife died.

By train, carriages, and automobiles Capt. Ely sped homeward. Relays were arranged by telegraph, and the officer covered a wide stretch of territory in autos.

Mrs. Ely was kept alive by stimulants and an indomitable will a day longer than the attendant physicians had deemed possible, and constantly said, until she lost consciousness, "I must live until my husband comes."

The deceased was a victim of pneumonia, contracted while at her grandmother's funeral. Four children, the youngest a baby of three weeks, survive.

LAUGH AT PITY SPASM.

Commentators Declare Jury Over There Would Have Convicted Him in Quick Time.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 13, 3 a. m.—The keynote of nearly all the editorial comment here on the result of the trial of Harry K. Thaw is the strong, sometimes, violent censure of almost everybody concerned, including the bulk of the American public, whose "intellectual appetite," according to the opinion of the writers, is largely responsible for "the discreditable exhibition."

American methods of administering the law are denounced unspairingly, the contrast with British practice being scathingly emphasized. The Daily News, which claims to represent moral, social, and political Puritanism, finds in the trial proof of how unscrupulous wealth may combine to defeat justice. It is shocked by the sympathy of the American public for Thaw and his wife.

"It would not be surprising," it says, "if a Latin community, which does not make a profession of severe puritanical virtue, had made a heroine of Mrs. Thaw and condoned Thaw's loose life. The amazing thing is to find this phenomenon in a country which has just hounded Maxim Gorky from its shores. The total result of the expenditure of money and false sentiment, without a parallel in the recent history of civilization, is simply this, that a man may henceforward murder in America unpunished provided always his crime is interesting and he himself is a millionaire."

Thaw, "a Criminal Degenerate."

The Telegraph says the long drawn out trial in this country would have been ended in a week. It adds: "It seems to us a travesty upon the passionate regard of the American nation for the purity of the home life and the honor of women to represent Thaw as a champion of the "unwritten law," that man may take vengeance in his own hands in defense of the sanctities of his hearth. Public conscience may condone private vengeance for such acts, but the hearth that has been violated must have been kept tolerably clean before. What is disquieting is not the revelation of vice, for the lower side of human nature is much the same everywhere, but the mawkish desire to make a virtuous hero out of a degenerate criminal."

The Times, describing the trial as "a public nuisance and a spectacle which every right thinking person longed to see the end of, says: "If Thaw had been a poor man the verdict would have been given in a day or two after the jury was impaneled. The trial brings to light facts which explain in some degree the jealousy of great fortunes newly acquired. One gets a glimpse, and not a pleasant one, of wealth without elegance or refinement, luxury without polish, culture, or attraction, much costly eating and drinking and fine clothes, with coarse manners. The booby millionaire is not unknown. He generally is successor to the self-made millionaire. He puts with both hands into rapid circulation his inherited fortune. Much more mischievous, and probably more responsible for the feeling of animosity and jealousy unmistakably strong in America, is the class of rich men who seem to know nothing of the duties of wealth or the graces that often come in its train, and seek to escape sheer boredom in unrefined excitements."

Two Papers Say Good Word.

The Chronicle and the Morning Leader are practically the only two papers that do not indulge in impassioned criticism. The former praises the prolonged endeavors of the jury to reach a verdict, saying no British jury would have stuck to it so long. It adds: "There have been features which present American practice in an unfavorable light compared with ours, but the judge's charge conformed to the best standard of any land, while the eloquence of the American bar was conspicuously illustrated."

The Morning Leader, dwelling upon the great human tragedy which underlay the court proceedings, says the jury really epitomized the verdict of the world.

The editorial articles practically ignore the tremendous interest this trial awakened in England. A majority of the newspapers here have devoted much space to pictures and news of and the comment on the trial, breaking the record in this respect of all other foreign criminal cases.

NICKEL THEATERS CRIME BREEDERS

Judge Cleland Says Children Should Not Be Allowed to Attend Some of Them.

VICE SHOWN IN PICTURES.

Illustrations of the Thaw Case Displayed in Many Places in the City.

"The Municipal Court of Chicago.
April 11.

"Editor of The Tribune:

"Permit me to commend the views expressed in your editorial on the nickel theaters printed in the Wednesday paper.

"These theaters are the cause, directly and indirectly, of more juvenile crime coming into my court than all other causes combined. I very much hope that you will not cease to encourage the suppression of these institutions, or at least the prevention of minors attending them unless accompanied by their parents.

"Very truly yours,
"McKENZIE CLELAND."

Five cent theaters are springing up all over Chicago, like mushrooms. There was a record yesterday at the city license department of 138 of the moving picture concerns. This was twenty more than there were last month and if the proportion keeps up there will be several hundred before the summer is over.

Half a dozen dealers in films and picture machines are working large forces day and night, and one of them said business had increased to such an extent that he departed last night for Dallas, Tex., to establish a branch plant for the dissemination of high art through the southwest.

A big plant where the pictures will be manufactured is now being erected at Belmont and Western avenues.

The fact that the amusement places are patronized largely by school children and that the subjects in 90 per cent of them are far from moral is now being investigated by the police and there is a strong prospect that restrictions will be placed against the establishment of more five cent theaters, especially in the residence districts. Some few of those now in existence are free from vicious and dangerous qualities, but the majority are not to be held thus blameless.

Some of the Subjects.

Some samples of the "elevating" subjects exhibited at the great majority of the 5 cent theaters are:

Cupid's Barometer.
The Unwritten Law.
An Old Man's Darling.
The Bigamist.
Modern Brigandage.
Course of True Love.
Seaside Flirtation.
College Boy's First Love.
Raffles, Amateur Cracksman.
Child Robbers.
Paris Slums.
Female Highwayman.
Gentlemanly Holdup.
Beware, My Husband Comes.
Galeties of Divorce.

Residence Districts Invaded.

For the last month the theaters, with their tawdry galvanized iron façades and discordant graphophone attachments, screaming mechanical ragtime into the streets, have been encroaching steadily in the residence districts in Lake Park, Lake View, Edgewater, Ravenswood, South Chicago, and other localities far removed from the hurly burly of the city.

The statement is made in these residence localities that the moral effect is bad upon the young people of the neighborhood, not taking into consideration the general nuisance that makes flat dwellers and other residents wish they had moved into some other neighborhood. The difficulty is there is no part of the city where the 5 cent theater will not follow the harassed householder.

In lower State street 25 cents will enable a boy or girl, just dismissed from school in the afternoon, to run the gamut of all the theaters, and a good many of them do it. It would take 50 cents to go far on Milwaukee avenue, where the 5 cent theater has reached the climax of its glory and popularity. The next most prosperous street from the 5 cent theater managers' viewpoint is South Halsted. Clybourn avenue, North Clark street, Lincoln avenue, Division street, West Madison street, and Chicago and North avenues have the theaters in some sections as thick as drug stores.

Suggestive Pictures Shown.

The views which are most in demand by the 5 cent theater managers—except those of the better class which are conducted as nearly as possible on clean, moral lines—are those of a suggestive nature—technically known as "girl shows." They are cunningly devised to keep within the law so they cannot be called obscene, but they are demoralizing, especially for young girls and boys.

The pictures which show as much of a woman's hose as is possible without being so absolutely indecent as to cause a raid on the theater by the police are popular along South Halsted street and Milwaukee avenue, where the patronage in the evening is almost exclusively the youth of both sexes.

Asked which series of pictures was the most popular, a manager of a film exchange unhesitatingly answered:

"The Unwritten Law," or the "Thaw Case."

He said the closing days of the Thaw trial had aroused such a demand for this series of pictures that it could not be supplied. The "Thaw Case" was not being displayed at any of the downtown 5 cent theaters yesterday for the simple reason that it had been on exhibition all the week before and, moreover, it had been stopped in one or two of the playhouses" by the police.

This Thaw case series, although it is by no means the worst example of the immoral in moving pictures, attracted the attention of several well known reformers of Chicago and they complained about it with the result that it was taken out of the downtown district.

The series of pictures shows first an advertisement for a model. A young girl with an apparent resemblance to Evelyn Thaw answers the advertisement, with her mother and the next scene shows her posing in a studio. A man wearing a silk hat, portly, and prosperous appearing, who is known for the sake of convenience as Mr. Black, enters the studio, is much struck with the model's beauty, and becomes acquainted with her.

The next view is behind the scenes of a theater with the portly man dancing with the heroine and other actresses in a "bohemian" way. There follows a scene at a café table, where there is a fight over the girl, and later she is seen in the act of ascending a stairway in company with her admirer. The stairway scene in "Sapho," it may be said, in passing, was not allowed on the stage in most of the cities in the east at the time that play was in vogue, on account of its suggestive nature, but it is made the most prominent feature of this faked up representation of the Thaw case.

In the next picture the young miss, who so much resembles a schoolgirl, is seen in an apartment intended to represent the luxurious room of the New Yorker. He pours out a glass of wine for her, she places her hand before her face and reels and falls on a couch, concealed by a screen just before the termination of that portion of the series.

The scene of the shooting at the roof garden, the trial, then Thaw in prison, then the trial, and finally the acquittal of Thaw mark the conclusion of this interesting series known as the "Unwritten Law."

"Cupid's Thermometer."

In another picture of Parisian manufacture a pretty brunette and her sweetheart are seen seated on a park bench. Above them is a large thermometer with the legend "Cupid's thermometer." There is enough hugging and kissing in that series of pictures to make a foolish girl dream of love for a solid week. The indicator in the thermometer goes higher and higher, until it reaches the top, just as the sweethearts, with their arms about each other, move away. An elderly man and woman are the next to occupy the bench. Wearied of each other's society, both drop off into a slumber and the mercury sinks to below zero. This is the kind of scene the young people of Chicago are invited to inspect for 5 cents.

In another picture, also of Parisian design, a young woman wedded to a rich old husband repels his caresses with disgust. He is about to take a day's journey, but misses his train and after a series of misfortunes starts for home. Meanwhile the wife goes out with a younger and more attractive appearing man—a latter day Don Juan, with a sweeping mustache. They stroll along the boulevards, with pronounced manifestations of regard.

The deceived husband meanwhile goes home and is tied to the bedpost by burglars. The wife and her man friend return to the house and seat themselves upon the bed, just as the furious husband, who has removed his gag, makes himself known.

Influence on Children Bad.

None of these pictures would be permitted on the stage of even a semi-respectable theater, yet in these places no attempt has been made by the police to suppress them or others equally suggestive. It is not claimed they would be especially demoralizing to an audience composed exclusively of men such as patronize any of the burlesque houses, but the 5 cent theaters, as has been stated, derive their chief patronage from young men and women—boys and girls.

During the presentation of the "Unwritten Law" it was noticed that after 4 o'clock the audiences were composed largely of schoolgirls, who came in with books or music rolls under their arms. The interest these girls in short dresses took in the production may be gathered from the fact that they remained sometimes for two or three views of the pictures, there being no restriction by the management concerning the time one may spend in the theaters after he or she has paid the nickel. A good many grown women got up and went out before the completion of the series. It shocked them. But the girls remained.

Around 6 o'clock or just before that hour the character of the audiences in lower State street shifted again. This time they were composed largely of girls from the big department stores, who came in with bundles under their arms. These are the heaviest patronage of the 5 cent theaters at that hour. They remain in them as late as 7 o'clock with the excuse that they have no other recreation and that the street cars are uncomfortably crowded at that time of the day.

That these girls make undesirable acquaintances is the assertion of those who are opposed to the 5 cent theater. It is certain they frequently are found talking with men of mature years, whom they could not have met before going to the theaters.

There is another class of views said to possess an evil effect upon the youth of Milwaukee avenue and South Halsted street, where the hoodlum element often forms the bulk of the evening audiences. These are the views depicting burglaries and robberies. In them the thief nearly always escapes, though there are occasions when he meets retribution.

One of the 5 cent theaters in Milwaukee avenue, near Division street, yesterday afternoon illustrated the robbery of a store that contained in addition to many bags of gold a huge wire frame such as are used in the display of dresses and resembling a cage. A vigilant policeman who had seen the forcible entrance, with a grimace of satisfaction placed himself under the window not knowing that he in turn had been discovered by the two cracksmen.

The burglars, before their departure through the window, skillfully dropped the wire form over the head of the policeman, and with every manifestation of great glee left him struggling within its confines surrounded by a half dozen inquisitive, barking dogs.

In another burglary twenty thieves participated, lowering a monster safe by means of ropes from a window and carrying it off in a cart. A fight between the burglars—whose caps as well as the scenery indicated that this also was a Parisian design—and a company of gendarmes followed, and in this instance the thieves were captured—many of them—and the stage gold scattered along the banks of the Seine.

Other favorite pictures, according to the managers, are those which illustrate a race after some fugitive in which a score or more of persons participate in as varied costumes as possible, never forgetting a few good looking girls who make "interesting exhibitions" as they climb over walls and fences.

Small License Fee Paid.

A 5 cent theater, under the city code, is included in class 15—the same as the penny arcades, which were forerunners of the moving picture halls. The annual license for this sort of an amusement enterprise is $200 a year, providing that the seating capacity of the house is less than 300. As the license would be much larger otherwise the theater managers are smart enough to have just 299 seats and they obey strictly the ordinance that forbids standing.

A consultation of the license stubs at the city hall shows that in nearly every instance the license is taken out by the month, the fee being $16.67. In some instances the licenses are taken out for two months, but rarely for over that period.

The reason is obvious. A 5 cent theater may pay well in one neighborhood and be a failure in another. The manager is shrewd enough not to desire an expensive license on his hands and with the arrangement at the city hall he can renew his license every month just as well.

A number of fires have occurred in the theaters, due to the burning out of some portion of the electric apparatus or to the films catching fire. In none of them has there been much damage, although there always is the possibility of loss of life in a panic. The theaters are required to keep poles, ladders, and fire extinguishers.

"The people who go to 5 cent theaters," said Chief Horan of the fire department philosophically, "are the kind who know how to take care of themselves in fires. They'll get out, never fear. They are like the crowd that patronizes the bleachers at a baseball game. The 5 cent theater is a nuisance that will die of its own accord if given enough rope."

POLICE TELL OF RULES VIOLATED

Lieut. Jenkins Is Said to Have Asked Patrolmen for Cash to Aid Dunne.

URGED TO SOLICIT VOTES.

Men Are Taken from Beats by Chief Collins' Order to Do Political Work.

Further evidence of the complete demoralization of Chicago's police force was brought out at yesterday's session of the civil service commission's investigation of the conditions brought about by Chief of Police Collins' campaign methods.

Witness after witness told of being ordered to disregard civil service regulations and go about the city at his own free will to do political work. Many of the policemen, however, testified that they disregarded the chief's orders because of the palpable irregularity of such commands.

For the first time since the investigation began actual proof of a political assessment upon the police force was found. Three patrolmen told of the "offer" of Lieut. Jenkins of the stockyards station to receive any contributions for the Dunne campaign fund. Just how much had been received through this "offer" and how extensively this method of receiving funds had been practiced was not learned, as these policemen said they ignored the "offer," leaving the station immediately after it was made at roll call.

Many Stars in Jeopardy.

All the other policemen who were in a position to testify as to this levy refused to answer on the ground that they might incriminate themselves—a reply which was looked upon as proof that the laws had been violated. The evidence introduced, however, is sufficient to result in the discharge from the service of the officer authorizing the levy as a violator of the civil service regulations.

Under section 14 of the civil service regulations any officer soliciting or receiving political contributions renders himself liable to discharge from the service.

Patrolman Frank McMenamen of the Stockyards station was the first witness to tell of actual efforts on the part of the superior officers to collect campaign contributions from his men. At first he refused to answer on the grounds that he might incriminate himself, but when he was convinced by the members of the commission that he would not be punished for any evidence he gave, and that he might, on the contrary, expect little mercy at its hands if he failed to tell the truth, he answered all questions.

Ordered to Solicit Votes.

"About ten days before election I was ordered to don citizens clothes and report to the chief's office for duty," said the policeman. "There were about ten other new policemen there. Chief Collins began by saying that Mayor Dunne had been a good friend of the policemen. He called attention to the fact that all of us must have a few friends and asked us to go out to see them and ask them to vote for Mayor Dunne. He told us it would be unnecessary for us to report to our commanding officers or to our station until after election."

"Well, what did you do?" Commissioner Powell asked.

"I didn't ask any of my friends to vote for Mayor Dunne. I was thoroughly disgusted," replied the policeman with emphasis.

"Were you asked for any political contributions?"

The witness hesitated for some minutes, then told the most important story that has been heard by the commission.

"One evening at roll call Lieut. Jenkins told us that anybody who wished to contribute a few dollars to the Dunne campaign fund could do so, but that there was no compulsion about it. There were thirty or forty men present at this meeting, all of whom heard the statement of the lieutenant."

"We sincerely thank you for this information," said Commissioner Powell, as the witness left the stand. "If you are transferred or molested in any way for this testimony you have given today I wish you would come to me with the information at once."

Orders Given by Comerford.

The next series of witnesses called told of the change of front on the part of Chief Collins which practically made Police Attorney Frank D. Comerford the head of the police department. Nearly half of the police force, it appeared from the testimony, received political orders from Attorney Comerford, going to his office in the First National bank building for directions as to the best methods of carrying out the work mapped out for them.

Patrolman William Doran of the stock yards station, told of a meeting of policemen at the office of Chief of Police Collins at which the men were told to get out and work for Mayor Dunne. The chief ordered all of these men to go to Attorney Comerford's office for instructions.

"I went to Comerford's office," Doran said, "and he explained that because of Mayor Dunne's goodness to us we should work for him in every way in our power. He said there was no reason to give us directions as we knew our own business better than he did."

Asked to Contribute Money.

"What do you know of campaign contributions solicited of you during the recent campaign?" asked Commissioner Prentiss.

"The only demand upon us was when Lieut. Jenkins said that any man who wished to could turn in a few dollars to the fund," was the reply. "All of the contributions were turned in to Gene Fitzpatrick, private secretary to the captain of the district. I didn't give anything. The men talked a great deal about the matter and said that they didn't like it. They said never before had they been asked to give money for a political campaign."

Policeman P. H. De Vine of the Twelfth precinct told of being ordered by Chief Collins to discard his uniform and go about among his friends and get votes for Mayor Dunne.

"What did this political work consist of?" he was asked.

"I went to two political meetings, took part in a torchlight parade, and saw a few of my friends," was the naïve reply. "My friends seemed to be for Mayor Dunne, so I didn't have to do much work. I just spent the time going about having a good time."

Policeman Owen Rush of Central detail caused considerable amusement by telling of supposed orders which Chief Collins was credited with giving to him which nobody else had heard of. At first he refused to answer any questions on the ground that he might incriminate himself, but after consultation with Attorney Dawson, who represented the policemen's association, he consented to answer questions.

"The chief just called me in to do regular police duty. He told me to look about for pickpockets and flimflam men," said the policeman.

"Why, a score of men have told of the meeting at which you seem to have been present, saying the chief told them to do political work," said Commissioner Prentiss.

"Well, he never told me nothing like that," said the policeman, looking at his attorney as if for information.

Regular Police Work Neglected.

Charles R. Oyen of the Thirty-fifth precinct, added his bit of information regarding the call of the chief for political workers from the ranks of the men who were receiving salaries from the city, but he insisted he had been told to do only regular police duty.

"Did you ever hear of any of these men who were called down to the chief catching any thieves or making an arrest of any kind?" asked Commissioner Powell.

"Well-er, I don't believe I ever did," confessed the witness, after considerable thought.

The session then adjourned until Monday.

"Hello" Girl Gets Floral Souvenir from Departing Mayor for Her Work.

MISS ETTA PACIUS

While preparing his farewell message to the council, and lingering over the pleasant incidents of his term of office, ex-Mayor Dunne bethought himself yesterday of the excellent telephone service with which the city hall has been blessed. As a result Miss Etta Pacius, 4362 Emerald avenue, the city hall telephone operator, received a note of appreciation and a box of American Beauty roses last night, though not before the donor had had some trouble in learning to whom he was indebted for the excellent service.

According to the rules of the company the telephone operators are not allowed to give their names over the wire, and the mayor had recourse to his secretary to obtain the information.

In reply to a question for this information the pleasant voice stated that "its" number was 2,723, and that even the mayor would have to apply to the Main manager for the operator's name. So the next call was directed to the manager, and Miss Pacius was identified as the obliging "hello" girl. In the evening the compliments of the former mayor and the bunch of roses arrived at the exchange at 203 Washington street, and at their proper destination in the hands of Miss Pacius.

POISON SUSPECT IS FREED

MRS. MARY SLADEK BAFFLES POLICE AT INVESTIGATION.

Is Released After Two Hours of Examination at Which She Was Charged with Murdering Her Mother and Attempting to Cause the Deaths of Her Father and Three Brothers—Will Be Kept Under Surveillance Until Inquest Is Held.

Mrs. Mary Sladek, 22 years old, 2849 North Harding avenue, who was charged by the police with murdering her mother and attempting to poison her father and three brothers, was released last evening after the police had examined her for two hours.

Capt. Haines and Lieut. Collins confessed themselves baffled by the woman's composure and protestations of innocence. She is still under police surveillance and will be watched by detectives until the coroner's inquest, which has been postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. Sladek's mother, Mrs. Mary Mette, 53 years old, died on April 15 from arsenical poisoning. The drug was mixed in the family flour barrel. Mrs. Mette's death was caused by eating some Bohemian fruit buns, which she herself had made. The father and three sons also were taken seriously ill after eating some of the buns. Frank Mette, the father, is still seriously ill from the effects of the arsenic.

Accused of Feigning Illness.

At the police station Mrs. Sladek was confronted with the statement of Dr. J. E. Waggoner, 3018 Elston avenue, the first physician called in, that she was not affected by the drug, but had merely feigned the symptoms exhibited by the rest of the family. He based his assertion on his observation that she had not vomited as the rest of the family had. Physicians say if she had partaken of the poisoned cakes she would have been sick in the same way that the rest of family was.

In answer to a question concerning the police charges, Mrs. Sladek said, "Let them go ahead; they are most awfully mistaken."

Mrs. Sladek's Varied Career.

The charge the police made against her is the latest incident in a varied career. Some of her earlier experiences were:

Married when 18 years old to Joseph Vesley.

Mother of two children, both of whom died before they were 4 months old.

Widow at 20 years old.

Married to Emil Sladek, 53 Emma street.

Robbed of $180 by holdup men near her residence, Ashland avenue and Augusta street, Dec. 15, and left bound and gagged in an alley.

Attempted to commit suicide immediately after this by inhaling gas.

Poisoned by eating sausage which her husband and Louis Miskin, a boarder, had refused to eat after being warned.

Attempted to commit suicide in a neighbor's house at 2849 North Harding avenue by turning on the gas after a quarrel with her husband and over money matters.

Deserted by her husband three weeks ago after a quarrel over money matters.

Reasons for Police Suspicion.

"From the first," Capt. Haines said, "I have felt that the arsenic was placed in the barrel by some member of the family. The barrel stood against a wall so far away that it could not have been reached from the outside. The only access to the storeroom where it stood was through a kitchen in which Frank Mette, the father, slept. In the daytime some member of the family worked in the room all the time.

"The mother was exonerated from suspicion by the fact that she ate some of the cakes and died from the effects. The father also ate heartily and was so seriously ill that for a time his life was despaired of.

"Joseph, the eldest son, was exonerated, and our investigation since has centered on the daughter. Her earlier attempts at suicide, her constant difficulties over money, and the resemblance between her and the woman who purchased rat poison at a drug store at Montrose boulevard and Elston avenue have added weight to the evidence.

"The main difficulty in the case has been the motive. It is awful to think that any member of a family should try to wipe out mother and father, brothers and sister for the sake of less than $2,000 insurance money. The whole family was insured for less than $2,000. The question of motive finally simmered down to that of insanity."

RAIL TIEUP DELAYS MANY

BROKEN C. AND N. W. BRIDGE HOLDS NORTH SHORE TRAINS.

Commuters Are Kept Away from Dinner for Two Hours—Evanston People Are Worst "Kickers"—Wilmette, Lake Forest, Winnetka, and All Suburbs Served by Road Are Affected—Evening Parties and Theaters Are Called Off.

There were a good many late dinners in Evanston and other north shore towns last night, and a broken bridge on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad was responsible. All trains on the Milwaukee division were delayed an hour or more. Some say two hours.

The break occurred in the gearing of the bridge over the north branch of the river, between the Clybourn and Deering station, just after it had been opened to permit the passage of huge lake craft. It was 5:10 o'clock. When the bridgetender tried to swing the structure back to permit the hungry suburbanites to continue their journey the bridge stuck.

It was nearly 7 o'clock before the bridge could be repaired. Meanwhile the suburban trains went round by way of Mayfair, causing much delay and harsh things to be said by waiting housewives, who can't be reasoned with when a good dinner is spoiled by waiting.

There was less delay for the suburbanites who live north of Evanston as far as Lake Forest, but all passengers bound for the north shore towns were late for dinner, and blamed the railroad company and the bridgetender and the huge lake craft that made the trouble.

Evanstonians Worst "Kickers."

Passengers for Evanston, who were the worst "kickers," were let off above the Central street station. From that point they were switched south in other trains. That is to say, they were switched south, theoretically. As a matter of fact, hundreds had to wait at the station for a long, long time before any trains appeared to take them to the two stations further south, and the way was far and the night was stormy and dark, and the walking was bad.

"Most of the delay was felt by Evanston passengers," said a Northwestern railroad official, apologetically. "It was one of those unavoidable accidents and no fault of the railroad company. The gearing of the bridge got out of order at 5:10 o'clock and everything was repaired at 6:45."

Suburb Engagements All Off.

The delay stirred the wrath of every suburbanite as far noroth as Waukegan. Residents of Ravenswood, Rogers Park, Wilmette, Winnetka, Kenilworth, Highland Park, and other towns dependent on the train service of the Northwestern said harsh things about the railroad company.

Many had planned to go to the opera, or had other theater or social engagements, and were obliged to cancel them because they did not get time to dress. As they had their tickets bought, they did not save any money in consequence of their enforced remaining at their residences. The southbound train schedule was knocked into a cocked hat also by the broken bridge, disappointing even those who had remained in the suburbs all day, consoling themselves with the reflection of a night of pleasure in a real city.

ANSON MEETS NEW OBSTACLE.

Work on Ball Park Halted Again, This Time for Alleged Lack of Frontage Consents.

Work on Capt. Anson's ball park at Sixty-third street and South Park avenue was halted again by orders of Commissioner Bartzen yesterday. Fresh from their defeat in Judge Honoré's court, property owners went to Commissioner Bartzen and asked that the work be stopped because of lack of frontage consents.

"I thought this case was decided," said Bartzen, and he communicated with Judge Honoré. He was informed that the question decided was whether Anson was violating the fire ordinances. Mr. Bartzen then ordered the temporary permit revoked.

"I do not believe a majority of the frontage consents has been obtained," said Bartzen. "The south park commissioners inform me that they have not given consent and their consent is necessary."

NEIGHBORS HEAR CLEW TO $173,000

Latest Theory of Theft Given by People Living Near Mrs. Hudson's Flat.

WHITE MAN IS SOUGHT.

Seen in Company of Colored Janitress at Her Ogden Avenue Apartment.

The secret service men trying to solve the mystery of the disappearance of $173,000 from the subtreasury have taken another tack, and are now searching for a well dressed white man said to have been in the company of Mrs. Willene J. Hudson at her flat, 254 Ogden avenue, about three weeks ago.

This is in line with the latest theory that Mrs. Hudson did not get the money herself, but may know the real thief, a subtreasury employé. It is now argued by the secret service that she may have taken the money from some hiding place in the subtreasury several nights following the theft and placed it in possession of the thief, who feared to take it from the building.

Assistant Superintendent of Police Schuettler entered into the search for the missing money yesterday.

In addition to the white man the secret service operatives are trying to locate a colored man—description unknown—who several days ago at the flat was heard to say:

"Well, I am going over to town to get pinched."

Seen Leaving the Flat.

The information about the white man was given the secret service operatives by a woman residing in the vicinity of the Hudson flat.

This man and a colored woman, supposed to be Mrs. Hudson, were seen to come down the front stairs. They separated at the street door, and the woman went north to the surgical supply house of V. Mueller, 266 Ogden avenue, while the man went south. Subsequently they met at Ogden avenue and Jackson boulevard.

The block in which the flat building is located is five sided. It is bounded by Ogden avenue, Wood street, Van Buren street, Hermitage avenue, and Jackson boulevard. The building fronts on both Ogden and Hermitage avenues. Capt. Porter discovered that he could gain entrance to Mrs. Hudson's flat by passing upstairs from Hermitage avenue to the roof, stepping over a tin gutter, and then down toward Ogden avenue.

At the rear of both sets of flats are bathrooms with windows, and it was through these windows that Capt. Porter and his assistants watched Mrs. Hudson for several days.

Overheard by a Neighbor.

Isabel Cready, a young girl living with her family in the third floor flat on the Hermitage avenue side, told Capt. Porter that while she was hanging clothes on the roof she could see the outlines of a man and woman in front of the window, and heard the man say he was going over to town to get pinched.

Capt. Porter also learned that one woman asked another if she was going to the store, and the reply was:

"No, I'm not taking any chances. If you go take these coupons and get me a half pound of candy."

A carpenter was busy all morning yesterday sawing holes about Mrs. Hudson's apartments. The shavings and broken wood were taken to the cellar on a small freight elevator. It was up this shaft that Porter climbed when he first got into the apartment. The secret service men made an awful mess of things in the cellar. The earthen floor has been spaded up. Excelsior and all other kinds of rubbish has been dumped out of barrels and boxes and "incisions" have been made in the walls. Still the sleuths found no money.

Latest Theory of the Theft.

Under the latest theory of the secret service it is pointed out that whoever stole the $173,000 from the cage of Assorting Teller George W. Fitzgerald Feb. 19 or 20 is likely to have secreted the money at some place in the subtreasury. During the hue and cry following the theft and the possibility that each employé would be searched as he left the building it is assumed that the thief feared to carry away the package. The natural thing for him to do under such conditions, it is argued, was to find some person not suspected who would take the money from its hiding place and out of the building.

The negro scrubwoman is the only person who had access to the subtreasury after 5 o'clock p. m., and she worked until 10 o'clock, doing pretty much as she pleased, for she was subjected to no surveillance by the government watchman. She easily could have concealed the package about her clothing and given it to the thief in exchange for a share big enough to make her rich for life.

Old Friend of Boldenweck.

This was one of the theories said to have been outlined to Assistant Chief Schuettler when he and Assistant Treasurer William Boldenweck, Capt. Porter of the secret service, and Assistant District Attorney R. W. Childs held a conference during the day.

Schuettler and Boldenweck have been close friends for a great many years, and it largely was on that account that Schuettler entered the case. The secret service men have been working day and night. They are few in number, and Mr. Boldenweck, bearing in mind Schuettler's success in detecting crime, and especially his persuasive manner with accused persons, was anxious for him to enter the case.

INVITES DOWNEY TO BUSSE CABINET

Mayor Offers Him Building Commissionership; Former Incumbent May Accept.

OTHER MEN SEEK PLACE.

If Doctors Fail to Agree on Health Officer, Podstata Is Probable Choice.

The question "Who will be building commissioner?" took the center of the municipal slatemaking stage yesterday. The other one, "Who will be health commissioner?" went over today when the physicians asked to name a man will meet and wrestle with the conundrum once more.

Mayor Busse yesterday practically said that if Joseph Downey, who already has served as building commissioner as well as commissioner of public works, would take the place he could have it. But Mr. Downey did not respond. He had the matter under consideration last night and will give an answer today or tomorrow.

The selection of a commissioner may not be made for some days yet, perhaps not until after Monday. The name of the health commissioner, however, it is expected, will be sent to the city council Monday night.

Others Seeking the Place.

Were it not for the fact that Mr. Downey, who made a fine record in the office in the Swift administration, is considered a possibility, and is being urged to accept, the fight for this place would lie between ex-Ald. John H. Jones, who is backed by the building interests, and George Beaumont, whom the architects are urging.

The names of John S. Thompson and Oliver Sollitt are also mentioned. The Sollitt candidacy seems to have had its birth in Springfield, where Mr. Sollitt is now serving as a state representative. It was announced he is the choice of the republican organization in the Sixth ward, where he lives.

Little attention is being paid to the Sollitt candidacy here in Chicago, however. Mayor Busse put a quietus on it in the evening when he said he did not care for the recommendations of ward organizations for the important offices. His desire was to get the best men for the places, irrespective of geographical considerations, and it would make no difference if they all had to come from the same ward.

Builders on Hand Early.

In urging the nomination of ex-Ald. Jones for building commissioner the builders showed more enterprise than the architects by being at the postoffice before 10 o'clock in the morning, the hour at which the mayor was scheduled to arrive. He came in a few minutes ahead of time himself, and so the builders got the first word. The architects, who came a little later, had to wait until the first delegation was through.

When William Grace, who headed the builders, had finished his speech Mayor Busse remarked:

"There is a man in your delegation who would make an ideal commissioner if he would accept the place," and he indicated Joseph Downey, who was there as a representative of the Builders' club.

Mr. Downey replied that he was there in behalf of Mr. Jones. The building organizations represented in the delegation were:

Builders' club—William Grace, Joseph Downey, A. E. Wells, James Hogan, George C. Prussing.

Masons' and Contractors' association—Andrew Lanquist, W. M. Crilly, Fritz Wagner, J. Hammond, F. A. Siebold.

Building Contractor's council—William D. O'Brien, John Griffiths, Charles W. Gindele.

Master Plumbers' association—William Redeke, R. J. Powers.

Carpenters' and Builders' association—John Rumpke, William Adams, George Gindele.

Cut Stone Contractors' association—E. Heldmair, A. F. Gibson.

Sheet Metal Contractors' association—A. De Conigh, Frank Veightman.

Architectural Iron league—Joseph Hansell, A. E. Coleman.

Jones Chief Author of Ordinance.

The special plea made for ex-Ald. Jones was that while he was in the council he was chairman of the special committee which framed the present building law after the Iroquois theater fire.

The architects presented a memorial in favor of Mr. Beaumont in which they urged his appointment on the ground of "his close association with the architectural and building interests of the city, and his knowledge not only of general conditions but of the ordinances and their practical workings, he having been instrumental in their formulation." It was signed by:

Samuel A. Treat.	Mayer J. Sturm.
Peter B. Wight.	Alfred S. Alschuler.
Arthur Wolfersdorf.	John J. Hamilton.
Samuel N. Crowden.	Peter J. Weber.
Irving K. Pond.	William B. Mundie.
Robert S. Berlin.

Chances Favor Podstata.

If the committee of physicians come to an agreement this afternoon as to the man wanted for health commissioner he will be named. If the physicians divide, as they did at their caucus on Wednesday, and quarrel among themselves, Mayor Busse may have to take the appointment into his own hands. His agreement was to name a man whom the medical profession in Chicago would support unitedly in his work. He does not want to start out with a row in the profession itself.

With the doctors disagreeing, the present chances favor the appointment of Dr. Podstata, formerly superintendent of the infirmary at Dunning, and now at the head of the Elgin insane asylum. Dr. Podstata was the right hand man of President Brundage of the county board when the Dunning institution was being renovated and rehabilitated. Mayor Busse's trusted advisers have great confidence in him, and are urging his selection.

It is not certain that he would like the place. Some of the country politicians who have been used to controlling things at Elgin, however, have been making matters uncomfortable for him of late, and if he came back to Chicago he would have a freer hand.

Dr. M. L. Harris is expected to preside today at the physicians' meeting.

A caucus of some of the physicians was held in room 323 of the Grand Pacific hotel last evening. This room is the headquarters of Dr. C. Pruyn Stringfield, house physician of the hotel. Besides him and Dr. W. T. Belfield, four or five others were present. It is understood that they generally favored Dr. Podstata.

Wants Ayers to Replace Caverly.

State Treasurer Smulski has recommended to Mr. Brundage that when he becomes corporation counsel he appoint Frank D. Ayers in place of ex-Judge Caverly as the city attorney in charge of personal damage suits. Mr. Ayers was Mr. Smulski's chief assistant when he was city attorney and made a good record.

Mayor Busse was feeling better yesterday than at any time since his accident. His day's outing at Fox Lake on Thursday seemed to have done him good.

Postmaster Campbell has asked the authorities at Washington whether it is necessary for him to resign now as state senator or if he may wait until the close of the session of the legislature, presumably May 3. It would avoid complications at Springfield if Senator Campbell could stay in the legislature until adjournment.

One of the Prize Winning Sawyers in South Chicago's Annual Contest.

MRS. NICHOLAS NELSON

Mrs. Nicholas Nelson, 339 Watt street, South Chicago, boasts that she can outsaw any man in the suburb. She has proved that she has more than ordinary powers when it comes to sawing wood.

The last demonstration of her prowess in this line was given Thursday evening, when, at the annual wood sawing contest of the Myrtle Lodge, Knights of the Maccabees, she was among the first five of twenty-six contestants who made the wood fly in every direction.

Mrs. Nelson's manner of procedure showed from the first that there was to be no loafing in any of the other contestants expected to be in the running. Throwing a hard piece of maple across the sawbuck, she leaned over it and began to draw her saw vigorously across the timber. Every stroke counted.

"It's all in the strength of the arm," she said triumphantly, exhibiting her biceps to the wondering gaze of men and women who had seen her win the prize.

BEGIN FIGHT FOR OFFICE.

MRS. M'CULLOCH AND W. S. MOORE ANNOUNCE PLANS.

Evanston's Woman Justice of the Peace Says She Will Go to Legislature for Special Enactment if Refused Commission by Deneen, Her Classmate — Defeated Candidate Talks to Governor, and Prepares to Contest His Opponent.

At a reception last night in honor of her recent election to the office of justice of the peace in Evanston, Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch said that, in case she is refused her commission of office by Gov. Deneen, through the efforts of her opponent, William S. Moore, she will go before the state legislature and ask for a special enactment empowering her to hold office.

That Mrs. McCulloch's eligibility to hold the office will be contested by Mr. Moore, whom she defeated by 1,800 votes, was announced authentically in the afternoon by the unsuccessful candidate. After a search of the statutes by himself and his attorney, Henry C. Geeting, Mr. Moore has concluded that, in his opinion, a woman cannot hold a judicial office under the state constitution because she is not a legal voter. Another point Mr. Moore has cited is that the city clerk of Evanston issued a certificate to Mrs. McCulloch before the election board had completed its work and declared her elected.

Moore Talks to Deneen.

Upon the discovery of these points, Mr. Moore talked to Gov. Deneen by telephone. Later he said the governor had promised to delay his approval of Mrs. McCulloch's election until the case can be laid before him more fully. Mr. Moore will go to Springfield today. He did not attend the reception last night, although given a special invitation. It was said that he was absent on account of poor health. In speaking of Mr. Moore's contention, Attorney Geeting said:

"A woman's right to vote for school trustee, or for officers of some woman's club, does not make her a legal voter. The term 'legal voter' in this state means a man—more than 21 years of age—and one having the other requisites. To be eligible to the office of justice of the peace the candidate must be a legal voter. It is strictly a constitutional office.

"To issue a certificate of election to a woman for such office would be revolutionary and in defiance of established law. Votes cast for a woman for such office are not votes, in reality, but simply superfluous and irrelevant scribbling, as though the ballots were scratched with names of candidates for captain of a football team."

Mrs. McCulloch Not Worried.

The possibility of the contest having any weight with Gov. Deneen did not seem to worry Mrs. McCulloch. After standing in the center of the upper parlor of the Evanston Y. M. C. A. building and greeting several hundred guests Mrs. McCulloch addressed the meeting.

"The continuous report that my eligibility to office will be attacked does not worry me," she said. "I am sure Gov. Deneen will sign my commission. The papers are now at Springfield. Don't you really think he ought to sign them? Gov. Deneen used to be a classmate of mine in law school."

Mrs. McCulloch said she did not look upon the office as a particular honor, except in that it shows women are coming to the front. She said that, in pursuance of her duty as justice, she would try to instill in it the principles of the home.

Paden and Frost Attend.

Other speakers were former Judge Charles G. Neely, Mrs. B. A. Green, president of the Evanston Woman's club, under the auspices of which the reception was given; Mrs. C. A. Goodnall, and Prof. J. Scott Clark of the Northwestern university. A letter from Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin was read. Mayor Elect J. E. Paden and Col. A. S. Frost, defeated mayoralty candidate, were present. Music was furnished by Apfel Bach.

Cleveland, O., April 12.—It was made public today that burglars entered the home of M. G. Vilas, a director of the Standard Oil company, last night, and carried away $1,000 worth of brass fixtures and valuable furnishings. The Vilas family is absent from the city.

TAKES THE CAR ORDINANCE

CITY RAILWAY DECIDES TO ACCEPT TRACTION MEASURE.

Bond of $100,000 Will Be Presented to the Council Monday Night for Approval—New Rails Are Ordered and Engineer Arnold Says Work of Reconstructing Tracks Probably Will Begin by May 1—Union Company Expected to Follow Suit.

Formal acceptance of the traction ordinance by the Chicago City railway directors yesterday marked a step towards the rehabilitation of Chicago's traction system.

The new city council, to meet next Monday night, will have submitted to it the acceptance of the company and the $100,000 bond which is required under the ordinance. Following the council's approval of the bond immediate steps will be taken towards the work of rehabilitation.

The directors of the City Railway company met in the morning in the offices of President T. E. Mitten and immediately adopted a resolution authorizing Mr. Mitten to file the bond with the city clerk and notify Mayor Busse of the company's acceptance of the ordinances. Subsequent to this meeting the directors of the Chicago City railroad company met and adopted a similar resolution. The latter company was formed by direction of the city in order to empower the City railway company to extend its lines to the west and north sides in case the Union Traction company should not accept the ordinance.

Reconstruction to Begin Soon.

No steps were taken towards the appointment of an engineer to sit on the board of supervising engineers, nor was the matter mentioned, as under the ordinance the City railway company is given thirty days to make this appointment, which will be left in the hands of President Mitten.

Bion J. Arnold chairman of the board of supervising engineers, said the first step to be taken towards reconstruction will be the retrackage of the system. New rails have been ordered and the first consignment will arrive in Chicago on May 1, when work will begin on the 250 miles of the City railway company.

Under the scheme prepared by Mr. Arnold the new tracks will be wider apart than the present ones, as a preparation for the wide and roomy cars which Mr. Arnold promises will be the finest conveyances of their kind in the world.

The action taken by the City railway company is expected to be followed promptly by the Union Traction company. W. W. Gurley, counsel for the traction company, is expected to return to Chicago today from New York, where he has been for two days in consultation with the eastern representatives of the corporation concerning methods of reconstruction. He probably will be accompanied by some of the New York men, who will continue their conferences with their Chicago colleagues.

Employes to Ask Higher Pay.

While matters are thus moving smoothly towards a final and satisfactory settlement of the timeworn traction problem, a slight cloud has arisen on the horizon in the shape of rumored trouble with the traction employés.

Division 260 of the Street Railway Employés' union, composed of the City railway employés, will meet tonight to formulate their demands for a new agreement to take the place of the old one which expires on May 31. It was reported that the union would insist on a 32½ cent scale as against the 27½ cents which has been offered by the company. C. O. Pratt, chairman of the executive committee of the international union, has been in Chicago for the last two days conferring with the local union leaders.

NEW POST TO CARDINAL DEL VAL

Appointment as Secretary of Apostolic Briefs May Mean Dismissal as Secretary of State.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, April 12.—Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, has been appointed secretary of apostolic briefs in succession to the late Cardinal Luigi Macchi. The office never before has been associated with the secretaryship of state. The appointment again suggests Cardinal del Val's impending dismissal from the latter office, but it is denied any such action is intended.

PREPARE TO VOTE ON CHARTER BILL

Legislators Promise a Clear Path Next Week for Chicago's Legislation.

COMMITTEE MEETS HERE.

Fight on School Revenue Provision Develops During the Hearing.

A clear track for Chicago charter legislation at Springfield was promised yesterday by Senator Orville F. Berry, who said an effort will be made to dispose of the measure, in which the city is vitally interested, some time next week.

Senator Berry and other members of the house and senate committees spent the day in joint session in the city council chamber, obtaining the final views of the framers of the charter bill and clearing up some points which have given rise to opposition on the part of the country members of the legislative bodies. At the conclusion of the hearing they declared they had obtained about all the light on the matter that could be had and were ready, as Senator Berry expressed it, "either to pass the charter measure or to put it to sleep."

"We realize the necessity of legislation right away," said he, "and regard our duty in providing a new charter for Chicago as more important than anything else now before the legislature. Everything will be sidetracked at Springfield until the charter is disposed of."

Joint Meeting on Thursday.

The announcement was made that the final meetings of the house and senate committees to consider the proposed legislation will be held not later than next Wednesday. The committees then will meet separately, but on Thursday they will hold a joint meeting, which probably will determine the fate of the charter bill.

On behalf of the charter convention, Chairman Milton J. Foreman offered to send a committee to Springfield to explain any special questions arising. The legislators agreed this would be a good plan, and several Chicagoans probably will be present at the sessions of the committees next week, to make a last plea for the passage of the measure as it now stands.

Besides Chairman Foreman and the charter representatives, the hearing in the council chamber was attended by ten members of the senate committee, in addition to Chairman Berry, while Chairman Kittleman and seven members of the house committee also were present.

The legislators were interested chiefly in the revenue features of the proposed measure. They wanted to know what relation the revenues of Chicago, under the new charter, would bear to the state, and whether the state, by the passage of the charter law, would be deprived of any revenues which now come to it.

Fight Over School Revenue.

In this connection it developed that a strong fight will be made to have the clause governing the revenues for school purposes materially changed.

Representative Clayton E. Crafts said he would introduce an amendment to this section of the bill, which will guarantee the board of education at least 2 per cent of the total 5 per cent maximum revenue that the city is empowered to collect by taxes under the proposed measure.

Mr. Crafts said the city council should not be permitted to cut the income of the schools. Senator McKenzie asked on what he based his assumption that the city council would discriminate.

"You don't mean to say that Ald. Foreman here, for instance, is an enemy of the school system? He is a fair representative of the city councilmen, isn't he?" asked the senator.

"Well, you can't keep the schools out of politics—that's all," retorted Mr. Crafts. "If the school board finds it is running short of the necessary money to carry on a decent school system it will have to apply to the council for an appropriation. Then there will be political trades and deals of all sorts."

"I understand that in the past the Chicago schools have been poorly administered by certain boards of education," said Senator McKenzie. "If you give the finances into the hands of the city council you at least insure that they will be handled by an elective body and one that is responsible to the people for its acts."

Mr. Crafts was supported by the Rev. R. A. White of the board of education. He said that the present charter clause will make the school board members "simply creatures of the city council."

Shepard Defends the Bill.

Frank L. Shepard, who drew the revenue clause in the charter bill, defended it.

"Our idea was that the power of levying and administering appropriations for various purposes should be vested in some central body that was responsible to the city of Chicago," he said. "Mr. Crafts' amendment would make the board of education, an appointive body, superior to the appointing body."

Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago told the legislative members that there was no intention on the part of the framers of the charter to divorce Chicago from the state.

"There seems to be great apprehension," he said, "that Chicago wants to secede. As a matter of fact, that is a statutory and constitutional impossibility."

He explained, for the benefit of legislators who might doubt the advisability of granting broad powers to Chicago, that in 125 cities of the United States practically the same charters as that framed for Chicago are in successful operation.

Woman Suffragists Make Plea.

A delegation of woman suffragists appeared before the legislators in the morning seeking to have a clause incorporated in the charter for the extension of the voting privilege to their sex. The lawmakers listened to the appeal, but gave no indication that it would be granted. Among the women present were Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin, Miss Anna Nicholes, Mrs. I. S. Blackwelder, Miss Sophronisba Breckenridge, Mrs. Harriet M. Van Der Vaart, and Miss Helen Hood.

WEST BADEN COMMITTEE RESTS

Councilmen Hold No Meeting, Expecting to Finish Work in Time to Return Monday.

West Baden Springs, West Baden, Ind., April 12.—[Special.]—Whether it was because it snowed again today or they were lazy was not announced, but the six Chicago aldermen who are making up the list of the standing committees for the next council of that city did not even hold a meeting today. They spent all their time around the hotel rotunda, with the regular trips to No. 7 spring, the weather being too bad for outdoor exercise. The explanation given was the work is now so well cleaned up there is no hurry, and they do not want to get back to Chicago before Monday morning anyhow.

TWO, STRUCK BY AUTOS, SUE.

D. F. Crilly Defendant in Action for $10,000 and J. G. Coleman Jr. for $20,000.

D. F. Crilly, president of the south park commissioners and his son, Edgar Crilly, are defendants to a suit for personal injuries begun yesterday by Mrs. L. J. Keefe, 276 Winthrop avenue.

The complainant demands $10,000, alleging that she suffered injuries last August when struck by the Crilly automobile in Sheridan road which nearly resulted in her death.

J. G. Coleman Jr. is defendant in a suit for $20,000 damages filed by Leopold Daube, 552 Forty-sixth place, who suffered in a collision between his buggy and Coleman's automobile two months ago at Michigan avenue and Eighteenth street.

"PUPILS" BEGIN TO SAVE.

ALMOST FIFTY TAKE UP JUDGE CLELAND'S NEW PLAN.

Municipal Jurist Explains to His "Class" of Alleged Habitual Drunkards How They May Start an Account in a Downtown Bank and Receive $5 if They Promise to Reform for a Year and Make Regular Deposits.

Almost fifty of Municipal Judge Cleland's "pupils" expressed willingness to start an account in a downtown bank when the judge inaugurated his savings bank scheme last night.

The judge made clear to each of his "pupils" the inducements of bank officials for prospective investors. None showed any hesitancy in accepting a card from the court. Judge Cleland told them officials of the Union Trust bank had agreed to give $5 to an investor on his promise to lead a reformed life for one year and make small deposits every month.

"I am doing this only for your own interest," said Judge Cleland to an old man who said he could easily start a bank account with money he usually spent for whisky. "Inducements of the bank officials are such that no one will be sorry if he start to save."

Show Books in Two Months.

Prospective investors will appear before Judge Cleland at the end of two months to display their bank books. The court made no attempt to explain his scheme to those who, he thought, were in financial straits, but advised them not to hesitate if they saw their way clear.

"This scheme is not only meant for husbands, but young women, boys, and girls are included," he said.

The judge thought his first "pupil" would balk at the savings scheme. He was Frank Gustafson, 64 West Twenty-third street, who said he could not listen to any proposition.

"My insurance policies are so high I cannot afford to make any investments," said Gustafson, whose wife had charged him with drunkenness. He changed his mind when the court had explained.

"Why, that is a first class scheme, and I will get in on it right now," he said, and took a card from the court's desk.

Judge Has Many Reports.

For almost an hour the judge heard reports from twenty reformed drunkards and others for whom he had obtained employment. Some were released on suspended fines, while others were told to report to the court in three weeks.

Among the alleged negligent husbands who said they were leading better lives was George Haut, 412 Carroll avenue. Haut is a saloonkeeper. He caused much amusement when he said he was drinking only soft drinks.

"It is hard to believe that you, the proprietor of a saloon, can stop drinking whisky," said the court. "If you make good all I want is your photograph."

Girl Wife Promises to Be Good.

Mrs. Mary Moore, 18 years old, who a week ago was arrested on the complaint of her husband, who said she drank whisky and neglected her baby, told the court she would abstain from drink in the future and care for her baby. Her husband told the court he believed his wife would keep her promise, and begged that she be given another chance. His request was granted.

Ten boys, from 12 to 16 years old, were taken before the court by their parents, who said they could do nothing with them. The boys were accused of frequenting billiard rooms and 5 cent theaters and staying away from school. The court reprimanded them and discharged them with suspended fines.

TWO STOCK RAISERS BARRED FROM REGISTERING CATTLE.

Minnesota and Nebraska Men, Against Whom Charges Were Filed, Cannot Record Their Product.

Directors of the American Short Horn Breeders' association yesterday barred W. O. Mers of Monticello, Minn., and W. M. McLemore of Kearney, Neb., from registering their stock in the American short horn herd book.

An investigation showed that suspicions relative to their methods of registering stock were well founded. No defense was made when the board met at the Grand Pacific hotel.

The board took a vigorous stand against the "tuberculin test" on the ground that it was farcical and meant nothing but a loss of time and money. No action was taken, however, but the subject will be taken up at the annual meeting of the association. An attempt to obtain an amendment to the law may be made.

POSTOFFICE HAS A ROMANCE.

South Chicago Postmistress to Be Married After Twenty Years of Correspondence.

Twenty years ago the postmistress of South Chicago, Phenie Lauritzen, sold a postage stamp to H. M. Brown, a good looking electrician who had just come to work in the mills of the Illinois Steel company. Since then the postmistress has sent Brown something like 2,000 postage stamps and Brown has sent her enough foreign stamps to fill a stamp album.

A few weeks after Brown bought that 2 cent stamp he left South Chicago and has traveled all over the world. At every place he stopped he found a packet of letters from the postmistress and mailed a packet in exchange. A few days ago a letter came postmarked Manila, P. I., and as soon as she had read it Miss Lauritzen began preparations for a wedding.

Brown announced that he had been granted a leave of absence from the Manila fire department and is now on his way back to South Chicago. On May 8 the marriage is to take place at the home of Miss Lauritzen, 9008 Houston avenue.

TRACTION EMPLOYE IS KILLED.

Ralph Miller Is Crushed to Death and Thomas Rock Seriously Injured in an Accident.

Ralph Miller, 25 years old, 3845 Langley avenue, was killed, and Thomas Rock, 35 years old, 2347 Wentworth avenue, was injured severely yesterday afternoon when they were caught between a wagon laden with copper wire and a wrecking wagon.

Both men were employed by the Chicago City railway company. They were in charge of a wagon containing a load of copper cable which had stalled in a rut at Sixty-third street and Wentworth avenue. The motorman of a Sixty-third street car moved the car forward in an attempt to push the loaded wagon from the rut, but the car upset the wagon and crushed the two men, who were between it and the wrecking wagon.

S. J. Hirsch, 35 years old, 1728 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, was crossing the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks at Payne street, Evanston, when a passenger train struck the vehicle, demolishing it, killing the horse, and seriously injuring Hirsch.

BRUNDAGE IN FAREWELL TOUR.

Makes Last Inspection of New County Building Before Leaving Office of President of Board.

Twenty-four citizens and members of the board of county commissioners accompanied President Brundage of the county board yesterday on a tour of inspection of the new county building. The purpose of the tour was a final inspection of old and familiar grounds before the president of the board leaves his office.

An informal committee of six, who have acted in an advisory way in conjunction with President Brundage since the construction of the new county building was begun, were present. They were David B. Jones, John G. Shedd, William Boldenweck, Charles L. Hutchinson, Walter H. Wilson, and John M. Ewen.

WILL INVESTIGATE SCHOOL POLITICS.

Inquiry Into Conduct of Teachers Who Sought Votes for Dunne Is Promised.

TAKEN UP BY COMMITTEE.

Increase of Board of District Superintendents Is Deferred for Lack of Funds.

The political activity of the unionized school teachers, involving the collection of funds for the Dunne campaign in the public schools during school hours, the circulation through the schools of vicious attacks upon Fred A. Busse, and the intimidation of teachers who were unwilling to bow obedience to the demands of Margaret Haley, are to be investigated by the school management committee.

This decision was reached by the committee at a late hour last evening after information regarding specific cases in which federation teachers had shown a disregard for the rules of the board had been placed in the hands of President Emil W. Ritter.

President Ritter carried the complaints into the committee room and laid them before that body. At once the committee went into executive session and discussed the advisability of making an investigation.

Full Investigation Promised.

What went on in the committee room no member of the board would say. Dr. Cornelia De Bey was inclined to treat the whole matter of the violation of the rules by the campaigning teachers as a huge joke. She shook her head negatively when asked if she thought the investigation would amount to anything. President Ritter was the only member of the committee who would make a statement. All the other members said he had been delegated to do the talking and referred all inquirers to him.

"I laid the information given to me before the committee," said President Ritter. "The committee will make a thorough investigation."

The information presented to the committee was substantially identical with that printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning. It included a copy of the letter sent to the schools and signed "Margaret Haley," in which the teachers were asked to work for a large attendance at the Auditorium meeting, at which Fred A. Busse was attacked, and also to help in the work of addressing copies of the Home Defender, the prohibitionist organ which contained an attack on Mr. Busse.

Other information given to the committee by President Ritter concerned the collection of $29 for the Dunne campaign fund from the teachers of the Sexton school during school hours and the activity of teachers in different parts of the city in canvassing for Dunne votes.

Trustee Mills Is Hopeful.

Trustee Wiley W. Mills assured the committee that Mayor Busse will not make many changes in the personnel of the present board. A resolution was offered by Trustee Louis F. Post calling for a postponement of the work of reorganizing the board of district superintendents until after the "new board members to be appointed by Mayor Busse have taken their seats" in July.

Trustee Mills said the board members seemed to have forgotten that the board is a continuous body, and added:

"The board of the coming year is to be much the same as the present board."

In his resolution Trustee Post announced the discovery that the board has not enough money to permit it to carry out its plans to increase the size of the board of district superintendents from three members to ten. He said "educational necessity" requires a board of ten district superintendents, and the schools cannot be supervised properly with a smaller number, but the employment of seven more district superintendents was made impossible because of lack of funds.

"Only three months of the present school year are left," explained Mr. Post, "and it is hardly worth while to enlarge the board of district superintendents for such a short period. Any action taken in the matter by us might embarrass the new board."

Dr. Guerin Is Displeased.

Dr. John Guerin declared he regarded the supervision of the schools as most important, and added:

"We are neglecting the most important part of our work by shirking this responsibility. We must not let it go over to another board."

The committee voted to defer action on the Post resolution for two weeks.

Dr. Guerin took up the question of what he called a discrimination between the examinations of graduates of the Normal school and of teachers coming into the service from outside of the city. He declared the examinations of the city teachers were so easy that the Chicago schools had become a "mere dumping ground for outside teachers."

The committee set April 23 as the date for a special meeting to consider the question raised by Dr. Guerin. The establishment of the system of advisory councils of teachers, contemplated in the De Bey report, was deferred until a special meeting set for April 22.

Wants Military Drill Stopped.

The committee also took up the question of abolishing military tactics at the Parental school. Trustee Mills moved that the teaching of tactics be abolished.

"Have you ever seen one of the drills at the school?" demanded Trustee Sonsteby.

"No," replied Trustee Mills.

City Prosecuting Attorney Howard S. Taylor appeared before the buildings and grounds committee and protested against the smoke nuisance at the Englewood High school. He said he appeared as a private citizen. The committee promised to see what could be done to abate the nuisance.

VOLIVA IS FORCED TO YIELD.

Announces Meeting of Council to Prepare for Selection of General Overseer of Christian Catholic Church.

Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion City at a meeting held in the Tabernacle last night, announced the council of twelve would be summoned next Tuesday to consider the conference next fall, at which the general overseer of the Christian Catholic church is to be chosen.

This action virtually was forced on Voliva by the opposition, but it does not mean that he has given up hope of preventing the assembling of the conference. He said the twelve would hold "a session of prayer to determine whether the Lord desires that a conference be held."

Voliva's action was taken after he learned that Deacon Alexander Granger had secured permission from Receiver John C. Hately to hold a series of meetings in the college building at which Overseer William H. Piper is to speak. It was Voliva who deposed Piper from the position of overseer in the Chicago branch of the church. The first of these Piper meetings was held last night and drew nearly as large a crowd as the one over which Voliva presided.

OPPOSE CITY'S SAMPLING MILK.

Dealers Bring Suit to Enjoin It from Enforcing Ordinance as Done at Present.

The right of the city to take samples of milk and institute proceedings when the samples are not up to the standard is contested in a bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday by John Stevenson and 200 other milk dealers. Petitioners argue that the city has no legal right "arbitrarily and without right or authority to take samples of milk for inspection purposes."

It is set forth that inspectors in nearly every instance take excessive quantities of milk for the supposed purpose of analysis. Much of this milk, it is set forth, is never examined, as the city has not the facilities. They petition the court to enjoin the city.

RAIN OF MONEY FOR PEACE PLAN.

W. T. Stead Captures Carnegie Institute Dedication Ceremonies at Pittsburg.

HE PLEADS FOR $100,000.

Showers of Coin from All Parts of Hall to Aid Pilgrimage to The Hague.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—[Special.]—The Carnegie institute dedicatory ceremonies were captured bag and baggage today by W. T. Stead and his dream of universal peace.

The great audience cheered the London man for five minutes after he had explained his plan for an international pilgrimage to The Hague congress.

Then there came a veritable rain of money upon the stage. From all parts of the music hall men threw coins at the advocate of world peace, in order to start the fund of $100,000 he asked for in order to send a pilgrimage to The Hague.

Plans Great Pilgrimage.

Mr. Stead's plan is the one he advocated in his address at Plymouth church at Brooklyn, N. Y., last Sunday evening. Briefly, the plan provides for the appointment of twelve representative Americans as a nucleus of a pilgrimage of peace. The twelve men are to wait on President Roosevelt and ask him to instruct his delegates at The Hague to support a universal alliance for peace, to be known as the United States of the World.

The twelve American pilgrims early in May would start for Europe. At London they would be joined by four pilgrims from each of the three Scandinavian countries, and the Americans and Scandinavians, together with twelve British pilgrims, would present their petition to the king at Buckingham palace.

Visit to Every Nation.

The thirty-six pilgrims would then cross over to Paris. The same thing would be repeated there. Receptions by the president of the republic and his ministers, the municipality, and the chamber of commerce would afford ample demonstration of the loyalty of France to the principle of fraternity.

The pilgrims, now swollen to forty-eight by the addition of twelve French pilgrims, would pickup others at Geneva, and then go on to Rome. From Rome the pilgrims, now sixty-two in number, would go to Russia, and eighty-six would arrive at Berlin, ninety-eight would reach Brussels, and then 100 would finally round up at The Hague to present their petition to the conference, which is to assemble on June 1.

Wants Only $100,000.

Mr. Stead told his hearers today that he only needed $100,000 to make the pilgrimage a success. To raise this sum he proposed that every boy and girl in colleges and universities throughout the United States donate 50 cents toward the fund needed. He said the lesson furnished to Europe by such a movement would be an influential factor in the quest for international peace.

The suggestion came at the end of his address, and he sat down amid loud applause. After the clapping and cheering had continued for five minutes Mr. Stead reappeared at the front of the stage and said:

"My friends, what are you clapping for? Do you think that every one of you who is clapping would give 50 cents for that pilgrimage?"

The response to the question was a rain of 5 cent pieces upon the floor of the rostrum.

It is said tonight that many colleges will announce their intention to contribute shortly. The Pittsburg branch of the National Peace society has taken up the matter, and the Grand Army posts have presented Mr. Stead with a resolution of thanks for his effort for peace.

Stead Blames Newspapers.

Mr. Stead in his address criticized a certain class of sensational newspapers as being the real mischiefmakers of the world. He said, in part:

"I have jut made a journey through ten countries for the purpose of finding out what the next steptoward international peace will be. I have seen three kings, two queens, one prince regent, and all the prime ministers, foreign ministers, ambassadors, and public men that were worth seeing. And I found them all unanimous upon two things. The first was that they were quite sure that, whatever might be the case with the other nine countries, they could declare with certainty that their government and their nation were most absolutely devoted to peace and were most resolutely determined to prevent war.

"The second point upon which they were all agreed was that the greatest if not the only danger to the peace of the world lay in the existence of a number of violent, unscrupulous, and irresponsible newspapers, which were constantly engaged in making mischief.

Journalists for War.

"The imperial chancellor of Germany, Prince von Bülow, said to me:

"'The emperor is for peace, the king is for peace, all the goverhments are for peace, the parliaments are for peace, and the great industrial and commercial classes are for peace. Only the journalists are for war. Diplomats have to spend all their time running about here and there trying to put out the fires which the newspapers kindle.'"

Eighteen years ago, Mr. Stead said, the German ambassador in Russia told him that the peace of the world could be secured by the hanging of twelve editors.

Mr. Stead said he did not recommend either the gallows or the electric chair, but it ought not to be beyond the resources of civilization for laws to be passed which would confine to prison every journalist who could be convicted of having false or misleading statements in scare heads calculated to inflame national animosity against the neighboring nation and to endanger the maintenance of peace.

Exercises of the Day.

Among the speakers today were Sir William Henry Preece, London; Ernst von Ihne, Berlin; Sir Robert S. Ball, London; Lieut. Gen. von Loewenfeld, Berlin; and Leonce Benedite, Paris.

The banquet given by the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, the founder, was held tonight. Mr. Carnegie made his appearance at this function, after being absent all day. Due, it was stated, from fatigue occasioned by yesterday's ceremonies. All the foreign and American guests attended.

John D. Congratulates.

Many messages were received today from all parts of the world congratulating Mr. Carnegie and Pittsburg in possessing the great institute. One came from John D. Rockefeller, who wrote:

Lakewood, N. J., April 11.—Andrew Carnegie, Pittsburg—Please accept my hearty congratulations on your great and good speech on the dedication of Carnegie institute in your home city of Pittsburg. It has the right ring. I am with you. You have my best wishes for the success for all your grand efforts to help your fellow men. I hope and trust that our prosperous men the country over will be stimulated to emulate your noble example. I believe that untold good would result therefrom. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

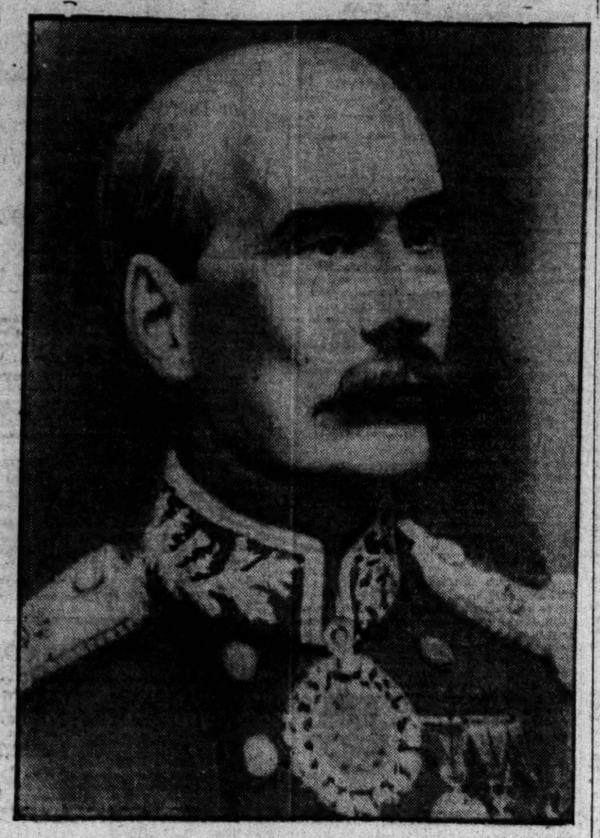

Mr. Carnegie replied as follows:

John D. Rockefeller, Lakewood, N. J.—Many thanks fellow worker, in the task of distributing surplus wealth for the good of others. I clasp your hand. Your congratulations highly valued. ANDREW CARNEGIE.

Tomorrow the Western University of Pennsylvania will confer honorary degrees on the foreign and American guests, and in the afternoon the party will go by boat to the mill district of the city, where they will be given an opportunity to see the great steel mills in operation.

Scotch Knight Whom a Toast to Carnegie Tempted to Take First Drink of Liquor.

Sir Robert Cranston of Scotland did Andrew Carnegie great honor in a unique way at a hotel bar in Pittsburg the other evening. When a toast to the ironmaster-philanthropist was proposed Sir Robert hesitated a moment and then said that in honor of the "laird of Skibo" he would take his first drink, and asked for some claret. Sir Robert is colonel-commandant of the Royal Scots, and has been lord provost of Edinburgh. He is 61 years old and never drank a drop of liquor until the toast to Carnegie tempted him.

WOULD-BE MATINEE SUICIDE ACCUSED OF FORGING CHECKS

Reason for Sensational Attempt at Death by Robert Crow of Pittsburg Comes to Light.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—[Special.]—The real reason for the attempted suicide of Robert M. Crow, 22 years old, who fired a bullet into his body while standing in a box at the Grand opera house during the performance Wednesday afternoon, became public today in spite of all efforts of members of his family to suppress the facts. Although the young man is the nephew of H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust company, the H. C. Frick bank, with a $23,000,000 surplus, he is charged with having passed bogus checks. At the time he attempted suicide detectives were looking for him.

After Crow had been taken to the hospital his uncles, H. C. and Attorney W. C. McEldowney, declared that the young man was insane, that he possessed a mania to do some sensational act, and that his mania, which they characterized as "Pittsburg paranoia," was caused largely by the deep interest which he took in the trial of his friend, Harry K. Thaw. It now develops that he was trying to get rich by beating the stock market, and that his losses were heavy.

When all his own money was gone, it is alleged that he started to raise funds by passing bad checks. W. S. Smith, a druggist, cashed checks for Crow to the amount of $350. Three checks were drawn on the Washington Trust company and came back to Smith as worthless.

On Jan. 18 Smith went before Magistrate Kirby and made information charging Crow with false pretense. Crow pleaded with the officers to give him time in which to make good the checks. The time agreed upon expired last Monday, and as Crow had not made good the detectives started on a hunt for him. He heard that they were after him, and then it is believed he planned to take his own life.

It is expected Crow's relatives will make good his alleged shortages. It is believed he will recover.

LIGHT ON SHEPPARD DEALS

SUIT TO COLLECT $21,000 ON NOTES MAY DISCLOSE MUCH.

Loans Made by Everett O. Fisk, Brother of Professor Repudiated by Garrett Biblical Institute, and Now Purchaser of Paper, Demands Payment—Troubles of Former Business Manager of Northwestern University Partly Disclosed Last Year.

The financial difficulties of Robert D. Sheppard, made public after he had been forced from the treasurership of Garrett Biblical institute last year, were taken to court for the first time yesterday when suit for $21,000 to recover on notes was filed by the Alton Manufacturing company of Boston for Everett O. Fisk. By the suit it is probable many of Sheppard's financial dealings, which were disclosed in part last fall and then hushed up by the authorities of Northwestern university and friends of its former business manager, will be brought to light.

Institute Repudiates the Notes.

The filing of the suit, the university authorities admitted, disclosed that the school had repudiated the notes, and that the holder, refusing to accept compromises arranged last year by Sheppard and his friends, is seeking a collection.

In the suit collection is asked on three notes, as follows:

Note for $5,000, given on April 19, 1902, due in four years, at 5 per cent.

Note for $2,000, given Nov. 15, 1902, due in four years, at 5 per cent.

Note for $13,000, given Dec. 9, 1903, due in three years, at 5 per cent.

All these notes were signed by Robert D. Sheppard, as treasurer of Garrett Biblical institute. In the declaration filed it is stated that repeated demands on the institute for payment have been ignored.

"Mr. Fisk, who loaned this money to Sheppard," said John W. Creekmuir, attorney for the plaintiff, "is a brother of Prof. Fisk of Northwestern university, and it was because of this, probably, that the money was loaned to the institute. Later he sold the notes to the Alton Manufacturing company, of which he is an officer."

Until this suit was filed all Dr. Sheppard's troubles had been withheld from the courts, and the only public record which has been made indicates these dealings was last August, when he transferred to Oliver H. Horton for the university all his property to be used in meeting liabilities contracted by him.

Resignation Follows Disclosures.

The alleged irregularities in his dealings were disclosed to the university and Garrett Biblical institute management before he resigned from the treasurership of the latter institution. Following the disclosure pressure was brought to bear, and in April of last year he resigned from his office with the institute. At no time did the university authorities disclose what was the amount of the alleged irregularities, but rumors made the sum all the way from $72,000 to more than $200,000.

DINNER MAY LACK BRYAN BOOM.

Iroquois Banquet Said to Have Disappointment in Store for Nebraskan —Graves to Speak.

The program so far arranged for the twenty-seventh annual banquet of the Iroquois club, to be given at the Auditorium April 20, would indicate that no boom for the presidential aspirations of William Jennings Bryan can be expected there.

The list of speakers starts off with John Temple Graves of Atlanta, who last Wednesday night at the Bryan banquet at Chattanooga advised Mr. Bryan to go before the next democratic national convention and advocate the nomination by that convention of Theodore Roosevelt as its candidate for the presidency.

Other speakers who are to be present at the Iroquois banquet are:

Congressman Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha, who is on anything but friendly terms with Bryan.

President Edwin M. Grout of the borough of Brooklyn, who is the close political and personal friend of Alton B. Parker, the last democratic candidate, and opposed to Bryan and all his works.

Franklin K. Lane of California, asked by President Roosevelt to become a member of the interstate commerce commission, and who differs with Mr. Bryan radically on the latter's railroad program.

Jacob M. Dickinson, counsel for the Illinois Central railroad, is to act as toastmaster at the banquet, and the committee which selected the list of speakers comprises:

John W. Eckhart, chairman; Judge Frank Baker, W. O. Coleman, W. S. Forrest, James Hamilton Lewis, T. W. Parker, A. F. Reichman, Judge Thomas Windes, J. F. Bowers, Jacob M. Dickinson, Thomas M. Hoyne, J. P. McGoorty, G. M. Rogers, Roger Sullivan, Sigmund Zeisler.

PITTSBURG ELITE GET HARD "JOLT"

Smoky City's Smart Set Not Bidden to Gilded Carnegie Banquet.

BLOW TO TOP NOTCHERS.

Even the Famous Twenty-eight "Unsullied Sons" Are Passed Over.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—[Special.]—Social Pittsburg got an awful wallop today when the list of sixty-five elite topnotchers of the Smoky City smart set invited to the Carnegie banquet was announced.

There were fully 15,000 of the socially select who hoped for invitations. Tonight there are 14,935 disappointed ones.

Even twenty-five of the famous twenty-eight "unsullied sons" who were specially honored last week by the chamber of commerce were passed over by the trustees of the Carnegie institute.

"Righteous Bunch" Overlooked.

Only of the "righteous bunch" George Westinghouse, Congressman Dalzell, and Andrew Carnegie himself escaped the rigor of the censorship today.

To the Pittsburg smart setters an invitation to the Carnegie banquet was something like the collar of the order of the Golden Fleece or the ribbon of a knight commander of the order of the Garter. It was a patent of nobility, a seat in the house of peers, a niche in the hall of fame, all rolled into one.

Patents of Nobility.

It is admitted, even by the disappointed ones, that the Pittsburgers who were honored with invitations to the Carnegie banquet tonight will for decades to come rank as the social leaders of Pittsburg.

The fine Italian hand of the great ironmaster is seen in the list. There are a few millionaires and a few here and there who, like Mr. Carnegie, worked their way to wealth and eminence from the streets. But the general opinion is that Mr. Carnegie, in his quiet way, has evened up things with many of Pittsburg's "sudden" millionaires.

Here Are the Lucky Ones.

Here is a list of the lucky ones at the banquet:

George Westinghouse and wife.
Charles Heinroth of New York, new city organist of Pittsburg.
John B. Larkin, city controller, and wife.
Director Frank Ridgeway of department of public safety of Pittsburg.
A. B. Sheppard, director public works, and wife.

Alexander Peacock, former partner Andrew Carnegie, and wife.
Herbert W. Dupuy, steel manufacturer, and wife.
Congressman James Francis Burk and wife.
Congressman John Dalzell and wife.
Congressman A. J. Barchfield and wife
The Rt. Rev. Bishop and Mrs. Cortland Whitehead.

F. C. Perkins, relative Andrew Carnegie, and wife.
W. P. Stevenson, city councilman and wholesale grocer, and wife.
F. M. Wilmot, manager Carnegie here fund, and wife.
R. W. Miner, financier, and wife.
Thomas Rodd, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania railroad, and wife.

Corey Is Rubbed Out.

One name is not there. Some one wrote "23" after the name of William Ellis Corey, who, it is said, is to marry Mabel Gilman. His friends are trying to ascertain who wrote the mystic fatal sign after his name on the guest list after it had been approved by the entertainment committee. Mr. Carnegie himself is making an investigation.

Mr. Corey expected to be here. His reservation was made upon the guest train. His apartments in the Hotel Schenley were engaged. His private secretary notified the newspapers in New York City that he was to be in Pittsburg this week for the celebration. This announcement also was made as late as Wednesday night at 5 o'clock, and yet Mr. Corey stayed in New York.

President A. C. Dinkey of the Carnegie Steel company and several other chums have taken practically no part in the "big show," because, they claim, Mr. Corey was snubbed. Who did it?

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES KILLS SEVEN AND CLOSES SCHOOLS.

Gilmore City Has Two Hundred Cases in Last Few Days—Young and Old Are Victims.

Gilmore City, Ia., April 12.—[Special.]—Seven dead, 200 stricken with measles, and the schools closed for weeks is the situation that has developed here in the last few days. The entire number has passed away within the last ten days. Those stricken today are Clifford Hunter, aged 14, and Mrs. Ben Warren, 42 years old. An attempt to open the public schools after being closed for two weeks met with a strong protest from one of the leading physicians of the town, when only 100 pupils out of a total of 250 appeared. It is expected that the epidemic will be checked in a short time and every possible precaution is being taken to prevent its further spread.

OHIO OUSTS INSURANCE ORDER.

Ancient Order of United Workmen Admits Charges Are True and Consents to Petition.

Columbus, O., April 12.—Coincident with the filing today in the Circuit court of a suit in quo warranto to oust the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Ohio from doing business in the state, the lodge filed an answer admitting the truth of the charges made and consenting to the prayer of the petition.

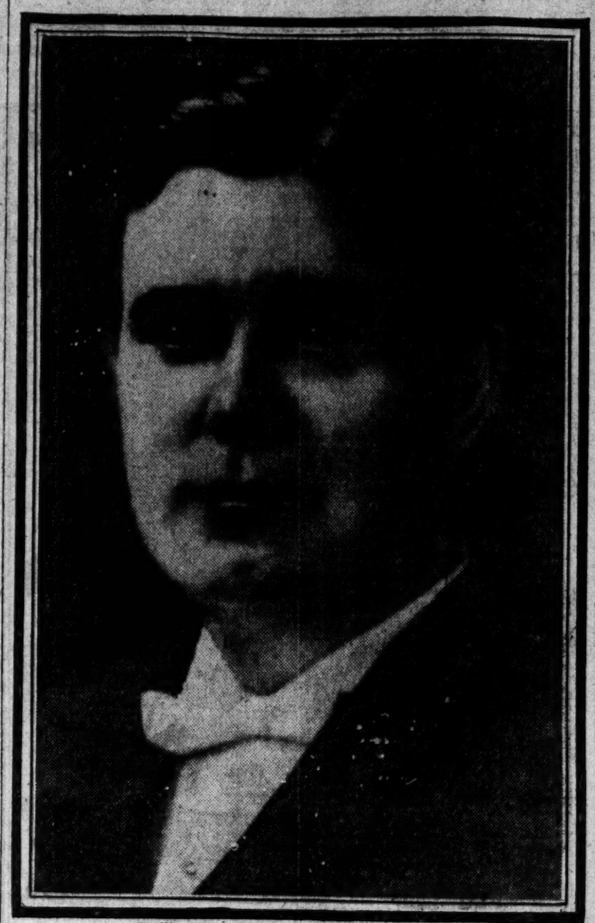

The petition, which was filed by the attorney general, says the action is brought on complaint of Insurance Commissioner A. I. Vorys. Two grounds for ouster are stated—that the lodge has failed to comply with the law by filing reports, and that it is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, because wholly unable to do so.

It is said the lodge has death claims against it amounting to $150,000 and its funds are only $3,000.

Silk Mills Are Merged.

York, Pa., April 12.—A silk mill merger, with a capital of $22,500,000, was announced here today. The merger thus far includes the York and Monarch mills in this city, and mills at Carlisle, Fleetwood, Kutztown, and Reynoldsville, this state. The purchaser is the American Silk Manufacturing company of New York. Plans are under way for the nerging of a total of thirty mills, principally in Pennsylvania.

U. S. Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho.

WILLIAM E. BORAH.

Boise, Idaho, April 12.—[Special.]—The United States grand jury today returned a large batch of indictments, but the names of all the persons involved are kept secret. Whether United States Senator W. E. Borah has been indicted is unknown. Judge Beatty, when asked the question, said he did not know, as he paid no attention to the names, and District Attorney Ruick refused to talk, absolutely declining to affirm or deny the report that an indictment against the senator had been returned. The grand jury was excused until June 17, when it will take up the unfinished business. It is believed that J. E. Barber of Eau Claire, Wis., and several of his associates in the Barber Lumber company, which is operating in this state; former Attorney General Frank Martin of Idaho, with a number of others, have been indicted charged with conspiracy to defraud the government. Mr. Borah was chosen senator three months ago. He is a lawyer, and has an extensive practice in Idaho, where he has resided since 1891. Mr. Borah was born in Illinois—at Fairfield—and studied law in Kansas. His wife is a daughter of former Gov. McConnell of Idaho, who was the state's first United States senator. His sister is the wife of A. M. Lasley of Chicago, in whose office at Lyons, Kas., Senator Borah read law twenty years ago.

TOBACCO CUD A MIND AID.

CHEWING LEADS TO RUMINATIVE HABITS, SAYS EDUCATOR.

Woodrow Wilson, President of Princeton University, Says Man Who Sits at Country Store and Expectorates in Sawdust Box Is One Who Is Thinking and Has Opinions—Western Senators Best Because They Have Opportunity to Ponder.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The value of chewing tobacco as a help to ruminative habits that lead to good statesmanship is one of the things that Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, touched upon in his lecture today in the Horace Mann auditorium at Columbia university, on "The Senate of the United States."

Dr. Wilson pointed out the fact that a western senator, as a rule, is more valuable than an eastern man because he comes from the part of the country that is productive of thought. In the east, according to Dr. Wilson, men have no opinions because they do not have time to think.

Leads to Ruminative Habits.

"If you live in a place," said Dr. Wilson, "where you can sit around the stove in a country store and spit tobacco juice into a sawdust box, you are much more likely to have opinions than if you live in New York. Whatever you may think of the habit of chewing tobacco, I want to suggest that chewing sometimes leads to ruminative habits. If a man stops long enough between sentences it shows he is more likely to have opinions that have weight than if he does not. There is something in a sawdust box.

"People who have their heads buried in a morning paper in the morning and in an evening paper in the afternoon, have no ideas except those which the newspapers give them. This is the kind of people that are found in the east, where people think about nothing else except what they see in newspapers and their business. In the west this is not true. The western senator has time to chew between sentences, and consequently is more likely to think of those things which are valuable to the nation."

Westerner Less Corrupt?

Dr. Wilson emphasized the fact that a western senator is more likely to be free from corruption than an easterner.

Dr. Wilson advocated the establishment of a national newspaper. Whether you read the New York, Philadelphia, or Chicago newspapers, or all three, you would not get national opinion. For this reason the country still is provincial. The speaker thought a national medium of intelligence would rectify this evil.

COLLEGE STUDENTS GIVE PLAY.

Dramatic Club from Dartmouth Appears in "For One Night Only" in Central Y. M. C. A.

More than 500 alumni of Dartmouth college and their friends attended a theatrical performance given by the Dartmouth College Dramatic club at the Central Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night. The club, which is on a tour of the west, presented a four act comedy entitled, "For One Night Only."

The play deals with the domestic troubles of a college professor. He has written a play which is received with hisses and catcalls. One of the touches of "realism" in the professor's effort is a parrot placed on a branch of a pine tree in the pine forest on the outskirts of Rome.

The professor's part was played by H. R. Wellman, '07, who was received with great enthusiasm. G. E. Squire, '08, took the part of Dr. Leopold Newman, the professor's son-in-law. H. P. Wayman, '06, gave a laughable interpretation of the "theatrical manager and leading heavy." Mrs. Goldwhitney was played by C. J. Fay, '10. Mrs. Newman was given by W. C. Douglas, '10.

Presbytery Opposes Merger.

Norfolk, Va., April 12.—The presbytery of Norfolk, which has been in session at Wachsprague, on the eastern shore of Virginia, voted against the proposed federation of the Presbyterian bodies in this country, the vote of the presbytery standing 20 to 17 against federation. The opposition in the south to the federation proposition is on the race and theological question.

OVERFLOW OF CAPITOL GRAFT USED ON PENNSYLVANIA TUGS.

Charge Made by Probers That Costly Supplies Not Used in the Statehouse Were Sent to Harbormaster's Office.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—[Special.]—The latest charge of the Pennsylvania state capitol probers is that when the big granite pile at Harrisburg became overcrowded with furnishings bought with reckless regard of cost from John H. Sanderson of Philadelphia on his "per foot" air plan at $18.40 per cubic foot the capitol builders, or somebody, got rid of it by shipping it to the Philadelphia harbormaster's office and to the state tugs, M. S. Quay and Samuel Pennypacker. These boats and the harbormaster's office are luxuriously fitted up, out of all keeping with the requirements and original furnishings.

The discovery that capitol furniture was used for other purposes was made yesterday, when the experts went to Philadelphia to look over the harbormaster's office and the state tugs. According to the auditors, no schedule can be found showing that the furniture was bought for either the office or boats. They charge that Sanderson supplied so much furniture the capitol couldn't hold it all, and a quantity was delivered to the state offices in Philadelphia.

Manufacturing Openings in the Middle West.

The manufacturing trend is westward. The actual capital invested in manufacturing industries in the States of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Missouri was 42% greater in 1905 than in 1900——And there was a considerably larger percentage of increase in these prosperous Western States than in a corresponding number in the East.

THE CHICAGO MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RAILWAY

reaches the important manufacturing and commercial centers of these "money-making" States. Right now—today—there are industrial openings which offer numerous opportunities and advantages to new or enlarged industries.

Manufacturers who desire to establish new or branch factories at any point reached by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway in these flourishing Middle-West States are invited to write to the Industrial Department. Prompt attention will be given to all inquiries. Address,

GIVES MICHIGAN'S ATHLETIC STATUS

Prof. V. H. Lane at Alumni Dinner Says Big Nine Relations Will Continue.

ATTITUDE NOT DEFIANT.

Asserts Games in East Not Intended as Discourtesy to Western Conference.

The position of Michigan university in respect to the rules of the conference of the "Big Nine," in control of middle states college athletics, was set forth by Prof. Victor H. Lane of the Michigan law department at the annual dinner of the Chicago Alumni association of the university at the Midday club last night.

Prof. Lane came from Ann Arbor on purpose to dispel the doubt that has hung over the attitude of Michigan towards the other leading western colleges. He said that the university, in playing football in the east, has not intended to defy the big nine in any way, that it desires to remain with the big nine, but that it considers that there is nothing improper in playing outside colleges under the rules of whatever conference they happen to be in.

He assured his hearers that in playing any games with western colleges, Michigan will adhere to the rules of the western conference. Furthermore, he declared that previous to the criticism that has been bestowed upon Michigan it had been his information that the members of the "Big Nine" did not disapprove of Michigan playing under the rules of other conferences in outside games.

Has Answer for Indictments.

"I am called upon to answer to indictments," said Judge Lane at the beginning of his speech. "I have come here tonight with the intention of sailing close to the wind.

"I assume it to be true that if a man engaged in higher education thirty years ago should be confronted suddenly with the present question of the relation of athletics to higher education he hardly would know the old ground.

"A dozen years ago college athletics were thought hardly respectable. The presidents of seven colleges arranged a conference to make them cleaner by taking out those things tending towards evil. There were seven colleges at first and then nine, Chicago, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue, and Wisconsin.

"Athletics grew in favor and were encouraged by the universities. Then came the day when the educators realized that athletics were not retaining their primary relation to university life.

"Then came what is known as the Angell conference, which resulted in the adoption of restrictive legislation. That legislation was ratified by the faculties of the colleges and turned over to the boards as the athletic law.

Tells of Three Year Rule.

"The three year rule was designed to take freshmen out of the strenuous athletic life of intercollegiate contests to enable the faculty to get a line on them and find out whether they were able to carry on their work in connection with such heavy athletics. The graduate evil also was cut off, it having been the case in some instances that graduates remained in college to continue in athletics.

"Another restriction limited football games to five in number. Some thought the rules unnecessarily strict. Football men were allowed four years' competition, but in other sports only three years was allowed. I speak because these were irritating conditions.

"It was thought desirable for a time to cut off games between Chicago and Michigan and several other institutions. Michigan then turned to Pennsylvania and arranged a game at Philadelphia and a game this coming fall at Ann Arbor. Michigan went to Pennsylvania after playing four games when Pennsylvania had played eleven.

Seek End of Questions.

"Our students, seeking to put themselves on a more equal footing, applied to the board of regents. The board took no action, but made individual feelings known.

"At a meeting of the nine colleges last winter, I asked if Michigan would be considered open to criticism if it played east under eastern conference rules. Some members said openly they thought it would be proper. There was no opposition. Later I received two communications from a member of the conference encouraging the view.

"It was our desire to make the contest with Pennsylvania as equal as possible and not with the desire of defying the conference. If anybody thinks we threw down the gauntlet to the conference he is mistaken. If Michigan puts itself in defiance of the conference I see no reason for remaining in the conference at all. Michigan does not intend to put itself in that position."

Prof. George E. Vincent of the University of Chicago said:

"Chicago is friendly to Michigan and will do anything possible to help her out of her athletic trouble. We are proud of you. But I want to hint in a friendly way that we will take more of your professors away from you unless you pay them more money. Let us play a square game and cultivate friendly rivalry."

Angell Talks of Students.

President Angell, who was the guest of honor, pointed out that one of the great problems that will have to be solved by the universities is the one as to how to take care of the greatly increasing student body. He said the "passion for education" in the middle west bodes the greatest good for the future of the nation.

"If the increase in the student body at Michigan will go on as it has it will have 15,000 students within the next few years," said Dr. Angell. "This general tendency holds good with the University of Chicago and most of the other institutions of higher learning in the country.

"The greatest single thing about the people of the middle west is their passion for higher education. I have often told this to foreigners who have asked me what I thought was the greatest single characteristic of our people in this part of the country. And it is a fact.

"In view of this, I may say that whatever calamity shall befall this nation it shall not be due to a lack of an education of our sons and daughters to fit them for the duties and struggles of life."

Edward Sonnenschein and Judge Charles S. Cutting made short addresses.

GUMSHOE BILL'S MYSTERY SOLVED.

in section 2 which validates all indebtedness "heretofore" contracted.

Cloud on the Bonds.

Just what mistake was made is not explained, and even the lawyers of the house have not been able to figure it out. That it was one which caused some concern is evident from the facts relating to the bill.

There is a cloud on the bonds which interferes with their sale and legislative enactment is the surest and quickest way to remove it. Men who even partly understand the situation believe that the intent of the bill, so far as it relates to these bonds, is entirely honest.

They also believe that the relief asked for should be given and that the bonds which were issued in good faith should be cured of defects. There still is some fear that the bill, although not intending to legalize any issues of bonds, such as the Chicago and Alton indebtedness, might have that effect.

The question is sure to be thoroughly determined before the legislature passes the act, if it now can be persuaded to pass it. The men having the bill in charge were desirous of avoiding publicity and elected to take their chance with a measure which was too general in its terms to avoid raising suspicion the moment it came under scrutiny.

When this suspicion was raised it was not allayed by the statement of Speaker Shurtleff that a full explanation could not be given without injuring the interests which were seeking relief. With a number of legislators Mr. Shurtleff's personal word is sufficient. They are willing to believe that he will not stake his reputation on an improper measure.

Means a Big Fight.

At the same time the mystery surrounding the bill has started a number of active gentlemen on its trail. When it comes up for passage it will precipitate the big fight of the session. That seems practically certain.

The chief objection to publicity was financial, the men interested fearing that failure to secure the act would have a much more injurious effect on the bonds if it was known what they were and to what amounts they had been issued.

For this reason they decided to try to secure the passage of a "blind bill." Mr. Henley was in Springfield yesterday when Speaker Shurtleff adopted the unusual course of giving his chair to Representative Allen, while he himself took the floor to get the measure advanced to third reading and ready for passage.

Just why Mr. Allen was selected for this job has been a puzzle, but this has been explained partly by the suggestion that Mr. Allen, when he cares to try, can make himself the chief trouble maker in the house, and that with him in the chair one source of the trouble which it was desired to avoid was plugged up.

This was a shrewd bit of management, but it worked out disastrously because Mr. Allen elected to gavel the bill through when this was not necessary and not wanted. Shurtleff took pains to explain to the house this morning that Mr. Allen's rulings had been unexpected and that he (Mr. Shurtleff) fully believed that the proposition was open to all varieties of debate when he asked for its advancement.

Attorney General's Opinion.

Several attempts were made during the day to get expert legal opinions as to the effect of the bill. The democrats sent a delegation to Attorney General Stead, but were unable to draw that official out. Gov. Deneen also sent to Mr. Stead for an opinion, and was given three typewritten pages in reply.

The nature of this opinion was not disclosed beyond the statement that it took up the provisions of the bill in a general sort of a way, and did not give a positive decision as to its effect.

The opinion called attention to the exceedingly broad provisions of section 2, but made it apparent that the effect was a question of fact depending entirely on the number of the consolidations that were effected in 1882.

Mr. Stead gave it as his opinion, however, that no other road would be involved than those which it was intended to cover. The idea that the Chicago and Alton could crawl in under the provisions of the bill has been abandoned pretty generally.

One thing has been decided and that is that at some stage in the proceedings the bill will have to have a thorough explanation. Before it is signed by the governor, if it be passed by the legislature, there will be a hearing at which the Western Indiana will explain.

Earlier in the consideration of the bill it was announced that the Illinois Trust and Savings company holds as trustee the bonds which it is desired to validate.

Chicagoan Explains Bill.

A Chicago business man conversant with the situation said yesterday:

"House bill 777 is designed to correct a possible flaw in the terms of consolidation under which $8,000,000 worth of bonds of the Chicago and Western Indiana railway were issued and have been sold.

"These bonds are considered by competent lawyers to be entirely sound, but in order to make assurance doubly sure, the legislation has been asked. It was hoped it could be put through without any such publicity as would unduly frighten the present holders of the bonds. The matter has nothing to do with Harriman or any of his enterprises."

A legislator in Chicago expressed the belief that the bill as it stands is unconstitutional because it does not provide for a sixty day notice to stockholders of the roads, the consolidation of which is to be legalized.

Section 11 of article XI. of the constitution of 1870 is quoted in support of this theory. The section reads:

No railroad corporation shall consolidate its stock, property, or franchises with any other railroad corporation owning a parallel or competing line, and in no case shall any consolidation take place except upon public notice given, of at least sixty days, to all stockholders, in such manner as may be provided by law. A majority of the directors of any railroad corporation, now incorporated or hereafter to be incorporated by the laws of this state, shall be citizens and residents of this state.

John J. Mitchell of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank made a statement to the effect that he and the bank are the holders of bonds issued in consideration of the merger of the Chicago Junction, the Chicago Belt, and the Dock railroad in 1882.

"Neither the bank nor myself has any financial interest in the bond issues referred to," said Mr. Mitchell. "The bank is trustee under a mortgage, and in its capacity as trustee made some suggestions. The consolidation of the roads mentioned took place in 1882. Any legislation affecting that consolidation has no bearing whatever on the Alton, directly or indirectly."

HOUSE DEVELOPS A "GROUCH."

One or Two Measures Receive Unkind Treatment as Aftermath of "777" Brain Storm of Day Before.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—The episode of yesterday, when Mr. Allen performed so gracefully in the speaker's chair while house bill 777 was under way, made the house organization wabble all day. Speaker Shurtleff had developed something approaching a "grouch," and there was a lack of the amity which should characterize the proceedings of a deliberative body.

One indication of this was given in a desire to kill bills, and in pursuance of this desire the house took an unkind swat at a bill presented by the State Bankers' association providing for the punishment of any person who willfully and maliciously circulated false reports concerning the solvency of a bank.

One representative wanted to know why the bankers did not bring down a bill to put private bankers under state inspection, and then it was all off. With great alacrity the house voted to take out the enacting clause.

In the afternoon Smejkal's bill giving the state board of health additional authority over "faith healers" narrowly escaped. At the morning session the "faith healers" succeeded in taking the enacting clause out of the bill. The afternoon session put it back.

Mr. Lantz, as the defender of the faith cure people, came back with a new bill exempting them from the provisions of the medical practice act, and succeeded in having this advanced to second reading without reference, which will necessitate fighting out the faith cure question again.

COCKRELL'S SON UNDER HOT FIRE

Accused by Father-in-Law of Deserting His Wife for Another Woman.

FLAUNTS VICE ABROAD.

Young Man Said to Have Introduced Impostor as "Wife" in London and Paris.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.—[Special.]—"Eph," the youngest son of former Senator Cockrell of Missouri, is in trouble. His father-in-law accuses him not only of deserting his wife, but of flaunting in her place, in London and Paris, a notorious woman of New York.

The young man is also charged with borrowing money from Americans he met in the European cities.

Robert H. Hogan, an insurance manager, whose daughter was married to Cockrell, tonight gave out a statement disclosing the sensational termination of a romantic marriage following a rapid fire courtship four years ago.

The real Mrs. Cockrell is at present living with her parents, and, despite the pleas of relatives of her husband, has declined to accept any "explanation" of his conduct.

Mr. Hogan's statement was issued as a result of cable dispatches from the British and French capitals detailing the escapades of his son-in-law and the woman, who is said to have been posing as his wife.

Charges Against Son-in-Law.

In part, the statement of the wife's father is as follows:

"In order to correct a false impression relating to my daughter, Mrs. Ephraim B. Cockrell, I wish to state the facts concerning the actions of her husband and an impostor posing as Mrs. Cockrell in London and Paris.

"About a year ago Cockrell accepted a position with a banking firm in New York, leaving his wife in my home in Baltimore until he could prepare a home for her in New York. For a time he made frequent visits to see his wife here.

"About June 1 last he disappeared. His wife made every possible endeavor to locate him in order to notify him there was no need to fear returning home, but did not discover his whereabouts until two months ago.

"A few months ago we learned that he was living with a notorious woman of New York, introducing her as his wife and my daughter in London and Paris and borrowing large sums of money from Americans there. I notified the consuls general at London and Paris that the woman was an impostor.

How Elopement Was Planned.

The Hogans formerly lived in Webster Groves, a suburb of St. Louis, and it was there that Cockrell, then 22 years old, and Miss Hogan, a girl of 19, met. One evening in April, 1903, Miss Hogan visited a friend in the city, and the two girls accompanied Cockrell to one of the theaters, and after the performance went to dinner at a well known café. During the play, and at the meal which followed, Cockrell pleaded with Miss Hogan for an immediate marriage. She yielded, and steps were at once begun to secure the license. Being Saturday night this was difficult, but through the aid of a friend the marriage license clerk was routed from his bed at an early hour Sunday morning and the necessary permit issued. A minister was found, and at 6:30 o'clock in the morning the couple were married.

Mr. Cockrell and his wife lived in St. Louis until the close of the world's fair, when they went to Mexico, where Cockrell was employed on a plantation owned by one of his brothers.

About a year ago he secured a position in New York, and, pending his selection of a home there, left his wife with her parents, who moved to Baltimore three years ago.

Cockrell a Liberal Spender.

The allurement of Wall street is said to have been strong for the young man, and it is asserted that he speculated freely and spent money freely—often telling his companions of having "cleaned up" $50,000, or even more, in certain deals.

He suddenly dropped from sight, and, according to friends of the Hogans, nothing more was heard of him until reports of his adventures in Europe were printed in the newspapers.

Holland Society Banquet Tuesday.

The twelfth annual banquet of the Holland society of Chicago will be held next Tuesday evening at the Chicago Athletic club. It will commemorate the birth of William, prince of Orange. The speakers will be Congressman Winfield S. Hammond of Minnesota, M. M. Mangasarian, James H. Eckels, and B. T. Van Alen. Holger de Roode is slated for president of the organization.

TROUBLE IN RATE BUREAU

IMMIGRANT DEPARTMENT FACES POSSIBLE DISRUPTION.

New York Agent Routes 8,000 Over Wabash—Competitors Say He Is Supposed to Be Working for All Western Lines—Reduction in Rate on Salmon to Chicago by Santa Fe May Result in Lower Tariff by Other Railroads.

The immigrant bureau of the Western Passenger association faces disruption. Consequent demoralization in passenger rates doubtless will follow. Heads of passenger departments of members of the association are keeping quiet about the brewing tempest, hoping the interstate commerce commission will take a hand in the matter, and that lines responsible for conditions will change front. Conservative opinion points to a war, and no one will venture an opinion as to where it will end.

Routes Tickets Over Wabash.

It developed yesterday at a meeting of the advisory committee of the association, which has direct charge of all immigrant business, that Peter McDonald, an independent immigrant agent at New York and supposed to be employed by all western railroads, had routed 8,000 tickets from European points through New York via the New York, Ontario and Western and the Wabash railroad to Kansas City. The Wabash would not give any satisfactory assurance to its competitors that the McDonald arrangement would be discontinued.

McDonald has been employed by different western railroads, but he made them pay so dearly they never made a second contract. Then all lines combined to pay him a certain salary for the business he controlled. It was supposed the arrangement was in existence until discovery of the alleged secret contract with the Wabash.

Others Must Meet Rate.

The announcement that the Santa Fé had made a rate of 50 cents from San Francisco to Chicago on canned salmon to meet a similar rate to New York via the Southern Pacific and the Cromwell line via Galveston will force the Great Northern, Northern Pacific-Burlington, and Union Pacific to meet the rate.

It was said that the action of Mr. Stubbs as the traffic director of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific company in making the rate of 50 cents to New York via the Southern Pacific, and refusing to make a similar rate to Chicago via the Union Pacific, was indicative that the two roads were not competitors, as the Harriman interests have so stoutly maintained in hearings of the interstate commerce commission. It is pointed out that, if they were competitors, the Union Pacific would not allow the rate to be made without protecting Chicago interests.

HUNT FOR VICTIM OF FRISCO QUAKE.

Brother Fears Lawyer, Injured in Disaster, Died on Way to New York.

BURNHAM OUSTED BY BAR

Action in Connection with Mutual Reserve Life Risk Company Cause.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, April 12.

Begins Search for Victim of Frisco Quake.

Henry P. Stevens, manager of a branch office of the brokerage firm of T. A. McIntyre & Co., which has an office at Delmonico's, and who lives in Montclair, sent out through the police headquarters tonight a general alarm for his brother, Walter Campbell Stevens, who has been missing ever since he left San Francisco for New York six weeks ago. The missing man was injured in the earthquake. It is feared he has committed suicide or has been beaten and robbed either on his way here, or more probably in this city, as it is thought he reached New York about March 8.

According to Mr. Stevens, the missing man was a lawyer, with offices at 1395 O'Farrell street, San Francisco, when the earthquake occurred. His offices were destroyed in the fire and in trying to rescue his papers, which were totally consumed, he was severely injured. He became slightly demented while in a hospital.

On being released as cured, without funds except what his New York relatives sent him, the Red Cross relief committee decided to send him on here. They did so, putting him in charge of a man named Frechter. Letters of Frechter say he and the lawyer left San Francisco on March 1, and reached here, unknown to Stevens' relatives, on March 8.

Grants Motion to Disbar George Burnham Jr.

The appellate division of the Supreme court today handed down a decision granting a motion to disbar George Burnham Jr. The petition for his disbarment was filed on behalf of the Bar association and was based upon the fact of Burnham's conviction of a felony. Burnham was convicted on Dec. 16, 1906, of the crime of grand larceny in the first degree in connection with the affairs of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company and was sentenced to state's prison for two years. Burnham was admitted to the bar in 1881.

State Laws May Stop St. Paul Extension.

Directors of the St. Paul railroad said today that while the company had not decided to discontinue work on its Pacific coast extension, as was reported yesterday in dispatches from Chicago, the matter was under serious consideration. It undoubtedly would come before the board, it was said, in the near future, and there is a chance that the discontinuance of the work might be approved.

The sole reason for considering the proposition, the directors say, was the restrictive legislation proposed in several of the western states.

"Other companies which have built transcontinental lines," said one of the most prominent directors, "have been aided by federal and state governments. We are encountering hostile measures from even those states which the construction of the road would most benefit. We believe the construction of the road would greatly benefit the people along its route, but, of course, we cannot look upon it altogether as a one sided undertaking. We must see some profit for our stockholders, and, if we are deprived of a chance of profit, we cannot, in justice to the stockholders, go ahead with the expenditure of their money."

Passenger Disguised as Longshoreman on Ship.

The liner Vaderland, in yesterday from Antwerp and Dover, while at anchor off the Hook Tuesday night, missed a second cabin passenger, George Boehme of Berlin. He was put on the passenger list as plain "Mr.," although he told the officers he was a doctor. He had a berth with two other men, who said he had declared he had $3,700. He drank more than the usual allowance of a normal voyager.

Stewards with whom he had been friendly were posted at the gangways after the ship was docked this morning to see if he got off. One of the ship's musicians said he saw a man who looked like Boehme, but who was dressed as a longshoreman, come down the second cabin gangplank.

Expelled Pastor Asked to Leave Parsonage.

The trustees and elders of the Noble Street Presbyterian church in Greenpoint tonight decided to ask the Rev. E. Lawrence Hunt, their former pastor, to leave the parsonage with his wife, who is the divorced wife of Charles C. Bassett of Washington. Mr. Hunt was given three days' time in which to remove his family and belongings.

With Mrs. Hunt when she arrived at the parsonage last Wednesday were her two children, Rice and Lawrence, the latter being the baby that figures in the divorce suit, and whose paternity Mr. Bassett denies.

Prosecution in Maj. Fremont Case Rests.

The prosecution rested today in the case of Maj. Francis P. Fremont, who is on trial by court martial here on charges growing out of certain financial transactions. One witness, who now is in Cuba, but who is expected to arrive here on April 21, will be called to the stand by the prosecution at that time. In the meantime the defense will proceed with a presentation of its testimony, beginning next Tuesday. The purpose of the adjournment was to permit the defence to obtain depositions from witnesses who are not in the city.

Stanford White Paintings Bring $31,260.

The result of this evening's sale of the remaining sixty-three pictures in the collection of the late Stanford White was a surprise not only to those who were there merely as onlookers but to the majority of the bidders. The total realized from the sale of sixty-three paintings, most of which were by old masters of the Dutch, French, Italian, and Spanish schools was $31,260, a sum exceeding by $10,982 the amount obtained on Thursday for the modern pictures of the same collection. The two lots brought but $51,337.

Dr. Samuel S. Guy, former coroner of Queens county, was held to await the action of the grand jury following a coroner's inquest today into the death of his wife, Mrs. Lillian Mott Guy, who was shot and killed at her home in Far Rockaway on the night of April 8. The jury found that Mrs. Guy died from a shot wound at the hands of some person unknown to the jury.

Northwestern University Student Dead by Self-Administered Poison.

MIRIAM FARBER

Worn out by an all night vigil beside the body of his daughter Miriam, Rabbi Moses M. Farber heard for the first time yesterday morning that the girl, a freshman student at Northwestern university, had committed suicide.

The shock was a severe one to the old man. The blow of her death had been softened by those who knew the whole story, and the father knew only that the scientific cause was given as paralysis of the vital organs, remaining in ignorance that a self-administered dose of corrosive sublimate during a despondent spell had led to this condition.

Rabbi Farber is head of the Sons of Joseph congregation on the west side. The family home for many years was in Bach-Mut, southern Russia, and for a time in Riga. The daughter, Miriam, was educated at Warsaw, where she was graduated from a polytechnic school and received a degree as an expert surgical nurse.

The witnesses at the inquest, Dr. H. B. Hemenway, the attending physician; Dean Thomas F. Holgate, Miss Mary Ross Potter, dean of women of Northwestern university; and the father all stated that Miss Farber had made no statement as she lay upon her death bed. Upon first treatment it was thought that she would recover within a few days, but her system had been weakened by overwork and lack of proper food and exercise so that she succumbed.

BEGIN WAR ON RAILROADS

MILLERS DECIDE TO ACT AGAINST DISCRIMINATING LINES.

National Federation, in Session in Chicago, Charges That Flour Industry, Particularly Export Trade, Has Been Greatly Injured by Shipments of Other Freight, Especially Wheat, Having a Preference—Wants Change in Pure Food Law.

Charging that railroad discrimination has injured greatly the flour milling industry of the country, particularly the export trade, members of the National Millers' federation yesterday began war on railroads whose policy it is to discriminate against shipments of flour in favor of other freight.

The action was taken at the fifth annual meeting of the federation at the Grand Pacific hotel. After a discussion of the subject the question was referred to the board of directors with full power to act. The directors will begin an active campaign among railroads for what they term "decent treatment." An effort may be made to carry the question to Washington. The directors were given $1,000 with which to carry on the work.

Have Suffered Long Enough.

In his annual report A. L. Goetzmann of Chicago secretary of the federation, pointed out that railroad discrimination has been suffered long enough. It was upon the secretary's recommendation that measures to combat the evil were approved.

"The railroads discriminate in favor of wheat as against flour," said Secretary Goetzmann. "They also cause interminable delays in transporting export shipments of flour to the seaboard. All rail shipments of flour are in transit anywhere from one to seven months."

Want Pure Food Law Changed.

Secretary Goetzmann recommended an amendment to the pure food law to provide that the "actual weight" appear on every package of flour, and that the manufacturer's name be designated to prevent "private branding" of flour. Most of the millers present favored the adoption of an amendment to cover the weight question, and the recommendation was adopted. But they objected to the proposition of doing away with private brands.

Officers will be elected today. The meeting is preliminary to a mass convention in St. Louis next month.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—J. Fred Betz Jr., a wealthy brewer, William N. Oliver, an oil merchant, and John W. McFillen, retired, were tossed from an automobile in a collision with a trolley car here tonight and severely hurt. All three were taken to a hospital.

NEEDS MORE FAMINE AID.

CHINA COULD USE VAST SUMS AS CONDITIONS GROW WORSE.

Reports from Stricken Districts Indicate That Situation Is Desperate—Americans Urged to Give $3,000,000 Additional in Next Three Weeks to Help in Relief Work—James Linn Rogers, U. S. Consul at Shanghai, Will Receive Gifts.

SHANGHAI, April 12.—Reports from the famine district of China indicate that conditions are growing worse. The situation is desperate and Americans are urged to give $3,000,000 in the next three weeks, not for Christian but for humanitarian work.

The Chinese government and people up to date have contributed over $4,000,000 for relief and the sums received from all foreign resources total $500,000, including the supplies on their way here from America.

The relief committee here is promptly sending supplies to the front, but the funds are not yet in its possession. Measures adopted up to date are inadequate. Ten million persons are suffering from a lack of food and facing starvation.

The members of the committee at the front report that they find the bodies of the sufferers bloated and that their faces turn green or black as the result of starvation. The people are pulling up the growing crops for food. Whole families have been found dead in their houses and corpses are seen lying by the roadside. Probably 5,000 persons are dying daily from starvation.

TREE PLAYS BEFORE KAISER.

English Actor Opens Engagement in Berlin with Distinguished Gathering as Audience.

BERLIN, April 12.—Beerbohm Tree, with his stock company from His Majesty's theater, London, opened tonight in a series of Shakspearean plays at the new opera house. There was a distinguished audience, including Emperor William and the empress and a number of literary and theatrical people. At the conclusion of the play Mr. Tree was received by the emperor, who wore the uniform of an English general. His majesty congratulated Mr. Tree upon his masterly performance and discussed Shakspeare with him at length. He praised the poet's wonderful knowledge of life, and manifested much interest in the character of Richard, upon whom he thought Shakspeare has based his Hamlet.

President of Honduras Surrenders and Goes Aboard United States Cruiser.

UNCLE SAM AT THE FINISH

Negotiations by the Commander of the Chicago; Nicaraguans Victorious.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 12, 2 p. m.—The Honduran forces who have been besieged in Amapala by the Nicaraguans capitulated unconditionally this morning to the enemy. President Bonilla has taken refuge on board the American cruiser Chicago, and he will not be permitted to disembark on Central American soil.

The capitulation was arranged by Commander Robert M. Doyle, captain of the Chicago.

The Salvadorean forces who were at Amapala are returning to La Union.

Peace is now believed to be assured.

President Bonilla, in command of the Honduran troops, sought refuge in the fortified city of Amapala after his sensational flight from Chaluteca, and was promptly bottled up by the Nicaraguans under President Zelaya.

Corquin Taken by Invaders.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, April 12.—The town of Corquin, Honduras, was captured by President Zelaya's forces yesterday. Gen. Carcamo, commanding the attacking force, is advancing into the interior of Honduras, and the revolutionary forces of Honduras are disbanding.

Salvador has more than 18,000 men under arms and can place a larger army in the field to repel any aggression. Peace in the interior of Salvador is assured and there is no doubt that the national autonomy will be maintained.

Gen. Valtin Amayo has been appointed chargé d'affaires of Salvador at Guatemala City.

BROWNSVILLE CASE AT HAVANA.

Entire Squad of Sanitary Employes Suspended Because None Would Tell of Small Theft.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1907: By the New York Herald.]

HAVANA, April 12.—Another Brownsville case has occurred here. A resident of the city, after the disinfection of his house by the sanitary authorities, missed a pair of sleeve buttons.

Maj. Keene, the American adviser of the local board of health, caused an investigation to be made and questioned every employé connected with the case, but none would give satisfactory replies.

Feeling that he should follow the example of Roosevelt, the major suspended the entire squad until the members are willing to testify.

SUPPOSED NIHILIST SET FREE.

Man Arrested When He Sought to See Grand Duke Alexis Thought to Have Desired Aid Only.

PARIS, April 12.—The supposed nihilist who was arrested April 10 at the residence of the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia on the Avenue Gabriel, where he called several times in the uniform of a naval officer, proves to be a man named Zelisch Milan, a native of Austria. He has been liberated provisionally. Inaccuracies in the uniform led to his arrest. When questioned the prisoner said he was a Russian police official whom the nihilists had sentenced to death. The police authorities here are convinced that he simply desired to obtain pecuniary assistance.

BELGIAN MINISTRY TO RESIGN.

Labor Measure Adopted in Deputies Responsible for Cabinet Crisis.

BRUSSELS, April 12.—The chamber of deputies today adopted a measure fixing the hours of labor in mines by 94 votes to 32, after which M. De Smet de Nayer, the premier, announced that the cabinet, being unable to command a majority in the house, had decided to resign.

The formation of a new ministry will not be undertaken until the return of King Leopold from the Riviera, and the chamber accordingly adjourned until further notice.

In political circles it is thought that Baron Deschamps will be the new premier.

LONDON, April 12.—For the first time an invasion of England by an airship from Germany was accomplished on Thursday when two German aeronauts, Dr. Yurt Wegener, member of the German Aero club, and Adolf Koch of Frankfort descended at Leicester after having accomplished a voyage remarkable not only as being the first of its kind but for speed as well. The balloon covered 812 miles from Berlin in nineteen hours.

Dr. Koch is a meteorologist in the service of the German government and has made many ascents. This voyage was undertaken mainly for the purpose of making scientific observations. The start was made from Bitterfield, near Berlin, at 8:15 Wednesday evening and the coast of England was reached at noon on the following day, so that the balloon covered in nineteen hours what by ordinary methods of transportation would have required a longer time.

Aeronaut Tells of Trip.

"Our balloon is of the ordinary type," Dr. Wegener said today. "It was inflated with hydrogen gas. When we first ascended the wind was east southeast. Later it changed to east. We maintained an elevation of 2,000 feet, though in crossing the Harz mountains we went higher. The balloon moved more swiftly nearer the earth. In passing over Holland we could make out the boats in the canals, and in some places we were observed and greeted with shouts. We reached the shore of Zuyder Zee at 5:20 o'clock in the morning, and crossed to Island Texel, which we left at 6:15.

"When we started we had expected to come down in France, but when we reached the coast we knew there was no danger as long as the wind held its direction. We had no anchor, only a guide rope.

Weather Fine for Voyage.

"The weather had been fine during the night, but as we started seaward a heavy mist blew us and hid the sea from view. The first point on the English shore we made out must have been Cromer; anyhow, we reached that part of the coast at 12:15, passed along the edge of the shore, then crossed the wash to Boston. There the wind changed to northeast. We were borne along as far as Leicester, near which we descended in a park. The balloon zigzagged badly as we neared the ground and dashed us about, but we escaped with a few bruises and hope to repeat the trip."

WANTS HILL'S ROAD PLACED IN HANDS OF A RECEIVER.

C. H. Venner Files Suit in St. Paul Attacking Great Northern Railway and Lake Superior Company.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—A bill of complaint in which a receivership is asked for the Great Northern railway by C. H. Venner was filed in the Ramsey county District court today. The defendants in the action are the Great Northern railway company, the Lake Superior company, limited, and the officers of both companies. The complainant asks judgment as follows:

That the agreements between the Great Northern railway company and the Lake Superior company and between the Lake Superior company and its trustees be annulled and set aside.

That all the property of the Lake Superior company be transferred to the Great Northern railway company or its receiver.

That a receiver be appointed for the Great Northern.

The burden of the complaint is that the Great Northern, in forming the Lake Superior company, attempts to evade the purposes of its charter by giving that company control of securities and properties owned by the Great Northern company, which, under the law, it has no right to own, particularly mining and timber lands.

ASK CZAR TO SHUT THE UNIVERSITIES

Marshals of Nobility Petition the Russian Cabinet to Curb Sedition.

STORM AGITATES DUMA.

Demand That Deputies Be Excluded for Political Offenses Causes Uproar.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—The marshals of nobility, with representatives from thirty-two provinces, are holding a session in St. Petersburg behind closed doors. Today they passed a resolution condemning the council of empire for lack of patriotism in declining to consider an interpellation made March 23 concerning the many cases of seditious activity within the walls of the universities of the country, and decided to request both the cabinet and the emperor to close the universities.

It is expected that during the sitting of April 14 the congress of marshals will petition the emperor to dissolve the lower house of parliament.

The united nobility is an ultra-reactionary organization, whose representatives at court compose the famous "star chamber." Documents recently published by Prince Paul Dolgoroukoff prove that this organization defeated the efforts of Premier Stolypin last August to make Count Heyden, Prince N. N. Lvoff, and Dmitri Shipoff members of the cabinet.

Duma Scene of Storm.

The lower house of parliament was the scene of great excitement today as a result of the demand of the minister of justice that three socialist deputies be excluded, pending their trial for political offenses. The constitutional democrats supported a resolution to refer the demand of the minister to a committee, which was opposed by both the socialists and the government. This was carried after a stormy debate by the slender majority of 197 to 175 votes.

The prosecutions of the deputies have been instituted in the provincial courts for acts committed before the convocation of parliament. Two of the men, L. P. Gerus, a teacher and social revolutionist of Kuban, and A. A. Kuznetsoff, social democrat, of Simbirsk, are accused of being socialists, and, therefore, members of a party contemplating the overthrow of the state. The third, A. R. Kupstas, a peasant landowner of Kovna, who was returned as a member of the left party, is charged with making revolutionary speeches.

The minister's remarks were blunt and uncompromising, and provoked a series of fiery answers, which roused the house into the first great excitement of the present session. Even the constitutional democrats were swept off their feet. The rule closing the sitting at 6 o'clock was suspended, and the house shook with applause as speaker after speaker denounced the Russian judicial system as being a travesty on justice.

Assails Judicial System.

M. Teslinko, constitutional democrat of Moscow, declared that for forty years the ministers of justice had been tearing out pages from the code of Russian laws until nothing but the cover remained. The prosecuting attorneys, he declared, were graduates of gendarme offices and the judges creatures of the present régime.

M. Azemoff, constitutional democrat, referred to the fact that in the indictment of M. Kuznetsoff he was classed as a revolutionist, a phrase of speech appealing to the overthrow of the autocracy. Then turning, dramatically, to the minister of justice, M. Azemoff asked whether Russia was still an autocracy, for "if so the manifesto of Oct. 30 was a lie, and if not then the defenders of the autocracy were the real revolutionists."

M. Alexinsky proposed that troops be brought in to arrest the deputies and thereby complete the humiliation of parliament.

Indiana and Illinois Coal Operators and John Mitchell of Mine Workers Charge Rate Discrimination.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 12.—[Special.]—Alleged discrimination in coal rates to Chicago from the Harrisburg (Ill.) mines on the Cairo division of the Big Four has so roused the Illinois and Indiana operators and John Mitchell, head of the mine workers, that formal protest against the New York Central people, owners of the Harrisburg mines, will be made to the interstate commerce commission.

The Value and Importance of Ethical Remedies.

Remedies which physicians sanction for family use, as they act most beneficially and are gentle yet prompt in effect, and called ethical, because they are of Known Excellence and Quality and of Known Component Parts.

To gain the full confidence of the Well-Informed of the world and the approval of the most eminent physicians, it is essential that the component parts be known to and approved by them, and, therefore, the California Fig Syrup Company has published for many years past in its advertisements and upon every package a full statement thereof. The perfect purity and uniformity of product which they demand in a laxative remedy of an ethical character are assured by the California Fig Syrup Company's original method of manufacture, known to the Company only.

There are other ethical remedies approved by physicians, but the product of the California Fig Syrup Company possesses the advantage over all other family laxatives that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts, without disturbing the natural functions or any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs, and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtlessly it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs; and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for Syrup of Figs, or by the full name, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company, and the same heretofore known by the name, Syrup of Figs, which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

"My wife had eczema for five or six years. It was on her face and would come and go. We had read so much about Cuticura Remedies that we thought we would give them a trial. We did so, and it has now been about four years, and she has never had a sign of eczema since. She also used them both about a year ago for her scalp. She had very thin hair and Cuticura helped her hair greatly. I myself used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment some time ago for falling hair. I now have a very heavy head of hair and it does not fall out. We used Cuticura Remedies for our baby, who was nearly bald when young. She has very nice hair now. She is very fleshy, and we had so much trouble with heat that we would bathe her with Cuticura Soap and then apply Cuticura Ointment, it would dry the heat up so much quicker than anything else. We give thanks to the Cuticura Remedies. Mr. H. B. Springmire, 323 So. Capitol Street, Iowa City, Ia., July 16, 1905 and Sept. 16, 1906."

BIG NAVAL SHOW TO WARN POWERS

Uncle Sam to Put Awe Inspiring Battle Fleet on View at Jamestown, Va.

LESSON FOR OLD WORLD.

Envoys of Other Nations to Be Given Every Chance to Judge Our Sea Strength.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Powerful as was the American fleet reviewed by President Roosevelt at Oyster bay last fall, it will be eclipsed in strength by that which will be assembled at Jamestown, Va., under orders issued by the secretary of the navy today.

Sixteen first class battleships, ranging in displacement from 11,000 to 17,000 tons, will be the backbone of this formidable command. The ribs will be made up of three huge armored cruisers and four protected cruisers, and the tentacles reaching in every direction will consist of eleven torpedo boat destroyers, at least a dozen torpedo boats, and seven submarines. In addition there will be a number of colliers and supply ships.

It is intended to make the display one of international significance. Great Britain, Germany, France, and Japan are sending squadrons to the Jamestown exposition out of compliment to the United States. There is an intelligence officer attached to each of these commands. It will be the duty of these officers to report to their respective governments upon the number and character of the American warships. They will be given every opportunity to see those things on board the ships which are of common knowledge, but will be denied admission to the turrets and to other parts of the ships where are located devices which add materially to the fighting effectiveness of our men of war and of which foreign nations know little, and perhaps nothing at all.

Object Lesson for Other Powers.

In addition to giving the foreign navies represented an opportunity to learn the strength of the United States upon the sea the government will give the diplomats accredited to this country an object lesson in power. With the approval of the president the state department has invited the entire diplomatic corps to witness the opening of the exposition on April 26. A steamer is to be chartered to convey the diplomats to Hampton roads. Upon their arrival they will be welcomed by salutes fired by every battleship and armored cruiser in the fleet. They will be invited aboard the American vessels and permitted to see for themselves the character of the officers and men who operate them.

At the review at Oyster bay last fall no special courtesies were offered to the naval attachés of foreign governments to visit the American fleet. They were compelled to depend to a large extent upon newspaper reports for their information. It has been decided in the case of Hampton roads that it would be wise to concentrate a force which will emphasize further the need of foreign governments recognizing the position of the United States as a naval power.

At the present time the naval intelligence office of the navy department reports that the United States is third in the matter of warship tonnage, being eclipsed only by Great Britain with 1,641,000 tons and France with 610,000 tons. The United States navy consists of 525,000 tons, that of Germany 467,000 tons, and that of Japan 438,000 tons.

Why We Oppose Disarmament.

When vessels now building are completed Great Britain will have a tonnage of 1,852,000, France of 800,000, and the United States of 780,000. Germany will be left hopelessly in the background with a tonnage of about 580,000, while that of Japan will be 475,000. It will be at least four years, however, before the United States can reach the strength now provided for, while the other powers, through their ability to build faster, will have attained the limit of their plans long before that time.

Within a few months the peace congress will be assembled at The Hague. Great Britain has proposed disarmament along the line of maintaining annual budgets for naval construction and maintenance at their present figures. The British navy is now equal to that of France, the United States, and Germany combined, and operating with the Japanese fleet, in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of alliance between the two countries, would be stronger than the rest of the naval powers of the world. It is apparent, therefore, that the British proposition is especially advantageous to the united kingdom.

Germany, which has dreams of a large navy, does not propose to be tied down as Great Britain desires and in this attitude unquestionably she has the sympathy of the United States. As the naval question will be one of the most important discussed at The Hague, it is considered desirable to show that the United States has nothing to fear afloat, and that in objecting to limitation it is actuated only by the view that such action is unwise and not calculated to insure peace as the British government argues.

England to Send Four Cruisers.

Indeed, President Roosevelt is a firm expounder of the theory that a nation well armed will not be lightly attacked, and it is his purpose to urge congress in each of his future annual messages to authorize additional battleship construction.

Great Britain will have the strongest foreign naval representation at the exposition, a squadron of four huge armored cruisers being about to sail from England for Hampton roads. France will have three ships in attendance, Germany two, and Japan two. It had been expected that all these vessels would remain before Jamestown until the exposition closed, but the state department has been notified that this is not the intention and that none of the ships will stay longer than two weeks.

The German men of war will sail after a visit of eight days, the British will remain ten days, the French about the same time, and the Japanese will leave probably a short time thereafter. It has been explained that no discourtesy is intended by this short enjoyment of American hospitality, but the governments want their ships to rejoin the squadrons to which they are attached as promptly as possible in order to resume drills. In view of what the foreign governments will do, it has been determined to scatter the American fleet by the middle of May, the ships going to various navy yards for repairs preparatory to the summer maneuvers.

The president will visit Jamestown and will review the fleet, steaming up and down between the several columns as he did at Oyster bay. The occasion will be one of historic importance and is being awaited with keen interest by the foreign diplomatic contingent and especially by the naval attachés at embassies and legations here.

LIABILITY PLEA BY BONAPARTE.

Attorney General Asserts Railroads Should Not Be a Law Unto Themselves.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—Attorney General Bonaparte made an argument before the Supreme court today in the employers' liability cases, and his address closed the hearing. The attorney general made an appeal for a liberal construction of the statute, and declared that the railroads should not be permitted to be a law unto themselves. He contended that the United States government has a right to regulate the instrumentalities of commerce under the general constitutional power to regulate commerce itself, and he argued that this power could properly be so extended as to provide for the protection of men employed on interstate railroads notwithstanding their employment should not take them outside of any given state.

way as to secure the nomination of a real conservative man who will favor a reactionary policy and who will, at least, take no new steps in advance if he does not actually favor the repeal of the railroad rate law and the cessation of the prosecution by federal government for discriminations by railroads in favor of the trusts.

There is probably no real conspiracy in existence, but at the same time there is a general understanding among all men who affiliate with H. H. Rogers that they are to follow closely in his footsteps, and the interview published today, it is generally understood, is nothing more nor less than notice to all the understrappers of the Standard Oil system that they are to follow out this line of argument in every local community and endeavor to influence public sentiment against the president by trying to make it appear that he is an enemy of invested savings, however small.

Evidence Is Plentiful.

There is plenty of evidence of this concert of action on the part of the big money interests within the last few months. Every step taken by the money kings and railroad magnates has been for the express purpose of deluding the public into the belief that the policies promulgated by President Roosevelt were in themselves harmful to the real business interests of the country. J. Pierpont Morgan and other railroad men came to Washington for the avowed purpose of inducing the president to make a public declaration in a speech or message that he was not hostile to the railroad interests and that he did not contemplate doing anything which would injure investments in railroad properties.

Mr. Morgan and his associates were not a bit afraid of the president and they were fully aware that neither he nor his policies had had the slightest injurious effect upon the money market or had in any way contributed to the difficulties the railroads have experienced in marketing their securities. They understood better than any one else that they could not sell their new bonds merely because the world at large knew that the railroads already were overcapitalized so that any new securities represent no actual capital whatsoever and would be in the nature only of a second or third mortgage on property already pledged for more than its physical value. What the railroad men and the various associations asked of the president was that he should make a speech for the avowed purpose of calming the people and preventing further agitation.

Fail to Trap Roosevelt.

The president was wise enough not to fall into the trap. Had he made such a speech, these gentlemen would have been the first to assert that he had taken the back track because he recognized the bad effect his policy had had on the money market and was afraid to go farther.

Finding that the president could not be induced to admit that he was in the wrong, the concert of action began its work in the direction of persuading the people that the president had been wrong from the start, that he proposes to do more wrong in the future, and that the inevitable effect of his attack on corporations will be first to depress prices and then to precipitate a disastrous panic.

This attack, delivered by men of money, is not probably at the present time in the interest of any particular candidate. The first thing they have to do is to discredit Roosevelt himself and the policies he represents. If they succeed in this—a thing which passes belief—they would then turn their attention to a candidate and would attempt to agree on some one as far away as possible from the Roosevelt ideal.

Who Are the Agitators?

This is the meaning of the Rogers interview as it is understood here. It is a plea for a stoppage of the "agitation," and when men of Mr. Rogers' type talk of "agitation" they invariably mean both argument and legislation which is opposed to all great monopolies they represent. Every man who fights the Standard Oil, every man who seeks to compel the railroads to earn their money and earn it honestly, every man who wishes the corporations to be controlled by the federal government, and every man who honestly attempts to break down a monopoly is an "agitator," and chief among these agitators, according to the Standard Oil primer of politics and finance, is Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States.

SEES IN AUTO CHIEF FACTOR IN DEVELOPMENT OF TROPICS.

O. P. Austin of Bureau of Statistics of Department of Commerce Lectures on Substitute for Horse.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—"Queer Transportation Methods" was the title of a lecture delivered before the National Geographic society tonight by O. P. Austin, chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

The lecturer took his audience through tropical America, northern Africa, the Holy Land, India, Burma, the Malayan peninsula, the Philippines, China, Corea, and Japan, showing by a large number of illustrations the crude methods of transportation utilized in those countries—the burro and pack horse of Mexico, the llama of South America, the sledges of tropical Madeira, the saddle ox of central Africa, the camel of the desert, the donkey of north Africa and Arabia, the bullock cart and the dandy of India, the yak of Tibet, the trotting ox of Ceylon, the elephant of Siam, the caribou of the Philippines, the wheelbarrow and sedan chair of Japan, the pack bull and palanquin of Corea, the jinrickisha and kago of Japan, and the coolie freight carrier of the extreme orient.

The dependence of the tropics and the orient upon these crude methods of transportation for their products—a dependence due to the absence of that animal which has so aided in developing the temperate zones, the horse, was, in the speaker's opinion, one of the primary causes of the slow development of the tropics, where the horse cannot thrive because of climatic conditions, and of the orient, where land cannot, owing to the density of population, be spared for production of food for his sustenance.

This problem of the development of the tropics and the orient, which has been so long delayed by the absence of a horse for transportation between the point of production and the common carrier, might now, Mr. Austin said, be solved by the substitution of the horseless freight carrier of the automobile type for the crude methods which have prevailed in those sections of the world in which the horse is not available.

MARRIAGE AIDS COURT RULING.

Municipal Judge Goodnow Proves Himself to Be an Expert on Values of Shirtwaists.

Municipal Judge Goodnow proved himself to be an expert on shirt waist values when he decided a "clothesline" dispute yesterday.

Mrs. F. Solomon, 285 Harvey street, charged that Mrs. Fannie Zabaroff, who lives in the same building, tore three of Mrs. Solomon's shirtwaists from a clothesline in the yard and stamped on them. Mrs. Solomon, therefore, sued Mrs. Zabaroff for $40 damages.

"I have bought a good many shirtwaists in my matrimonial career," said Judge Goodnow, "and it is my opinion that these waists are not so valuable as the plaintiff alleges. A shirtwaist takes about three yards of goods. At $1 a yard they would be worth $9. If we allow a reasonable amount for making them up they should come to about $15. I shall enter judgment for that amount. Mrs. Zabaroff also will have to pay the costs in the case. It is necessary sometimes to be a married man to be a good judge."

Mrs. Solomon also had her neighbor arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. The case was taken before Judge Bettler, who fined Mrs. Zabaroff $5 and costs.

ROOSEVELT TELLS OF WAR'S LESSON.

Praising Deeds of Rough Riders, He Points Out Duties in Civic Affairs.

ATTACKS CASTE LINES.

Says Individual Worth and Conduct of Man Is the Only Safe Standard.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—President Roosevelt made a speech in which he touched mainly on patriotism and good citizenship at the dedication today of the monument erected to the memory of the First cavalry, United States Volunteers—the "Rough Riders"—of the Spanish-American war, in the National cemetery at Arlington. Mrs. Allyn K. Capron, the widow of Capt. Capron of the Rough Riders, who fell at Las Guasimas, pulled the cord holding the American flag that covered the monument, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Stafford of St. Patrick's church made the dedication address, and Chaplain H. A. Brown, U. S. A., pronounced the benediction.

A number of distinguished persons were on the platform from which the president delivered his address. They included Ambassador Jusserand of France, Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador; the naval and military attachés of the Japanese and German embassies, Assistant Secretary Oliver of the war department, Assistant Secretary Newberry of the navy department, Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the army, and Admiral and Mrs. Cowles. A number of former members of the Rough Riders' regiment were also on the stand.

The monument, the design of Mrs. Capron, is a monolith, made of Vermont granite, and bears the names of more than 100 former members of the regiment who died either in Cuba or after the return of the regiment to the United States.

Speaks of Dead Comrades.

President Roosevelt was the colonel of the Rough Riders during most of its existence, and he spoke with personal feeling. He referred to the peculiar gratification of all the members of the regiment in seeing the memorial erected to the memory of their dead comrades, and spoke of the funeral service that Chaplain Brown held over those killed in the Guasimas fight—"the first fight that we saw, the fight in which we served under the after time lieutenant general of the United States army, who is with us here today, Gen. Young."

Gen. Young had promised that if the regiment got into his brigade he would see that it got into the first fight, and, said the president, turning to Gen. Young, "you kept your word."

The president spoke of the bitter grief any war entails.

"The greatest sacrifices in war," the president said, "are made not by those who go to the front, who know the eager excitement of battle, and who, if they are worthy to be called men at all, feel the most buoyant exaltation in the good fortune which has given them the chance to show their manhood on stricken fields. Our sympathy is not for them, but for those whose harder task it is to wait at home, uncheered by the stern joy of battle, and who have to meet, with as brave a front as may be, the news, good or ill, that comes from the front."

Real Good from War.

The president spoke of the admiration felt by those who served in the volunteer forces for the officers and enlisted men of the regular army and navy, and he was sure that all volunteers came out of the war feeling, as he certainly did, that it should be their aim thereafter, in private or in public life, to do everything that lay in their power for the army and navy of the union which by their readiness for war make the greatest guaranty for peace that this country possesses.

He said the paramount reason why our people should look back to the Spanish-American war with pride and satisfaction was that "it marked in truth the complete reunion of our country. He said sons of men who had worn the blue and sons of those who had worn the gray "stood shoulder to shoulder, knit together by the closest of ties, and acknowledged with respect to one another only that generous jealousy each to try to be first to do all that in him lay for the honor and the interest of the flag that covered the reunited country."

The president said there was another lesson taught by every war well waged, taught preeminently by the civil war, but taught also by any lesser war, as that in which the regiment had been engaged. That was the lesson of real democracy, which consisted in treating each man in good faith on his worth as a man.

Individual Merit True Test.

"The experience of war, he pointed out, would try a man, and, he declared, you will find out what he is worth then." "The man you cared for," the president said, "was the man who did his ordinary plain duty right along, just as it came, from digging sinks and policing camp to leading a forlorn hope."

"All of this," he continued, "contains just the lesson that we need most in our civil life. We could not get on in the army, we never could conduct a war to a successful conclusion, if we permitted ourselves to be sundered by any class or caste or social or sectional or religious prejudice; and we cannot conduct the affairs of this nation, as they can and shall be conducted, save by putting into effect the same traits that enable us to do well in war. Distrust above all other men the man who seeks to make you pass judgment upon your fellow citizen upon any ground of artificial distinction between you and them.

"Distrust the man who seeks to get you to favor them or discriminate against them either because they are well off or not well off, because they occupy one social position or another, because they live in one part of the country or another, or because they profess one creed or another."

Conduct Only Standard.

The president said that we cannot afford, in our civic life, to permit the existence of any standard for judging our fellow citizen save the standard of conduct; we cannot afford to judge him by the accident of his position. He said all should remember that while now and then a good deal can be done by legislation, yet, fundamentally, in the last resort, what counts is less the outward law than the soul of the man who stands behind the law. In war as in civil affairs there are men whom you cannot get anything out of because it is not in them to get out.

The president discussed good citizenship and the necessity, above all, to remember to do the seemingly little humdrum duties well. The first step a man can take toward good citizenship is to be a good man in his own home; and then a good man toward his neighbors. "We need honesty and courage," he declared, "and, joined with them, we need the saving grace of common sense."

In closing the president referred feelingly to the dead, and made special reference to Capts. Capron and O'Neill, who were killed in Cuba. "The supreme lesson for all of us," he said, "is the lesson I have tried to draw, that the homage that counts is the homage not of the lips, but of the heart; the homage we pay to the memory of the valiant dead when we firmly resolve so to lead our lives that when we die we may feel not wholly unworthy to have been their comrades."

APRIL SNOW VISITS CHICAGO.

Sharp Wind Adds to the Discomfort of Persons Compelled to Be in the Streets.

Winter wandered back into Chicago yesterday and deposited .14 of an inch of snow. Fine feathery flakes began to fall at dawn and flurries continued throughout the day.

Sharp winds drove the sleet and snow into the faces of pedestrians, making the day as uncomfortable as April ever produced in this vicinity. The temperature ranged from 32 to 45 degrees.

Generally fair and cool weather is predicted for today, with a renewal of snow flurries.

CIRCUS WONDER TO 'KIDS.'

RINGLINGS ENTERTAIN 2,000 ORPHANS AND CRIPPLES.

Little Patients Throng Coliseum and Are Wild with Enthusiasm at the Splendor of Show—Delight at Monkeys and Elephants—Clowns' Capers Bring Screams of Approval from Section of Childish Faces—"Like It All the Best."

"O, I liked it all best. I just wish it would start right away to begin all over again."

This exclamation, voiced in a breath of bubbling over enthusiasm by a curly headed little girl who never had seen a circus, was typical of the opinions of the 2,000 crippled and orphan children who were guests of the Ringling brothers yesterday afternoon. She was Alice Kaniowski, one of eighty-five children from the school for crippled children, West Lake and Elizabeth streets. Alice's little limbs are cramped and shriveled. She never has known what it is to romp and play like other children. But all this was forgotten. The wheel chairs and the crutches and the homes of poverty all were forgotten for a space of two hours.

Policemen Help Them Out.

After the last performance had been finished and the children had caught their breath after witnessing the culminating thriller—the hazardous automobile somersault—and the strains of music had died away, the children remained in their seats, awaiting their turn to be carried by big policemen to the row of buses standing in front of the Coliseum. The interim was filled in with a babble of lively descriptions of what had been seen. As the crowd swept past toward the entrance, looking wonderingly upon the bank of childish faces, the custodians, who were the children's school teachers, were plied with a medley of questions.

"Wasn't them races the best, Miss Haskell?" asked little Alfred York, whose legs were amputated a year ago after he had been crushed beneath a street car. "Gee, I'd like to be one of those fellers that stood up and rode two horses at once."

"Ah, you couldn't do that," intercepted Bernard Kechwaski, whose little limbs were strengthened by long steel braces. "You ain't got no pins to stand on."

Miss Emma Haskell, who had charge of the children, intercepted a probable discussion with a mild reproof.

Arrive an Hour Early.

The children arrived at the Coliseum an hour before the circus began. Those from the Maxwell street settlement, Home of the Friendless, and others besides the crippled children were lined up two and two, and like an invading host were marshaled through the main entrance, thence to the menagerie. Such of the cripple children as could walk with the aid of crutches and some in rolling chairs, saw the animals.

Joy emanated in leaps and bounds from the sections occupied by the children at the advent of the clowns. The first one to appear was a grotesque policeman, with enormous feet.

"I'm Chief Collins, and I'm going to arrest somebody; let's see which one will it be?" the copper said threateningly.

"Quit hollerin'; you'll get arrested," cautioned one tow headed boy.

"He isn't a real copper. Ain't he funny looking. Anyhow, he don't look anything like my Uncle Jim, and he's a real policeman," responded another.

In the next moment there was a sudden influx of clowns, and the children readily were convinced that they should "holler" to their heart's content. Many new clown stunts, especially for the children, were enacted. The fairy tales of the story books were revived. An elephant "fell to pieces" before the children's eyes, and a big green alligator and an ostrich and forty other varieties of clowns mingled in the fun.

ATTORNEY FREED IN FRISCO CASE.

Shortridge Out of Jail, Where He Was Ordered by Judge Dunne for Contempt.

RUEF DECISION MONDAY.

Supreme Court Not Ready to Announce Opinion on Habeas Corpus Plea.

San Francisco, Cal., April 12.—Developments today in the bribery investigation were as follows:

The District Court of Appeals freed Attorney Samuel M. Shortridge from the contempt order and jail sentence imposed by Superior Judge Dunne.

Justice McFarland announced that the state Supreme court will not make known before next Monday its decision in Abraham Ruef's application for release by habeas corpus from the custody of Elisor Biggy.

Judge Dunne reiterated his total lack of confidence in the sheriff and the coroner to honestly summon a fresh venire of talesmen to complete the Ruef trial panel and adjourned court until next Monday.

Basis of Contempt Action.

Attorney Shortridge of Ruef's counsel more than a month ago was by Judge Dunne declared guilty of contempt of court and ordered confined in the county jail twenty-four hours because after repeated admonitions to sit down he persisted in objecting to a question asked by Coroner Walsh during the examination of that official incident to his sworn declaration that he, the sheriff, having been disqualified, was unable to find and arrest Ruef, a fugitive from justice.

The appellate court, in refusing to sustain Judge Dunne, takes the position that the latter, as respondent to Shortridge's application for discharge on habeas corpus, failed to set forth the fact that at the moment he was declared in contempt Shortridge's client, Ruef, was a fugitive from justice. The Supreme court will sit in Los Angeles next Monday, and the justices departed today for the south.

Lively Session in Dunne's Court.

In Judge Dunne's court a lively session was held. Ruef's prosecutors moved the disqualification of Sheriff O'Neil and Coroner Walsh for bias and prejudice in favor of the defendant, the ordering by the court of a special venire of 100 or more names from which to complete the trial panel and the appointment of an elisor to summon the veniremen.

The first affidavit received by Mr. Johnson was that of Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, in which he recited the turbulent history of the events leading up to the appointment of William J. Biggy as elisor. Heney's affidavit supported Johnson's motion, being in the nature of proof of the alleged unfitness of Sheriff O'Neil and Coroner Walsh to perform their functions.

Johnson then formally moved the disqualification of O'Neil and Walsh "on the ground that they are biased and prejudiced in favor of the defendant, Ruef, and would summon as jurors such persons only as are pledged to the interests of Ruef."

What Affidavits Contain.

The affidavit of Supervisor Daniel J. Coleman declared that he was president of the Metropolitan league, an organization formed to maintain the Ruef-Schmitz administration in power and to uphold Ruef's control of the political situation in San Francisco; that Sheriff O'Neil was a vice president of the league, and that both O'Neil and Coroner Walsh were members of its executive committee; that the expenses of the Schmitz reception were defrayed by contributions from municipal employés.

The affidavit of Secretary Louis Levy of the board of public works recited that he was secretary of the Metropolitan league; that the expenditures of the Schmitz reception were about $4,500; that Sheriff O'Neil and Coroner Walsh subscribed to a reception fund and were present at the reception.

The affidavit of John G. Lawler stated that during a conversation with Coroner Walsh the latter said on the bribe graft question:

"I give this as a political conspiracy hatched up to send innocent men to San Quentin."

OIL CASE VERDICT MAY COME TODAY

Final Arguments to the Jury Will Be Finished This Afternoon.

QUICK DECISION EXPECTED

Defense Trying to Reduce Possible Fine by Claiming Only One Offense.

Final arguments in the Standard Oil trial will be finished this afternoon, and after Judge Landis delivers his charges the case will go to the jury, with every prospect of an early verdict. The indications are that this verdict will be "guilty."

The opening argument of District Attorney Edwin W. Sims was completed yesterday, and he was followed by Attorney John S. Miller for the defense. Attorneys Moritz Rosenthal and Virgil P. Kline, general counsel for the Standard Oil company, will conclude for the defense this morning, and Assistant District Attorney James H. Wilkerson will deliver the closing argument for the government. Each side was limited to five hours, and if neither exceeds the allotted time Mr. Wilkerson will be through by 4:30 o'clock. Judge Landis' charge is expected to be short.

Possible Fine Still in Dispute.

Should the oil trust be found guilty on each of the 1,463 counts now comprising the indictment it is still a question whether it can be fined even the minimum penalty of $1,463,000. The defendant's attorneys contend that the various counts in the indictment are but parts of a single violation, admitting, for the sake of argument alone, that there has been any violation. They base this on the declaration that the Elkins law designates the receiving of a concession as the offense, and, as the oil was shipped on no other rate than 6 cents, there was but one concession, if any at all was granted. The government holds each car of oil represented a concession and for which punishment should be inflicted.

This question will be decided by Judge Landis after arguments on a motion in arrest of judgment, to be made by the defense in case a verdict of guilty is returned. Attorney Rosenthal sought to get a ruling on this point before the case should be submitted to the jury, but Judge Landis suggested that it could be settled later, and, as the jury had already been held over a month, it would be the courteous thing to finish the trial as soon as possible.

The two other motions presented by the defense were disposed of. One of these resulted in throwing out the 440 counts in which some vital element of proof was lacking. The other was that as so many of the counts were faulty the court should instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty on the entire indictment. This was promptly overruled by Judge Landis, and District Attorney Sims began his argument.

Argument of Attorney Sims.

"Not a single point of defense made in the opening statement of Attorney Rosenthal has been proved," said Mr. Sims. "We claim that all the facts in this case flatly disprove the statement of Traffic Manager Bogardus that he was told this 6 cent rate had been filed with the interstate commerce commission.

"If Bogardus' statement, taken in connection with that of F. S. Hollens, the rate clerk for the Chicago and Alton, shows anything it is that there was collusion between the shipper and the carrier to use a secret rate."

He referred to the statement made by Hollens that the billing order on which the Standard shipped its oil had but one counterpart, in the billing order granted the steel trust for its shipments. After a resume of the government's case and citations from the testimony of the various witnesses Mr. Sims closed, and Mr. Miller began his argument in behalf of the Standard Oil company.

Defense Pleads Ignorance of Rate.

The argument of the leading counsel for the defense was along the line of what the ordinary shipper could be expected to know when he went to a railroad office to get a freight rate. He said the Standard Oil company was not engaged in collecting tariffs and there was nothing to show that tariff 24, which stipulates the rate on oil was 18 cents, was in the possession or came to the knowledge of the defendant.

At the close of Mr. Miller's argument he received a severe check by misquoting the testimony of a witness. District Attorney Sims turned to the record and demonstrated the inaccuracy of his opponent's argument.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR GIRL; U. OF C. STUDENT MISSING.

Indianapolis High School Pupil Believed to Be in Chicago, Where University Man Is Only Acquaintance.

Indianapolis police have started a search in Chicago for Miss Anna V. Loughlin, 16 years old, a student in the Shortridge High school, who ran away after a quarrel with the principal a week ago.

Her schoolmates say the only person she knows in Chicago is Samuel L. Trotcky, a sophomore in the University of Chicago. He lives at 5742 Jackson avenue with the family of L. J. Ford.

"Samuel Trotcky lives with us, but he has not been home since Wednesday morning, when he got a letter from Indianapolis," Mrs. Ford said. "The letter bore a girl's handwriting. He seemed much excited about the letter, and I have not seen him since.

"Since the spring vacation, ten days ago, Samuel has been home only a few nights. I do not believe he is going to school this term. He has been irregular in the payment of his rent, and I have been forced to dun him several times. He has never revealed any of his affairs to me. Samuel has told me that he is 18 years old. He has made a good record in the university."

Other services in honor of laying of the cornerstone will be held during the day.

CAFE HELD FOR LOST WRAPS.

Vogelsang's Compelled by Appellate Court to Pay for Garments, Posted Warnings Notwithstanding.

Although placards in restaurants warn patrons that they are responsible for coats and hats, the proprietor is liable for their loss unless it can be shown that the patron knew of the warning, according to a decision of the branch Appellate court yesterday in a suit begun by Peter F. Fredkyn against John Z. Vogelsang. The plaintiff was given judgment for $58 in the Superior court and the upper court affirmed this finding.

With a friend Fredkyn went to Vogelsang's restaurant one Sunday evening in December, 1905. As they entered one of the head waiters took Fredkyn's overcoat and hat and showed them to a seat. When they were about to leave search was made for the overcoat and hat, but neither was found. In a suit which followed the defendant filed an affidavit disclaiming liability for certain reasons, one of which was that he had posted warning notices.

"The fact is immaterial unless the plaintiff had knowledge or notice of such notices," the court declares. "The affidavit states that defendant did not authorize his head waiter or any waiter to accept hats or coats from guests, but does not state that he did not permit them to do so. For all that appears it was the custom of waiters in defendants restaurant, as it is in other restaurants of high class, to take charge of the hats and wraps of guests when they entered the restaurant."

LAWYERS CLASH AT BANK TRIAL.

Court Ruling Against Admitting Conversation as Evidence to Be Contested.

DEFENSE IS NOT AGREED.

One Attorney Thinks Decision Will Prevent the State from Proving Conspiracy.

Jerome V. Pierce, cashier of the shortlived Bank of America, under indictment on a charge of conspiracy, took the stand yesterday afternoon as the first witness for the defense in the trial of himself and his three associates in the management of the bank.

Within fifteen minutes after the beginning of his preliminary testimony a question put to Mr. Pierce by his attorney, Seymour Stedman, precipitated one of the most peculiar situations which the complicated hearing has yet produced.

Mr. Pierce was asked to testify in regard to a conversation between himself and G. F. Sorrow, another of the defendants. Assistant State's Attorney Hobart P. Young at once objected to the introduction of conversations between defendants as testimony, and after a heated discussion Mr. Young's motion was upheld by the court.

Coup for Defense Claimed.

Former Judge A. N. Waterman and Attorney Luther Laflin Mills, counsel for Abner Smith, protested the motion vigorously and asked that the court's decision be withheld for the introduction of authorities. A third member of the group of attorneys for the defense, however, in discussing the motion informally, upheld the decision of the court and declared that it constitutes a coup for the defense.

"The state stepped into a trap there," he said with a smile. "If all conversations between defendants are barred it means that on the cross examination of these witnesses the state will be bound by the same ruling. In other words, as far as the defendants are concerned, the state can adduce no testimony whatever in the direction of establishing a conspiracy, and the defendants are the only ones whose testimony could establish such a charge!"

The motion of the state's attorney, it was announced, will be contested further this morning.

Tells of Bank's Formation.

Mr. Pierce's testimony pertained to his connection with the bank during its early history. He first heard of the project, he said, in the summer of 1905, when he was employed as credit man by the Fuller & Fuller company. G. F. Sorrow, he said, met him in a street car, told him of the bank plan, and suggested that he accept a position in connection with the projected bank, and assist in perfecting the bank's scheme for establishing branches at drug stores throughout the city. After further conferences he accepted the proposal.

Clarence S. Darrow, the witness said, suggested that if a bank were started in Chicago, and advertised as friendly to labor interests, it would have large patronage.

"Mr. Darrow asked me," said Mr. Pierce, "if I thought ex-Judge Smith would be willing to cooperate in a plan which he had made together with Thomas I. Kidd, secretary of the Amalgamated Woodworkers. A conference was held with ex-Judge Smith in his office in the Chicago Opera House block, and he said he would be glad to cooperate. I was informed at the time that Smith was a director in the Knickerbocker Ice company and several other institutions, and that he was worth from $500,000 to $750,000."

Further reference to Mr. Darrow's plan was made at a conference held in the office of Ferdinand W. Peck, who subsequently became one of the directors of the bank.

"Mr. Peck told me," said the witness, "that several people had objected to Darrow as a director. He said, as I remember it, that there was nothing against him as a man or a lawyer, but that Darrow in a bank would be like a bull in a china shop. Mr. Darrow said afterward that he didn't care for himself, but he was interested in having his son, Paul, start in the bank, and that he could help him more as a director."

Mr. Pierce said the original plan had been to have $1,000,000 cash capital, but Mr. Darrow and others "thought that was too much." The bank's stock, he declared, was oversubscribed on Nov. 29, 1905.

On the occasion of one visit to Smith's office, said the witness, Smith remarked that the loans amounted to between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000.

Officers Elected at Banquet.

"Were you present at the banquet at the Sherman house on the occasion of inaugurating the bank?" asked Attorney Stedman at another point.

"Yes, I presided," replied Mr. Pierce.

"Were the officers elected on that evening?"

"Yes. It was intended to make Ferdinand W. Peck vice president, but he declined it on account of ill health. Sorrow was to have been manager of the real estate department."

On Dec. 2, 1905, according to Mr. Pierce, ex-Judge Smith reported for the first time that he would be unable to pay cash for his entire stock subscription.

"He told me," said the witness, "that he had had a great disappointment. The party who was going to furnish the bulk of the securities for his subscription to one-half of the bank's capital stock had fallen down. Part of the subscription, he said, could be attended to, but the rest would have to be carried for on the books.

"Mere Matter of Bookkeeping."

"He told me of another bank where money had been taken from the paying teller's cage and counted by the auditor and then put back. 'It was merely a matter of bookkeeping,' he said. Smith, we understood, was perfectly good, so Howe, the assistant cashier, and I figured out the amount that would have to be covered by notes. Howe said he had it arranged to have the notes signed. As far as I knew, everybody understood it."

"Did you sign any of the notes?" asked Attorney Stedman.

"I signed one, my wife signed one, and my daughter signed one."

"Do you know of any of the notes that were not indorsed by Smith, Sorrow, or yourself?"

"No, sir."

At this point court was adjourned to this morning.

The morning session was taken up with the opening statements of the attorneys for the defense. The substance of their arguments was that evidence will be produced to show that whatever "mismanagement, mistakes of judgment, or acts by which any one lost money," may have existed, there was no technical conspiracy, as defined in the laws of the state of Illinois.

NO INSURANCE FOR MURDER.

Court Decides Policy on Life of Man Hanged for Crime Need Not Be Paid.

Public policy forbids the recovery of insurance on a person executed for murder, the branch Appellate court decided yesterday in a suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company brought by Hugh Collins, executor of the will of Robert Kilpatrick, who was executed for murder in Pennsylvania.

Kilpatrick murdered his housekeeper, Elizabeth Bearmore, at Chester, Pa., on Feb. 14, 1902. He was convicted and hanged on Aug. 25, 1903. Before the crime Kilpatrick had been insured, and on his death a request was made for payment of the policy. Suit then was begun.

"It is, we think," the court declares, "apparent that, if such contracts should be held valid, a man bent upon commiting a capital crime, or one engaged in such offenses as burglary, in which he would be liable to commit murder, could, by taking out such a policy, relieve himself from a restraint which is perhaps the most powerful that many men may feel, the protection of those dependent upon them from pecuniary need."

BAD BUSINESS METHODS.

Much is said and written about the possibilities for American merchants and manufacturers in the development of trade relations with South American countries. There are a number of agencies which are working toward this end. At the same time there is an increasing foreign competition which is to be taken into account. Every market which adds to the volume of American trade should be watched in order that it may be held for the United States. If there are bad business methods employed the result in the end will be a loss of trade to representatives of other countries, who look after the little details in which Americans fail.

Some of these bad methods are set forth in a consular report dealing with drawbacks to American trade with Argentina. It comes from the consul general at Buenos Ayres. He gives specific illustrations. Shipments of a certain class of cotton goods in which American exporters have a monopoly show regularly a net loss for the importer because the packing of each bale weighs eight pounds more than shown in the invoice, this eight pounds being paid for as merchandise. Protests have proved unavailing. Now the importers are turning to Japan, where some English capitalists are likely to get this line of business long held by Americans.

Comparison of American care in packing with that taken by German and French exporters indicates a constant loss for those who buy in the United States. The freight from those foreign countries always comes in fine condition. There are many broken and damaged articles found when the American bundles are opened. Leather goods are received unlike the sample from which they were ordered. Lumber comes full of knots and resin. The importer has to stand the loss. The local merchants blame the importer and there is bad feeling all around. Such shortsighted business methods are roundly denounced by the American representative, who sees in them certain loss of trade.

The trade catalogue of the American and the personal representative of the European are shown in marked contrast. The article ordered from the American catalogue often is found to be "something just as good" instead of what was wanted. The foreign representative is at hand to hear complaints and make the losses good. There is no redress in the American case, except through the slow process of correspondence. The consul general cites these examples of bad business methods as a warning. The little things of life have great influence in trade. If the American exporters neglect these as they have been doing the outcome is certain. The foreigners will get the business. The shortsighted policy is bad from every point of view.

TRIUMPHANT COEDUCATION.

The decision of the authorities of Johns Hopkins university to admit women to its courses of graduate instruction marks another step in the triumphant progress of the coeducation idea. The action is one of considerable significance, because it is generally accepted that the marked development of the true university in the United States dates from the establishment of the Baltimore institution a little over a quarter of a century ago. The recognition of the fact that it is impossible longer to withstand the claims of women for equal privileges with men in university work is now complete.

The central west has just reason for pride in the part which it has played in this revolution. When Horace Mann, who had been a firm advocate of coeducation, began his service as first president of Antioch college in Ohio in 1855 it was as head of the first institution of collegiate rank which made coeducation of the sexes a fundamental provision, with the sole exception of Oberlin, where the same principle had been in operation for more than twenty years. A half century, therefore, has completed the triumph of the idea.

Its greatest impetus came from the state universities in the west, most of which were coeducational from the start. When the civil war called the men from the schoolroom to sterner tasks and left the women to undertake the work of teaching the children it was inevitable that they should demand better training for that important duty. One by one, since that time, the universities have opened their doors to them. The idea has won its way in Canada and in the old world. The women have proved their ability in scholarship. They have made important contributions to knowledge as the result of creditable research. Their own scholarly accomplishments have been the most potent arguments in their favor.

There still will be popularity for the colleges which limit instruction to one sex. There are advantages offered in the colleges for men only which some will appreciate. There are respects in which the colleges for women only surpass those where both sexes attend. But it is clear that the coeducation idea has triumphed in the college and university world. There may be adjustments here and there, as special occasion suggests, but the fact that the idea has gained such favor throughout the world during a half century may be taken as satisfactory evidence that women have won their fight for equal privileges in the field of higher education.

THE JOLIET PENITENTIARY.

The suggestion that the penitentiary be moved a little farther from Joliet will not be acted on at this session of the legislature, but it will be given serious consideration hereafter. The present site is a bad one for several reasons. A new and better site could be got within a short distance. The stone required for walls and buildings could be quarried on the spot by the prisoners themselves, and they could cut and set the stone. The present penitentiary was built by convict labor. About half a century ago Col. Buckmaster, the lessee of the prison labor, brought up a squad of convicts from the old Alton penitentiary, put them in a stockade, and set them to building their own prison walls. If a little railroad were to be built from the penitentiary to a new site the convicts could easily be taken back and forth under guard.

Not the least of the benefits of a new penitentiary would be that it would put out of the way for a time the irritating question of convict labor. Organized labor is protesting strenuously against the present method of disposing of the product of convict labor, under which about 40 per cent of it is sold in the open market. It is alleged that free labor is being driven to the wall in certain trades. The prison officials contend that unless they are allowed to sell some prison made goods in the open market it will be impossible to keep all the convicts busy, and the health of the idle ones will be impaired. The erection of a new prison would make so much work that there would be no more goods to sell in the open market and the labor unions would have nothing to complain of.

While the legislature will not act on the broader question of a new penitentiary, it should at least provide for the erection of a new cellhouse for the men. The present one was built in what sanitary experts would call the dark ages. When two convicts are put in the same cell, which has to be done to a considerable extent, there is but seventy-five cubic feet of air space per man. Four hundred cubic feet is the minimum demanded by the law in the Chicago lodging houses. It is not surprising that so many convicts die of consumption. The state should not pet and pamper the criminals it holds in custody, but it should not deliberately implant the seeds of disease in their systems and incapacitate them for honest work if they wish to take it up after being set free. There should be no needless delay about the erection of a new cellhouse.

LORD CROMER.

The resignation of Lord Cromer is a loss both to England and to Egypt. While Egypt is nominally a kingdom tributary to Turkey, it is practically one of the provinces of the British empire, and Lord Cromer has been its proconsul. His administrative work reflects credit upon him personally and upon the empire which retained him in office for so many years. He has made his mark upon the history of the world.

Lord Cromer was private secretary to the viceroy of India for four years, and afterward financial member of the council of the viceroy. In the interval between his two Indian appointments he was commissioner of the Egyptian public debt and controller general of Egypt. In 1883 he returned to Egypt and has been the chief personage in Egypt ever since as representative of the British government. Counting from the time when he entered the military academy at Woolwich he has been forty-nine years in the service of the government.

During his administration in Egypt the finances of that country have been placed on a solid foundation, the waters of the Nile have been controlled so as to accomplish more good and less harm than they have done for many centuries. The system of forced labor which existed in Egypt as far back as the days of that other great foreign ruler, Joseph, son of Israel, has been abolished and the fellah has the privilege of working for himself instead of for a taskmaster. The work of Lord Cromer has gone on through all the changes of party in England.

The continuance of a faithful and capable administrator in office is one of the secrets of England's success in dealing with colonial possessions and other dependencies. The United States will have to learn this lesson before it can be expected that Porto Rico, the Philippines, and the other outlying dependencies of the United States shall reach the degree of prosperity to which they have a right to aspire under American rule. There can be found in this country as well as in England men who can govern foreign peoples wisely and justly. But if such men are to be removed from office every time there is a change in party politics at home their services will be of little value. The dependencies of the United States should be outside the domain of party politics, or it will be impossible to govern them well.

POLITICS AND THE POLICE.

The shameful and even criminal use which was made of the police department during the late campaign is becoming a matter of official record. One may thank Mayor Busse's election for that. If he had been defeated the lips of the men who are now confessing some of the disgraceful practices they knew of or took part in would have been sealed. Now it is not a matter of surmise but of certainty that the police force, neglecting its legitimate work, became for a time the mainstay of the democratic campaign committee. The voters have rejected the men for whom the police department labored, but the man primarily responsible for its political activity ought not to escape punishment.

License officers testify that they were sent out among the saloonkeepers to work for Mayor Dunne. Plain clothes men were put on the street cars and told to electioneer for him while nominally looking out for pickpockets. Policemen were detailed to look after Dunne lithographs and have Dunne slides used in the 5 cent theaters. The most damaging statement was that made by a police captain that while at least twenty men were added to the force in his district just before the campaign, he did not have nearly so many men doing patrol duty as he did a year before, when the chief of police was saying that there were too few policemen to cope with the criminals. Men who should have been on their beats, looking out for burglars and highwaymen, were set at drumming up votes for the democratic ticket. That was the crowning infamy of this year's political police activity.

There is a moral certainty that the policemen were assessed for political purposes, but certain inspectors and other officers are mum on the subject. They have been asked, "Did you collect political contributions?" and "Do you know of any persons ordered to make contributions?" These are pertinent questions, but the men who have been interrogated refuse to answer them on the ground that if they did they might incriminate themselves.

The man who excuses himself from answering on that ground practically confesses guilt. Nobody would blame the police officials for refusing to furnish evidence against themselves if it were the intention to punish them. They have been assured by the civil service commission that it is not its intention to punish them. Nevertheless they remain silent.

Refusal to speak under these circumstances is an offense which should be punished by removal. The trial and dismissal of a few police officials who have violated the civil service law and who will not, even when assured of immunity for themselves, tell who made them violate it will have a wholesome effect. There should be no impenitent lawbreakers on the force.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Congressman Cushman "would like to see the American people come back to sane and simple methods of life, unmarked by business chicanery and unmarred by vulgar ostentation." This is an assumption that the American people have degenerated—that there was a time when business chicanery and vulgar ostentation were unknown in this country. Perhaps there was, but it must have been at an early period in American history. A hundred or two hundred years ago men deplored the decay of the stern and simple virtues of the early Americans and begged their descendants to return to the old simple life. Even in primitive colonial days it was considered necessary to legislate against the prevalent vices of business chicanery and vulgar ostentation.

"The simple life" is too vague a phrase. That which one generation regards as a luxurious life the succeeding generation considers a simple and almost Spartan life. One would like to have simplicity standardized so that everybody would be able to know exactly how to conduct his life. Not one of those who preaches "the simple life" gives the accurate information which the public craves.

Teaching by example is usually most effective. When the teacher wishes his pupil to shun a particular vice he points out to him some conspicuous victim of that vice and bids him take warning. If he wishes the pupil to practice some virtue he calls attention to some one who greatly exemplifies that virtue. So it would be most helpful if those who are pleading with the people to lead "the simple life" were to mention some well known person whose manners and customs they can study and copy.

Unless the country is in a bad way, there must be among its citizens prominent business men who do not stoop to chicanery, millionaires who shun vulgar ostentation—as Mr. Russell Sage did—and men of more than local fame who lead the orthodox simple life. Congressman Cushman's remarks at the Hamilton club dinner would have been more interesting, because more personal, if he had given a list of the men—some of them residents of this city, perhaps—after whom his hearers could safely pattern. That would be an honor list which any man ought to be proud to figure in. It is not too late for Congressman Cushman to give the public that interesting and useful list.

PEOPLE appeared to be more anxious yesterday about the verdict than about the score.

IT is not the fault of the florists that their business always picks up when there is a desperate murderer or two in jail.

THE police inspectors need not give those incriminating answers now unless they so choose. The evidence appears to be ample without them.

"How does it feel to be counted out?" they asked him.

"I don't know," answered the defeated pugilist. "I was a billion miles away while that was going on."

Omissions of History.

Henry Hudson was sailing up the majestic river that bears his name.

"I think we've gone far enough," he said, scanning the landscape. "I don't want folks to suspect that I'm trying to find the New York legislature."

Hastily giving the order to put the ship about, he warned the newspaper correspondents on board to write nothing about the incident, and sought the seclusion that his cabin granted.

C. W. T.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

EMPEROR WILLIAM, realizing the important rôle which aerial navigation is likely to play in the next great war, has started his soldiers practicing fire with rifles and with artillery at balloons in midair. The practice is being carried on more particularly in the neighborhood of Dantzig. Small balloons of the capacity of 100 cubic meters are being sent up and aimed at with small arms and heavy guns, and much bigger balloons, held captive by cables 3,000 feet in length, are towed to within range of the coast batteries at distances varying from three to nine miles and then shot at.

The practice, which partakes largely of an experimental character, is being watched with much interest by the officers of the general staff of the German army, especially by those attached to the artillery and ballooning departments, and is exciting attention on the part of military men all over Europe.

It is probable that the example thus set by the kaiser will be followed by most other powers, as it is universally conceded that airships will figure far more largely in forthcoming wars than ever before, especially now that the problem of controlling the direction of their flight has been solved. It has remained, however, for Emperor William, with his wonderful spirit of initiative not only in military matters but in almost every other phase of human activity, to impress upon the world the necessity of devising practical means of defense against hostile airships and to lead the way in training soldiers how to deal with this novel method of warfare.

Apparently authentic news comes from London to the effect that the duke of Portland, Lord Howard de Walden, and the Druce claimants to the honors and estates of the late duke of Portland have at length, after many years, agreed to the opening of the grave of Thomas Druce, owner of the Baker street bazaar in London. The entire story of the Druce claimants is based on their contention that Thomas Druce and the late Duke of Portland were one and the same person, that the late duke survived the alleged death of Thomas Druce for a number of years, and that the alleged burial of Thomas Druce in Kensal Green cemetery was merely a subterfuge, the coffin containing either a log of wood or sand. If, therefore, it could be proved that the coffin really contained the body of Thomas Druce, or even if it were shown to hold human remains, the whole myth upon which the Druce claimants base their pretensions and on the strength of which they have obtained large sums of money from credulous people to prosecute their alleged rights would be exposed. Under the circumstances it is difficult to understand why the tomb of Thomas Druce should not have been opened and investigated years ago, and the belief, widely circulated, to the effect that the duke of Portland and his cousin, Lord Howard de Walden, who is coheir with him of the late duke of Portland's immense property, have exerted all their political and social influence to prevent the opening of the grave has gone far towards strengthening the impression that there is some truth in the Druce story.

To people here in America it may seem strange that the Druces should have been unable themselves to open and investigate the Druce tomb in Kensal Green cemetery. But in Great Britain it is the government which alone has the authority to permit a disinterment or even the opening of a coffin once entombed. By the terms of the law a corpse ceases to belong to the members of its family from the moment that the last breath has vanished, and while a family may own the tomb or the grave, yet it has no right to disinter the remains once they have been laid to rest, or to transfer them anywhere else, without the permission of the secretary of state for the home department, who is extremely chary about granting permits of this kind. The reluctance of the home department to permit the opening of the Druce tomb may be explained by the fact that there are few of the older peerages in existence without one or more claimants, who might put forward similar demands for the disturbance of illustrious dead in order to establish their pretensions, the claimant to the barony and estates of Lord Lovat being a case in point.

Now, however, that all parties interested in the Druce-Portland case, including the duke and Lord Howard de Walden, are united in petitioning the secretary of state for permission to open the tomb, it is probable that Herbert Gladstone will grant the necessary sanction, if only to put an end to what the authorities seem disposed to regard as a conspiracy to swindle a number of poor and confiding people out of their savings. For George Hollanby Druce, the chief claimant to the estates and to the dukedom of Portland, has formed a company for the purpose of furnishing the funds needed for the furtherance of his pretensions in the courts of law, and in the prospectus by means of which subscriptions are obtained all possible capital is made out of the mystery in connection with Thomas Druce's tomb and the alleged influence exerted by the duke of Portland and Lord Howard de Walden upon the government to prevent the said mystery from being solved by the opening of the grave.

I will not relate here again the oft told story of Thomas Druce and of the late eccentric duke of Portland. But I will merely point out that there is every evidence to show that Thomas Druce was a much older man than the late duke of Portland and that he succumbed in 1864 to internal abscesses, for which he had been operated upon a few days before his demise by Sir William Ferguson and Dr. Edmund Shaw, the case remaining impressed upon their memory owing to the fact that one of the nurses who assisted in the operation got a poisoned hand therefrom and died.

Yet the claimant, despite this evidence of the two doctors in question, persists in asserting that his grandfather, Thomas Druce, did not really die in 1864, but survived until 1879, in the rôle of the duke of Portland, at Welbeck, basing his pretension on the fact that the certificate of Thomas Druce's death was not signed by any medical man, as is required nowadays. But the law which necessitates the signature of a physician to a death certificate was not in existence at the time of Thomas Druce's death and did not come into force until several years afterwards.

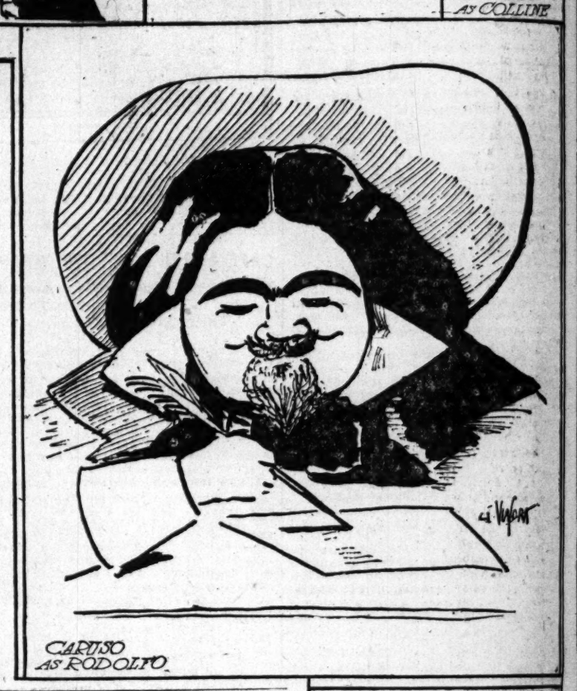

Sir Eric Barrington, who is retiring in June on a pension from the office of assistant undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, after forty years of service, is one of the most familiar figures in the official and social life of England, and as private secretary has been the alter ego of the late Lord Salisbury and of many other ministers of foreign affairs. He is a younger brother of the late Viscount Barrington and an uncle, therefore, of the present peer, who was in this country last fall, though, of course, in nowise related to the English criminal who postured in various parts of this country and abused the confidence of so many people under the name of "Lord Barrington."

The origin of the family, as related by Dean Swift of "Gulliver's Travels" celebrity, was romantic. It seems that in the early part of the eighteenth century John Shute, a young Presbyterian, attracted the attention of John Wildman, a rich Berkshire land owner, and on his death the latter willed him his entire property as being the worthiest person that he had ever encountered. There was no relationship between the two men, and their personal acquaintance was of the slightest. Not long afterwards a Mr. Francis Barrington, who had married a Miss Elizabeth Shute, died without issue, and when his will was opened it was found that he, too, had left his entire property to his dead wife's distant kinsman, John Shute, stipulating, however, that he should assume the name and arms of Barrington. John had thus become a rich man indeed, and was a big land owner, possessed of much political influence.

Under the circumstances it was only natural that the government of the day, anxious for his support, should procure for him a peerage, and he was created in 1720 Viscount Barrington in the kingdom of Ireland. The dignity being an Irish one, he was able to retain his seat in the house of commons, from which he was expelled three years later for taking upon himself the entire blame of the fraudulent Hamburg lottery in order to save the reputation of its president, the then prince of Wales, afterwards George II., who was gravely compromised in the affair.

LA BOHEME.

An Opera in Three Acts.

BY

G. PUCCINI.

Presented at the Auditorium, Chicago, by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, April 12, 1907. The Cast:

Mimi	Mme. Ciaparelli
Musetta	Mme. Alten
Rodolfo	M. Caruso
Marcello	M. Scotti
Colline	M. Journet
Schaunard	M. Simard

Conductor, Mr. Arturo Vigna.

Another completely sold out house at the opera last night. The cause for the liberal patronage is to be found first in the popularity of Sig. Caruso, who at present is easily the widest known singer before the American and English publics, and second in the fact that the opera presented deservedly enjoys high favor with music lovers and the general amusement seeker as well.

"La Bohème" until last evening had had but a single presentation in the Auditorium—one given by Mme. Melba and her company in 1899—but Mr. Savage's company made it familiar by repeated performances here. It came therefore as a known quantity to people interested in opera, and Caruso's appearance in it was assurance that it would be effectively given. It was.

The jollity and good natured improvidence which often make student life both in its ideal and actual forms picturesque, interesting, and attractive were most skillfully simulated by Messrs. Caruso, Scotti, Journet, and Simard, who played the quartet of bohemians around whom the incidents of the opera move. The four singers clearly were enjoying themselves in their performance, and their enjoyment was genuine enough and infectious enough to reach out across the footlights and cause every person in the house to share it with them. Caruso appeared in a reddish wig and beard, and wore the ill shaped but picturesque clothes of the 1830 period. He was all chatter and animation, and skipped and jumped about like a boy out of school. He is better in comical or plebeian rôles than he is in those demanding tragic emotion or especial elegance of manner, and his Rodolfo placed him exactly in his element just as Lionel in "Martha" did a year ago.

He sang the music of the part with a fluency and smoothness in the short phrase musical dialogue which made it seem mere talking, and when the lyric line rose into sight he voiced it with the great tonal purity and beauty that characterize all he does. His singing of "Chi son?" in the first act was of supreme splendor so far as vocal quality was concerned, and there was a nearer approach to genuine emotion in it than is found in the majority of his utterances. In the following duet with Mimi and again in the third and the last acts there were moments of wondrous beauty for which his marvelous voice was responsible. Rodolfo is a rôle especially suited to him, and the audience received him with acclaim. In fact, his singing of "Chi son?" in the first act roused the listeners to the most enthusiastic expression of approval that the week had brought. There were cries of "Encore" and "Bis" from all parts of the house, and the performance stopped until he twice had come forward to bow repeatedly.

Sig. Scotti as Marcello had no particular opportunity given him to show what he could do, his portion of the ensemble in the close of the second act being the nearest approach he has to a sustained number. But in every scene in which he appeared he was source of genuine satisfaction to the onlooker and auditor. He acts with so much of ease and finish that it is a pleasure to watch him, and his voice is of such beauty, his artistic sincerity so evident, and his handling of the parlando phrase so masterly that he, like Caruso, made the musical dialogue of Puccini seem close to actual conversation.

Mr. Journet was a fitting companion for Caruso and Scotti, and in his one number—Colline's farewell to his overcoat—he made the most of his opportunity, and throughout all the scenes in which he appeared he added to the jollity, the fun making, and the fine balance of the ensemble. Mr. Simard, the Schaunard of the cast, was a newcomer, but he fitted well into the quartet of Bohemian artists, and so far as could be judged from the little he had to do, is a baritone of pleasant quality and good abilities, and an actor of fair powers.

The Mimi of the cast was Mme. Ciaparelli, a young singer who had not been heard here before, and who, owing to Miss Abott's defection from the Conried organization, assumed the rôle on comparatively short notice. Although not giving a great or strongly individualized presentment of the part either vocally or dramatically, she acquitted herself with credit and was kindly received by the public. Her voice is a soprano of good range, and, barring certain high tones, which last evening were badly taken, is of agreeable quality. She sings true to the pitch and with clarity and exactness in phrasing. Her work with Sig. Caruso was neatly and intelligently done, and the tenor showed his kindliness as an artist by assisting and guiding her in every way possible. She sang her portion of the duet in the first act with good understanding and with commendable smoothness and finish, and in the third and last acts was similarly successful. Her acting is inclined to be excessive at times, but it shows that she has thought concerning the dramatic side of her work, and the fault is usually one of technic rather than of intention.

Mme. Alten was the Musetta and was captivating. All the spitfire impulsiveness, the generosity, the good heartedness, and the temper of the likable character she made plain and effective. Her singing is invariably excellent both as regards quality and spirit, and last night was one of the chief sources of the pleasure the performance afforded.

The season will close with tonight's double bill. "Hänsel and Gretel" and "I Pagliacci" will be given, the former enlisting the service of Mmes. Alten, Mattfeld, and Jacoby, and the latter those of Caruso, Stracciari, Reiss, and Mme. Alten. In the afternoon "Tosca" will be sung, with Mme. Eames, Scotti, and Dippel in the principal rôles.

Thomas Orchestra.

The Thomas orchestra devoted its concert yesterday afternoon to commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the death of Brahms. The commemoration took the form such observances should when the person thus honored is an adult man or woman—not sadness and lamentation at the passing, but gratitude and gladness for what was achieved during the life lived.

The concert Mr. Stock had arranged—it was to have been given a week earlier, but the engaging of Sir Edward Elgar made postponement unavoidable—was devoted, of course, to compositions by Brahms and only the joyous ones were selected. There was the "Academic Festival Overture," with the spirit and buoyancy of college life so inspiringly suggested; there was the "Chorale St. Anthony" Variations, which are but a Brahms reflection of Haydn musical sunshine; there was the double Concerto for violin and 'cello, which is a composition in nowise somber or sad; and then there was the second symphony, a work one of the most gladsome in spirit that the German master created.

Verily, it was an afternoon of rejoicing—a fitting commemoration of the passing of a man who added much that is precious and enduring to the music treasures of the world.

The one comparative novelty on the list was the Concerto for violin and 'cello. It has not had frequent production here—during the fourth season of the orchestra's existence Mr. Steindel and Mr. Boegner were the soloists in a performance of it under Mr. Thomas' direction, and at the summer night concerts in the old exposition building several years previous—it must have been the summer of 1889 or 1890—it had its first Chicago presentation, Victor Herbert being the 'cellist and Max Bendix the violinist. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Steindel again had the solo 'cello part and Ludwig Becker cared for the solo violin.

The performance was of highest excellence, the two men being thoroughly in sympathy and so akin in their musical tastes and temperaments that interpretative harmony characterized everything done. The composition itself is one of distinct beauty, serene and noble as is all that Brahms has written, masterly in workmanship, and containing melodic beauties, especially in the last two movements, which make instant and strong appeal.

That Mr. Steindel would make the most of his portion of the work was a foregone conclusion, for the tonal loveliness that is an unfailing element in everything he does, the thorough musicianship, the fine artistic sense, and the temperamental warmth that are his, all qualify him for a satisfying and authoritative rendition of the 'cello part.

Mr. Becker has had fewer opportunities to prove his worth, but those who are familiar with what he can do know him as a violinist of fine powers. His tone is of exceptional purity, clarity, steadiness, and nobility—a tone which charms and moves. His technical equipment is of the highest and his musicianship and musical taste are such that the inartistic or common never are heard from him. He read the Brahms with just the repose and dignity it requires, and yet there was lightness and grace when these were in place. And tonally his performance was a delight. Both he and Mr. Steindel were recalled again and again when the concerto was ended, but could not respond save with bows.

Mr. Stock and the orchestra were in fine condition and threw themselves into their work with all the enthusiasm and sincerity which they have come to bring invariably to bear when the music of Brahms is receiving attention at their hands. The result was genuine pleasure to all who heard. The same program will be repeated tonight, commencing at 8:15 o'clock.

OPERA RECEIPTS NEAR $80,000.

Total for Week Slightly in Excess of the Amount Taken In a Year Ago.

The week of grand opera has enticed nearly $80,000 from the pockets of Chicago patrons.

According to the statement of Millward Adams, manager of the Auditorium theater, this sum of money has been taken in at the box office, including the sales of seats for this afternoon and this evening's performances. The figures are slightly in excess of those of a year ago.

"The management of the theater as well as the grand opera company is more than satisfied with the returns and the interest shown by Chicago patrons this season," said Mr. Adams last evening. "The patronage during the week is ample proof that Chicagoans love good music."

Heaven Not on Vesuvius.

[From the Rochester Herald.]

Prof. Matteucci, superintendent of the Vesuvius observatory, was dining with some Americans at the Royal hotel in Naples. The dining room fronted the sea. The waves crashed against the massive embankment of stone, and showers of white spray rose high in the sunlit air.

"This is heavenly. But what is it like in your observatory when Vesuvius is active?" a young woman asked.

"It is not like heaven," said Prof. Matteucci. "It reminds me of a story about a Neapolitan widow whose husband had been dead some years. One night she was persuaded to go to a spiritualists' séance, and there the spirit of her dead husband appeared and spoke to her.

"'My dear Agostino,' said the widow to the shade, 'are you happy now?'

"'I am very happy,' Agostino answered.

"'Happier than you were on earth with me?' asked the widow.

"'Yes,' replied the shade; 'I am far, far happier now than I was on earth with you.'

"'Tell me, Agostino, what is it like in heaven?'

"'Heaven?' said Agostino. 'I am not in heaven.'"

Joys of Gardening.

The delight of a garden is never ceasing. Every year one thinks of some improvement in the summer, and carrying them out in the autumn is the most fascinating employment. One's plants become one's friends, and I think one can get more real pleasure out of gardening for a little outlay than one can in anything else.—The countess of Altamont in The Gentlewoman.

Devices of Defense.

What could be more perfect defense than the device of the moorhen? She sinks herself in the water beneath an overhanging root or bank, leaving only her bill in sight. And that looks like a fallen leaf. You may stand within six feet of her and she will not move, so sure is she that her ruse will succeed.—London Evening Standard.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT PUBLICATIONS.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

PROF. LOVETT'S NEW NOVEL DEALS INCIDENTALLY WITH COLLEGE LIFE.

It Contains Spiritual Wisdom as Well as Intellectual Interest and Is Full of Neighborliness and Good Will.

MR. ROBERT MORSS LOVETT, who, about two years since, wrote a lucid and agreeable novel entitled "Richard Gresham," has now produced a second one of much larger and more sympathetic character called "THE WINGED VICTORY" (Duffield & Co.). The story is located variously in Chicago, in one of the prairie suburbs, and at the Northwestern university. There is no hero. There is merely a heroine—a motherless, eager, wistful, loving girl, who had dreams of victory which she never was able to realize. It was because of these dreams that the least worthy but the most talented of her lovers dubbed her "the winged victory" and wrote a poem to her and also to the headless marble of Samothrace—a poem which brought him a pleasant fame, and eventually, in his hours of defeat, furnished him with a standard by which to measure his own subsidence from his high water mark of idealism.

Dora Glenn is the name of the heroine, and, like Maggie Tulliver in "Middlemarch," she has such a maternal passion in her that it seems as if she could carry every one along in her arms. From first to last she plays the feminine part, immolating herself upon the altar of some masculine being. First it is her little brother Peter, whom her mother has in dying, confided to her care. She loves him so that she does not realize that he is mentally deficient. She takes him to school and holds herself back that she may be with him and assist him to understand all that he finds so difficult. Under the pressure of her ambition he overstudies and his deficiencies become more noticeable. He is taken from school and finally, at the age of 13, is given a task which poor Dora hopes will divert and develop him. Instead of that it causes his death.

Dora's next charge is her weak, brilliant, dissolute father, whom she sees out of a world in which he had made some distinguished failures, into that further world for which he was so ill prepared. By this time she already was married to a petulant, jealous, suspicious man of talent whose acquaintance she had formed at the coeducational college she attended. Nobody liked him. Even Dora couldn't have liked him. She merely loved him, with an infinitude of compassion. He needed to be "understood" and as there was nobody else at hand to do the understanding she undertook to do it. In satisfying his need, she passed by the love of the only man in the book who really seems to stand upright, facing the actualities and responsibilities of life. This man, Leverett Raymond, remains her friend through all the days of futile sacrifice in which Dora tried to fulfill her destiny with her inept husband. Vance Sterling was his name—a man who was forever glimpsing glory and never grasping it. He destroyed himself after a time, and in doing so showed a certain generosity which partly redeemed the pusillanimity of the act. "After all," said his poor wife, who had poured out her tears for him as one pours water in the sand, "Vance was in love with death. It was the highest truth to him."

Life was, however, the highest truth to her, and she looked forward to the time when she should hold her son in her arms and see him justify her dreams. But when her child came, it was a girl—a girl to go handicapped through life, no matter what her visions or her abilities might be. She was to have joy of her, but her ambition was still to go unquenched—that ambition which had killed her little brother, distressed her father, and hounded her husband to his quietus. The inefficient men who had loved her had tried to live up to her ideals and had perished in the attempt. Her ideality was even the cause of the loss of reputation of Leverett Raymond and herself, because at the coroner's inquest she would tell the whole and explicit truth concerning the causes of the dead man's fatal chagrin—and one of the chief causes was the love he knew to exist between Raymond and herself.

Her ideas, always passionate, unselfish, and maternal, were without policy, worldly sense, or convention. She remained the permanent child, yet the eternal mother. And at last she attained the happiness and tranquillity and was united to the man she really always had loved. As the book closes, he has entered upon that service which is to carry him, the reader feels, to the utmost heights of his possibilities.

Opposed to Dora is her sister Linda, who always knew the main chance when she saw it. Sentiment never stood in the way of her advancement. With precisely the same opportunities as her sister, she contrived to live in luxury, to have no worries, to win position and wealth without personal effort, and to take the cream of life for herself. It did not matter that it was some one else's milk from which she skimmed her cream. She had an appetite for cream, and got it.

The character studies in the book have unusual psychological interest and the heroine is so human and believable that it is not difficult to imagine that she has just left your fireside, which would be colder for lack of her.

The college life is dealt with expansively and such matters as coeducation, fraternities, personal liberty for college women, professions for women, etc., are talked over or are dealt with understandingly. And it should be said, apropos of this, that one character, Charlotte Dare, is an impersonation of the feministe idea, in opposition to the simple femininity of the heroine.

The novel is not without its spiritual wisdom, as well as its intellectual interests, and it is full of the spirit of neighborliness and good will. Though it has more shadow than sunshine, it would be impossible to evolve pessimism or even discouragement from it. It is merely as an artist would say of his color scheme, cast in a low key. But the beauty is, many will think, all the greater for that.

Miss Florence Wilkinson, well known for her poetry and her short stories, offers her first novel under the alluring title, "THE SILENT DOOR." (McClure's). Like Mr. Lovett she introduces her heroine in her early childhood, but unlike Mr. Lovett she keeps her there. A year or two passes and her quite wonderful little protagonist remains, at the age of 6 or 7, an inquisitive child with a large vocabulary, a habit of looking at the world as a place where anything from fairies to angels may seek one out, and a facility for mixing up the lives of other people.

Fantasy, rather than depths, invention, or unity, always has been Miss Wilkinson's source of charm. Emphatically, it is fantasy that lends a glow to this absurd tale. The story is curiously unreal, made so, it would seem, by the tendency of the author to disregard the commonplace, or to throw a glamour over the most trivial events of life. It is as different from life as a woodland scene upon the stage, suffused with changing lights and with the calcium focused upon the face of the star, is different from the glades and groves which our actual feet tread. This is not urged as an objection, for a story writer has as much right as a dramatist to set forth scenes of supernatural loveliness or depict scenes of diverting improbability.

The astonishing little heroine is not, however, unnatural. Most children in fiction and the drama fall far short of the bewildering actualities of childhood and, as a matter of fact, no artist or writer can reproduce the wonder, the variety, the beauty, and surprisingness of them.

Miss Wilkinson's most striking character, aside from her child, Rue, is the grandfather, Justinian Penrith. He is an austere, academic, solitary. His inviolable standards of life have betrayed him into cruelty, and he has grown old in his torment of love and rage occasioned by the waywardness of his daughter. This daughter he has driven from home, and he spends his days in imagining the worst of all fates for her, varying the horrors of this imagining as his depression and remorse impel. This character is excellently depicted—an autocrat who deems himself humble, a cruel man who thinks himself kind, an unconscious egotist, lovable to the last—lovable in spite of what he does rather than because of it. There are a number of other excellently depicted men in the book, among them a sort of churchly "raggedy man," Mr. Boscoway; a Welch, bible reading peddler, and a Jewish theatrical booking agent. The men are better drawn, on the whole, than the women; but it must be insisted that the little girl Rue is quite the queen of droll, wondering, trustful little girls.

Nothing but quotations could give an idea of the elusive whimsies and charms of the facile text. Perhaps to say that Miss Wilkinson's style is iridescent would best describe it.

The "NEW CHRONICLES OF REBECCA" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.) is a reminiscent performance on the part of Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin. As when mothers sit in a peaceful circle and tell stories of their children, now grown to reasonable and uninteresting maturity, so she, enamored with her queer dear little Rebecca, has asked us to sit down and talk a little more about the girl whom we all know to be quite well grown by this time. Often when I have told my boy a story he says: "But mother, can't you throw in a few 'I have forgotten to says'?" Then I say, with every appearance of being casual: "O, yes, that's so! I forgot to say that about this time Johnny went to the wood, where the little pink dragons were growing up, and chancing there upon the birthday of Green Eyes, had the following adventures," etc. Mrs. Wiggins has been, it is evident, indulging in the same habit. And her "I have forgotten to says" are surprisingly good. One might fear that they would wear a jaded air, like violets too long plucked. But this is not the case. Indeed, nothing better in the way of a Rebecca story has been written than "The Green Isle." The little book, which contains eleven "chronicles," may be recommended to all lovers of Rebecca. ELIA W. PEATTIE.

Even without explicit information on the subject the reader of "THE DISTRACTIONS OF MARTHA" (Scribner's Sons) would guess immediately that the author's avocation was that of providing recipes and hints for the household to inquisitive correspondents. In this story she has massed a young bride's ignorance to mountain size and provides a running commentary of "things that any one ought to have known," but which cannot be learned unless experience has taught the cost of ignorance. As a help in household management the book may be of some value to the patient one who is satisfied if she find a few manna seeds per pound of matter, but the book can scarcely take rank as a piece of fiction. The ground fabric is too unstable and the humor is stilted and cramped. Marion Harland is the author.

Had Richard W. Tompson written his own memoirs instead of leaving to his survivors the task of compiling a "MEMORIAL," the volume would have been full of personal and historical interest. For he had heard the stories of the revolution at the knees of those who had fought; his stepmother was grand niece to George Washington, and on through the ninety years of his life he had known intimately the great men of the nation. When he was secretary of the navy under President Hayes he organized the "naval training ships"; he began the Americanizing of the American navy. The larger portion of the book is taken up with the numerous expressions of sympathy at his death. (Morse company, St. Jospeh, Mich.)

PRINCE KROPOTKIN WRITES A NEW WORK ADVOCATING STATE SOCIALISM.

In "Conquest of Bread" He Says He Believes Communism Is Approaching Nearer to Realization than at Any Time in Its History.

PRINCE KROPOTKIN, the famous Russian socialist, to whom attention has been attracted more, perhaps, because he was a prince and a socialist than if he had been a socialist without being a prince, is just publishing "THE CONQUEST OF BREAD" (Putnam). It is Prince Kropotkin's aim to demonstrate in this book that communism is approaching nearer to realization than at any time within the history of that movement. The prince writes entertainingly, but I scarcely think that his theories will carry conviction to those who do not already believe in them. The prince is a good deal of a radical, but more violent, I should say, with his pen than he would be with his sword. He writes pleasantly, and, when one thinks of his amiable eyes and patriarchal beard, it is hard to believe him all that he would have us believe that he is. The papers that form the book were written some time ago, and things have changed more or less since their writing. Their author, in looking them over, and looking back over the years as well, finds the leading ideas correct:

"The state socialism of the collectivist system has certainly made some progress. State railways, state banking, and state trade in spirits have been introduced here and there. But every step made in this direction, even though it resulted in the cheapening of a given commodity, was found to be a new obstacle in the struggle of the workingmen for their emancipation. So that we find now among the workingmen, especially in England, the idea that even the working of such a vast national property as a railway net could be much better handled by a federated union of railway employés than by a state organization.

"On the other side, we see that countless attempts have been made all over Europe and America, the leading idea of which is, on the one side, to get into the hands of the workingmen themselves wide branches of production, and, on the other side, always to widen in the cities the circles of the functions which the city performs in the interest of its inhabitants. Trade unionism, with a growing tendency towards organizing the different trades internationally and of being not only an instrument for improving the conditions of labor but also to become an organization which might at a given moment take into its hands the management of production; cooperativism, both for production and for distribution, both in industry and agriculture, and attempts at combining both sorts of cooperation in experimental colonies; and, finally, the immensely varied field of the so-called municipal socialism—these are the three directions in which the greatest amount of creative power has been developed lately."

When Prince Kropotkin wrote this introduction to his book he reckoned without Chicago, which within a few weeks has sounded the death knell of many of his most cherished theories.

Every one knows Mrs. Everard Cotes, who, when she was Sarah Jeanette Duncan, amused us so greatly with her adventures as an American girl in London, and the adventures of the same young lady in other countries. Most every one knows that today she is Mrs. Everard Cotes, but they know little more about her husband than that he is a journalist and that they live in India. Now Mr. Cotes is out with a book—"SIGNS AND PORTENTS IN THE FAR EAST" (Putnam), which is the result of a journey made by him last summer through China, Manchuria, Corea, and Japan, in sections where no other white man can wander as he did. The impressions he has set down in this book are those of an Anglo-Indian journalist who "does not apologize for his point of view, since the potentialities of India as the coadjutor of Great Britain in the future of the far east can scarcely be overestimated." That future, Mr. Cotes thinks, is "perhaps the most serious problem of the twentieth century." This twentieth century has so many serious problems that I am not inclined to admit that even so great a one as this is the most important.

Japan, having come through her war with flying colors, is not content to rest upon her laurels. She is developing her conquests—turning to new purposes the powers of organization and attention to detail which enabled her to defeat Russia. She is, says Mr. Cotes, "by no means resting upon her laurels, but, having measured her strength by a severe standard, is now taking steps to maintain and increase it. With admirable self-denial, Japan is laboring to place her finances in a position of stability. It is now plain that she proposes to win commercial supremacy in the far east. Her military preponderance is enabling her to foster the industrial enterprises of her own people in Manchuria and Corea. She is exercising ingenuity to lessen European, American, and Chinese competition in these countries while still respecting, as far as may be compulsory, the letter of the treaties she has signed. Her agents are penetrating into every part of China, as military experts, as professors, and as traders.

"The Japanese," he continues, "have persisted more doggedly than did the Chinese in adopting European methods. Their organization in the war against Russia proved that they could not only profit by, but in some cases improve upon, the teaching of their German drill instructors and British naval experts. The same holds, but to a more limited extent, in regard to their industrial methods. Japanese inventiveness and attention to the minutiæ of organization have enabled mills and factories in Japan to maintain a considerable degree of efficiency long after the withdrawal of the Europeans who initiated the various industries, but deterioration is by no means unknown. Competent authorities are to be found in Japan who hold that the falling off from European standards is far more serious and wide spread than is generally supposed, though partly compensated by Japanese resourcefulness and industry."

With the Chinese things are different. As a trader and manufacturer the Chinese is certain to become an increasingly serious competitor of the European. As a soldier he possesses many merits, including that of passive fatalism, which makes him a difficult adversary to dislodge from a position.

"The present Chinese army is useless for the protection of the country from outside aggression. The real strength which has put an end to the predatory enterprises of continental Europe upon Chinese territory is to be found solely in the forces of the British empire and Japan. The Chinese troops have been organized to bolster up the ambitions of particular Chinese viceroys. They are not even suitable for police work. On the other hand, they constitute a real and ever present menace to the Europeans resident in China. They are liable to be used at any time, at the bidding of petty spite or imagined grievance, to indulge the strong anti-foreign feeling which is always close below the surface in an excitable populace.

In the end Mr. Cotes concludes that—

"Friendliness and respect for one another are not impossible between European and Mongolian peoples. Canton has the worst reputation of any city in the far east for antipathy to the occidental, yet in the temple of the five hundred genii, in the heart of Canton, within easy reach of mob violence at any time, may be seen today the life sized statue of an elderly European, in gilt cloth and black hat, which the Chinese have carved for and preserved from generation to generation because the original, Marco Polo, was a friend of their kind.' This thirteenth century wanderer had no monopoly of ability to make himself loved and reverenced. A position similar to that which he won as an individual is open today to the Anglo-Saxon as a race. But the Mongolian was not afraid of Marco Polo, and he is afraid of us to the point of hostility and defiance. It can be attained, therefore, only by fair dealing and sympathy, protected by an overwhelming preponderance of fighting strength."

Mr. Cotes' book is an important contribution to the literature of the far east, which is increasing in quantity and importance every day.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

An American woman voiced "A Woman's Wish," containing these lines:

"I faint for some of life's free beauty,
Its loose beads with no straight string running through."

Inspired by the thought therein, Katherine Burrill, an English writer, has endeavored to suggest in a series of pleasing essays, "LOOSE BEADS" (E. P. Dutton & Co.), how much of life's beauty may be discovered even when the straight string does run through.

Under the heading, "Innocence and Ink," the writer addresses a most readable chapter to that particular class of idle "wishers" who think they might like to write books. She asks, "Is it because it is so quiet and inoffensive, so sitting still, that people think writing easy?"

"An admirable story quite out of the common and full of varied interest."

The Making of a Comedienne

BY

CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

Illustrated in Colors, $1.50

The dramatic critic of the New York Evening Times says:

"If Clara E. Laughlin isn't an actress she certainly possesses a fuller and more intimate knowledge of stage life as it really is than many a woman who has trodden the boards for years. There is something about her 'Felicity' which makes it, quite apart from its splendid merits as a novel, stand out as one of the fairest and most honest briefs that have been held out for the American stage . . . It is the most charming love story that any American author has written in many seasons. This is one of the novels that creep into your heart and stay there."

Aunt Jane of Kentucky

By ELIZA CALVERT HALL

"Aunt Jane is not false, nor cheap, nor shallow, and the stories that are put in her mouth exhale the very breath of old gardens and country roads and fields, and plain old churches in groves by the wayside—reflect the very faces, figures, voices, gestures, sentiment of two generations ago among the plain and solid folks of Kentucky. THE Stolen Throne

BY

HERBERT KAUFMAN and MAY ISABEL FISK

Here is a novel with enough dash, action and high-spirited romance to furnish forth a half-dozen "season's successes." It is brilliantly written around a plot of remarkable interest, and is distinguished by a warmth of color and a quality of workmanship that will place it among the marked novels of the year.

White Sox Spend Idle Afternoon in Cooking Up Line of Attack on Browns.

COLD BREEZE STOPS PLAY.

Demon Jones Gives George Davis Lone Practice in the Outfield and Infield.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—[Special.]—Not in the least cast down by defeat at the inaugural address of Mr. Howell, the champions of the world sat in out of the cold this afternoon and cooked up a line of attack on the Browns for tomorrow. Extreme cold halted the pastime today. While the sun shone at intervals a forty knot breeze right out of the ice box blew the heat away.

Beyond an airing in the wickerwork tallyho on a ride to and from the yard, the Sox did nothing but sit by the fire. Not hearing anything from McAleer by 2 p. m., the players bundled up like an arctic expedition and made the useless trip. Mac phoned soon after the bus left the hotel, but there was no way to flag the expedition. Our bus is the only one in St. Louis not fitted with the Marconi apparatus. It seems the game was called off at the earnest solicitation of Mr. McAleer's athletes, who said no human being could exist in the frigid blast. No sooner was the word passed than these same athletes hustled into harness and went forth to practice in the same frigid blast that was too cold for a regular contest. Thus does the perversity of genius butt in where you least expect it.

Jones Versus Davis.

But two games were played on the two major circuits. Fielder Jones crossed bats with George Davis here and Boston trimmed Brooklyn in the cold and distant bean belt. Reports of ice, rain, and snow caused the Sox to marvel much at the doings in Boston. The answer is easy. What the Spartan athletes on both of those teams have endured in recent years renders them insensible to suffering by fire, flood, or frost.

The game of two old cat between Jones and Davis was the work of necessity. At least Jones thought so, but George wasn't so certain. When the bus reached the yard the Boss Del Mundo left his arctic explorers perched on the seats while he went in for a line of news.

"Nothing transpiring," said Jones on returning to the street.

"All of you go back to the hotel except Davis. He can come in and practice a while with me."

"Let Nick do it," said George. "He loves the cold weather."

"But not at this time of year," Mr. Altrock replied. "Besides, I went to Mexico and made my blood thin. You didn't get busy."

Forsakes Buffalo Robes.

Imitating a horse moan of anguish, George uncoupled himself from the Buffalo robes and blankets and followed Jones into the yard.

They paused in the clubhouse to let Davis thaw out while the Boss Del Mundo did the little preliminary practice. Jack O'Connor and Joe Yeager were bitterly involved in a hot checker game alongside of a hotter stove.

Joe had five kings and Jack was about to have apoplexy when Jones wedged into the game. He took the O'Connor side of the board and in one move swiped Yeager's five kings into the discard. "What a fine chance I stand in a game of two old cat with an all around athlete like that," said Davis.

"Don't bet on me," George cautioned the browns as he started out to vs. the Demon Jones. They had the yard to themselves for the championship of a street car ride home. Those of the browns who thought it too cold for the regular game were dressing for practice. The groundkeeper was at home with hot water bags on his feet. The Jones-Davis game was played with one bat and two balls. George was the outfield in the first part of the game. Jones batted out one ball while Davis was returning the other.

George Plays the Outfield.

The action was great. Harry Bay has nothing on Davis as a ground coverer in this kind of a contest. Sometimes Jones poled a long one, and the swat sounded like Izzy starting a batting rally with Big Betsy. Just the same, George was under when the ball came down. At no stage of the game could Jones place a fly where the outfield was not.

For the second half the side at bat backed George against the right field fence and let him play the infield. This was also a corking good show. They kept the two balls moving most of the time, and Davis made some wonderful stops. He used his shins for three of them and has the records to show. The marks are there in black and white where George wears the new stockings Mr. Comiskey brought from Chicago. When at the end of half an hour the game was called off on account of heat both sides were satisfied. George wore the rosy glow of perfect health and Jones said he never felt better in his life. On the way in these two grand teams stopped at the clubhouse while Jones trimmed Yeager in another round at checkers. Davis looked on. Now that he is a private pupil of Jones' the shortstop wants to stick to his tutor and become an all round athlete. There is a rumor, however, that Davis is praying for warmer weather tomorrow. He is rounding up fast and soon will be ready for business.

Notes of the White Sox.

Last night the Sox went "down the pike" as the guests of Johnny Ray.

Walsh will oppose Pelty or Jacobson should the weather permit a game tomorrow.

Elated over the first victory McAleer has signed a steeple jack to paint the flag pole. Jim may have visions of a pennant flying above the paint.

Mr. Altrock has notified all brother Eagles who are sick or out of employment to communicate with him and he will forward his photograph.

President Comiskey and the Chicago rooters who came down with him left tonight for home. John Agnew said snow was better than the frost that hit him yesterday.

Here is an art note: Frank Smith's brother, who is a glass blower, has given him two glass canes, one green and one white. Smith now has something on the glass arm boys.

While the opener was in progress a local staff photographer snapped Comiskey and Von Der Ahe. These famous men have been together many years, but never on the same plate.

Before starting for the yard today Prof. Bardell painted Walsh with the illustrated burning oil and banked the fire with a layer of vaseline. Edward wanted to be warm while pitching.

HUFF TO MANAGE BOSTON TEAM.

University of Illinois Athletic Director Is Secured by President Taylor to Lead American League Club.

Urbana, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—George A. Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, will try his skill with the big leaguers as manager of the Boston American league club. It is understood that he is to receive one of the largest salaries paid any professional manager in the country, that he is to have a contract providing for three years at the head of the club, and that he is to have entire jurisdiction over the players. Friends of the director know he would accept no post where he would not be given free rein.

The news that Huff might be lost to the university struck the local athletic camp tonight and created consternation, for it had been supposed the incident was closed. Huff refused to give out anything for publication. All he said was: "I can't say anything about this matter." This was taken to mean the worst by the fans.

Boston undoubtedly will seek the services of the Illinoisan as soon as possible, and his departure will depend upon the willingness of the university to grant him permission to leave. While the entire faculty and student body will be loath to see him go, there will be no idea of standing in his path.

Huff has been at the head of Illinois athletics for twelve years and is in the prime of life, being 35 years of age.

Taylor Confirms Report.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—[Special.]—John I. Taylor, president of the Boston American league team, tonight said:

"I have made a deal with George Huff of the University of Illinois to manage the Boston Americans for three years. He will report as soon as possible."

NO CHANCE FOR CUBS' GAME

BLIZZARD PUTS SECOND BATTLE WITH CARDINALS ON SHELF.

Weather Man Refuses to Permit Further Exposure of Fans, but Local Players Get Opportunity to Wet New Umbrellas and Look for Summer Quarters—Contest to Be Played on June 25—Comiskey to Stick with Sox Until They Win.

BY SY.

"And the next day it snew."

Prof. Cox, having permitted the baseball fanatic to blow off steam for one day, thought best to protect the health of the community against further danger by preventing a repetition of Thursday's exposure until the rooters could get their tubes thawed out again.

To make certain no game could be played yesterday he turned loose a genuine April blizzard and kept it loose all day. After being informed the snow was not due to stop until last night, Manager Chance threw up his hands early and called the second game of the inaugural series off shortly after noon. This gave the Cubs opportunity to wet the new umbrellas which the board of trade committee, always wise on futures, had provided for just such an emergency. Most of the players spent the day chasing boarding quarters for the season.

Postpone Game to June 25.

It was agreed to postpone yesterday's game until June 25, which is an open date in the schedule for both Cubs and cardinals. Chance's men are due for idleness next Monday and Tuesday, but the St. Louis team will be engaged both days at Cincinnati. Besides there is better chance for baseball weather in June than next week. The only consolation the local baseball following could get out of the situation was that the game was put on the blink all over the country, the only big league game played out of eight scheduled being in Boston, where the opening battle was not permitted to come off.

The outlook for today's game is doubtful on account of the soft condition of the west side park, due to recent frosts in the ground. Although Prof. Cox promised to turn off the blizzard before morning, the snow may leave the grounds unfit for play, but that will be decided by Manager Chance today. For Sunday clear and cold weather was predicted on promise of President Murphy to send the professor a pass. That was the best he could do, he said.

Commy Waiting for a Victory.

President Comiskey of the White Sox did not return from St. Louis, as he expected to do, but sent word he would remain until his world's champions won a game. Consequently he missed a professional call from "Sandow" Mertes, the former Sox outfielder, who has just been declared a free agent by the national commission after a mixup over the deal by which he was released from the St. Louis to the Boston Nationals. While Mertes would not admit it, the inference was strong that he would be willing to return to Comiskey if he desired another outfielder.

"Sandow" was with the south side team under Griffith, going there from the west side team during the war, but was allowed to go to the New York Giants on the advice of Griffith and against the judgment of President Comiskey, who always regarded Mertes as a good ball player. Consequently the player probably argued Comiskey might be willing to get him back again.

Mertes' Case Unique.

President Johnson of the American league and a member of the national commission expressed the opinion Mertes might be claimed by some club in the National league, although he was not certain on that point, as both the case and the decision were unique in baseball. "Sandow" had an agreement with the St. Louis Nationals that his salary of $4,000 for 1906 should not be cut. But during the winter Mertes was traded to the Boston Nationals, and that club offered him a contract for $2,400. The commission upheld Mertes' contention that the Boston club must live up to the agreement of the St. Louis club or else he must be released.

President Johnson said he did not know the National league's attitude, but that if Mertes had been ordered released by an American league club and any other American league club desired his services he would make claim for the player before letting him go to a rival league.

Robison Releases Player.

President Robison of the St. Louis club said he could not understand the national commission's decision in the case and believed Mertes still belonged to the Boston club. However, he had wired the player at Cincinnati that, if the commission decided in his favor, he was then and thereby given his unconditional release.

In order to give a player unconditional release the releasing club must secure waivers on him from the other clubs of its circuit, consequently waivers probably had been secured, making Mertes eligible to sign with the club offering him the best terms.

BOSTON STARTS WITH VICTORY.

Despite Cold Weather More than 6,000 Persons See Beaneaters Beat Brooklyn in Opening Game.

Boston, Mass., April 12.—[Special.]—Boston defeated Brooklyn 1 to 0 in the opening game of the season at the South End grounds this afternoon. The game was seen by 6,246 persons, which, considering the weather conditions, was remarkable. A cold wind blew up the field and the spectators found overcoats comfortable.

The contest resolved itself into a pitchers' battle between "Young Cy" Young and Stricklett, the former having a little the better of it. The visitors could get only three scattered hits off the Boston box artist, while Stricklett was touched up for six singles in eight innings.

The only run scored by Boston came in the first inning and proved enough to win. It was made on a pass to Bates, Tenney's sacrifice, Beaumont's out at first, and a hit by Howard.

For Brooklyn Casey played a great game at third and Alperman did good work on second, notwithstanding that he was the only one of the visitors who made an error. Brain and Bridwell played well for Boston, while Ritchie's work on second was the best that has been seen on a Boston team since the days of Bobby Lowe. Score:

LOGAN BUYS INTEREST IN REDS.

Friend of Garry Herrmann Acquires a Third Share in Cincinnati National League Club.

Cincinnati, O., April 12.—The deal for the transfer to Thomas J. Logan by George B. Cox of the latter's third interest in the Cincinnati National league ball team was complete today. Mr. Logan is a warm personal friend of President Herrmann of the club, and it is announced there will be no change in policy or management. The club is capitalized at $250,000. No statement has been made as to the consideration in the sale.

Amateur Baseball Notes.

Mike Donlin, the Giants' outfielder, has signed with Jimmy Callahan and will be seen at the Logan Square park this summer.

Charley Tindell, head of the Baseball Umpires' association, has called a meeting for tonight at 8 o'clock at the Great Northern hotel for the purpose of having a committee appointed to confer with park owners. Members of the Park Owners' association have been invited to attend the meeting.

According to rumor plans are under way to blacklist the local umpires who have been active in the formation of the Semi-Professional Umpires' association, which was organized for the purpose of boosting prices. The park owners, it is said, will absolutely refuse to be dictated to by the indicator men, and four men, it is declared, have been singled out who will be placed on the blacklist.

Chicago Men to Umpire.

William Guthrie and E. A. Eckmann of Chicago will umpire in the Western association this summer.

CONFERENCE MEETING TODAY.

Michigan's Dilemma to Be Considered at "Big Nine" Session at the Auditorium.

Michigan's dilemma will be considered by the faculty representatives of the "big nine" colleges at a special meeting to be held today at the Auditorium hotel. Two of the Ann Arbor professors, with the eight other delegates, will endeavor to come to a definite conclusion as to which way the Wolverines must travel in the future.

According to one of the representatives who arrived in the city last night, Michigan either will remain in the conference and abide by every rule passed by the body at the last session in January or it will sever its connection with the association and become a factor in the east. A strong appeal is expected from Michigan to allow it the right to play two extra football games, using its host of "ineligibles." Two men have been sent from Ann Arbor, apparently in the hope of gaining the point at issue. They are Judge V. H. Lane, who represented Michigan in the January conference, and Prof. Henry M. Bates, who was a former Wolverine delegate.

An air of mystery shrouds the meeting today. An effort was made to keep all knowledge of the new conference a secret, especially as to its time of meeting. The place of meeting also was expected to be kept from the public, but one of the representatives "leaked" and the professors may be forced to change their meeting place at the last moment.

Chicago will be represented by Director A. A. Stagg, Dean Albion W. Small, and Dr. J. E. Raycroft. The other delegates will be Prof. U. G. Weatherly of Indiana, T. F. Moran of Purdue, President C. P. Hutchins of Wisconsin, Prof. James Paige of Minnesota, Prof. A. G. Smith of Iowa, and Prof. R. E. Wilson of Northwestern.

PENN SWIMMERS MEET WINNERS

Easterners Handily Defeat Illini by a Score of 41 to 10 in Tank at Champaign.

Champagne, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania water team defeated the Illinois swimmers by a score of 41 to 10 tonight. The easterners carried away the firsts in every event.

Dalrymple swam the 200 yard race in fine time, establishing a record of 2:38 4-5. The fifty yard swim was easily the event of the meet. Renar breaking the former record of :30 by one and two-fifths seconds, with Lurquin a close second. The relay race was won easily by the Quakers, their time beating the former record.

The water polo game was won by Pennsylvania after a hard fight. The Illini played a great game, although each man was outweighed by his opponent. The first half was finished with Pennsylvania one goal ahead. Neither side scored in the second half. Summaries:

200 yard swim—Won by Dalrymple, Pennsylvania; Swatek, Illinois, second; Hopkinson, Pennsylvania, third. Time, 2:38 4-5.

50 yard swim—Won by Renar, Pennsylvania; Lurquin, Illinois, second; Philler, Pennsylvania, third. Time, :28 3-5.

JIMMY BURNS IS WINNER OVER "CYCLONE" THOMPSON.

Fierce and Bloody Battle at Los Angeles Results in Defeat of Illinois Farmer—Victor Breaks Both Hands.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—George Memsic, better known as Jimmy Burns, defeated "Cyclone" Thompson tonight in one of the fiercest and bloodiest fights ever seen in the local ring. It was a fierce mill throughout, in which Burns' superior cleverness, speed, and footwork combined with his vicious two handed style of battling, was the deciding factor.

Burns beat Thompson in every round, and clearly demonstrated that he outclassed the Illinois farmer. Thompson seldom was effective, and while Burns left the ring practically unmarked, Thompson's right eye was closed and cut. It was bleeding after the eighth round, and his left eye was closing fast.

Thompson showed to best advantage in the clinches and at infighting, but at no time during the fight could he make much of an impression on Burns, while he was forced to take a terrific punishment and on two or three occasions he was forced to cover up and stall to save himself from a knockout.

Burns broke both hands during the fight, but so late in the game that it did not materially affect his battle. Thompson was defeated because he was too slow and awkward and only his effective "cover up" tactics and defense made it possible for him to stay the limit. He always was under an effective cover, and, while Burns landed whenever he pleased, he could never reach a vital spot to secure a knockout. The winner has been promised a match with Gans.

GOSSIP OF THE WRESTLERS.

Beell and Parr to Meet in Match Monday Night and in Exhibitions Tonight.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

The catch as catch can wrestling match at the International theater Monday night between Fred Beell and Jim Parr promises an interesting and well contested struggle. Beell has shown the stuff that is in him by flattening out such big fellows as John Rooney and "Yankee" Rodgers, men to whom he conceded nearly fifty pounds in weight. In Parr he will meet a man about his own weight, height, and skill. He may have it on the Englishman in strength and speed, but in all other points of the game they are considered about equal. Beell practically is matched to wrestle Frank Gotch at the Coliseum within the next two weeks. The financial returns of that match depend upon his defeating Parr.

The semi-final between Jess Westergard and Charles Hackenschmidt should furnish a rattling bout. Westergard is a newcomer in the local field, but as he repeatedly challenged Rooney to wrestle for $500 a side and has been after Gotch, considerable interest is being manifested in his work. Charles has been seen here with Gotch and Rooney and is well thought of.

Fred Beell and Jim Parr will be the attraction at the C. A. A.'s wrestling entertainment tonight. Beell will be seen in the windup with William Demetral, the "Greek demon," and Parr will tackle Jack Gruhn, heavyweight champion of the south. Another strong feature will be the bout between Paul Geidel, one of the physical instructors, and Tom Jones. Three other strong bouts make the card the best of the season.

Pugilistic Pointers.

Willie Schumacher and "Kid" Murphy, both New Yorkers, probably will be the next pair of bantams to entertain Milwaukee fight fans.

Joe Humphries writes from New York that should the boxing lid be lifted in this burg he will send on "Sailor" Burke to fight Hugo Kelly and a bunch of scrappers at all weights, to test their skill against the westerners.

Tony Caponi and Bill Papke yesterday were matched to fight at 152 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock. Forfeits of $200 were posted with the understanding the battle take place in three weeks at either Davenport, Peoria, or Rochester. Papke's manager demanded a side bet of $500.

"Young" Corbett is after Benny Yanger and the probabilities are Davenport fight promoters will offer them a purse. Yanger tried to inveigle Corbett into a match at Philadelphia several years ago, but Corbett, because of dislike of Benny's manager, refused to fight. They had two tilts at Denver some years ago. Benny won the first and the second resulted in a draw.

Hyde Park Team Secures Grounds.

The Hyde Park Athletic club, which for several years has occupied the grounds now leased by Capt. Anson for his ball park, will finish out its football season at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue, playing the first game there tomorrow afternoon against the Metropolitans. The club has secured a lease on the cricket field there.

Open Golf Season at Calumet Today.

Calumet golfers will inaugurate their season this afternoon with the opening tournament over the ridge course. The qualifying round will be at eighteen holes, with four flights of eight each to qualify. Entries can be made at the tee, and Secretary Hobkirk announces there will be no postponement on account of rain, snow, or wind.

Jevne and Horgan Win.

Kansas City, Mo., April 12.—Lloyd Jevne and John Horgan tonight won the intercity 200 point three cushion billiard match from William Ryle and Charles Ferriss of Kansas City, running out the final 50 points while their opponents counted 27. The final score was 200 to 151.

Central Park Team Wins Title.

Soccer Teams to Play Today.

The Douglas park and Vulcanite association football teams will play this afternoon at West Eighteenth street and Forty-second avenue at 2:30 o'clock.

Another Donohue in Game.

Springfield, O., April 12.—[Special.]—George Donohue, a brother of "Jiggs" of the White Sox, has joined the Canton team.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC GOSSIP.

Officials of the Central A. A. U. have completed arrangements for the funeral of Charles O. Duplessis, which is to be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from his home, 3104 South Park avenue. The interment will be at Rosehill, and the following members of the Central A. A. U. will serve as pallbearers: Dr. George K. Herman, First regiment; President Walter H. Liginger, Milwaukee Athletic club; Lieut. E. C. Racey, Illinois Athletic club; Charles A. Dean, secretary of the Central A. A. U.; Everett C. Brown, Chicago Athletic association; George B. Affleck, Central Y. M. C. A.; and Con Magnussen, Sleipner Athletic club.

A special meeting of the board of managers of the Central A. A. U. will be held within a week to appoint a successor to Mr. C. O. Duplessis as official handicapper. It is probable two handicappers will be appointed, one for swimming and one for track athletics. For the latter position the following men are logical candidates: Charles H. Wilson, Central Y. M. C. A.; Martin B. Herbert, First Regiment Athletic association; Lieut. E. C. Racey, Illinois Athletic club; and Charles Kilpatrick.

The annual election of officers of the First Regiment Athletic association will be held in the armory Tuesday evening. Dr. George K. Herman, president, is a candidate again, but he has strong opposition in Thomas F. Howe. The question of sending a track team to the Jamestown exposition this summer also will be discussed.

Over sixty athletes are entered in the Cook county Y. M. C. A. intermediate track championships which will be held in the Central Y. M. C. A. gym next Tuesday evening. Five organizations are represented in the various events and the first honors are supposed to lie between Central and Evanston Y. M. C. A.

SLEIPNERS BEAT THE VIKINGS.

Win the Tug of War Championship from the Brooklyn Aggregation of Pullers.

Five sturdy representatives of the Sleipner Athletic club of Chicago last night wrested the tug of war world's championship from the Viking A. C. of Brooklyn, winning two straight pulls at Brooke's casino.

The Brooklyn five, winners of the championship at the St. Louis world's fair, were outclassed from the start, and at no time during the tussle was it able to gain any advantage. So great was the strength of the Chicago team, that the clamp which held the rope in place before the firing of the gun, was unable to stand the strain, allowing the rope to slip towards the Sleipner team. When the clamp was adjusted and the word given to pull, neither side seemed to have the advantage.

The Chicago men, for the first two minutes, were content to be on the defensive, but when the timer called off the third minute they took the offensive. Slowly but surely the rope began to move with them, despite the efforts of the Vikings to hold. At the end of the five minutes, when the clamp again settled on the rope, the Sleipner boys had a margin of seven inches.

The second struggle was even closer than the first. The Sleipner boys, however, were equal to the occasion, and, putting every ounce of weight and strength in the pull, succeeded in edging three and three-fourths inches on their side, winning the contest.

The lineup:

SLEIPNER A. C.

Anchor—C. Magnussen....200
Support anchor—J. Nelson....175
No. 3—Oscar Nelson....178
No. 2—N. Nelson....175
No. 1—A. Peterson....169

VIKING A. C.

Support anchor—F. Hagstrom....190
No. 3—E. Christenson....180
No. 2—O. Bogstrand....175
No. 1—C. Hagstrom....165

The Sleipner A. C. lightweight tug of war team defeated the West Side Sporting club team in the preliminary contest with two straight pulls, the first with ¾ inch and the second with 2¼ inches.

STATE TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

All Previous Records Broken for Entries in Bowling Event to Be Held at Schindler's Alleys.

With the start of the tenth annual tournament of the Illinois Bowling association at Schindler's alleys tonight the last big event of the season will be under way.

Illinois has broken all previous records for state tournaments as over 900 players are billed to compete, the most gratifying feature of this big list being the number of players from cities outside of Chicago. Three hundred and eighty-eight pairs are entered in the doubles and 713 individuals in the singles.

Many features are carded for the opening. In addition to the presence of most of the local lights on Howard's Horseless Highballs, Dirrenberger's Dusty Diamonds, and Schindler's Shining Stars, who will appear in costume in the opening squad, there will be Bob Bryson, ex-president of the American Bowling congress, and Eddie Meyer of Indianapolis on the Centurys No. 2, while 9 year old Eddie Lutz will roll with the Grand Crossings No. 2, as will his brother, who is two years his senior. The usual speech by President Pasdeloup will no doubt be a part of the opening ceremonies, after which the officials will roll the first balls down the eight alleys. Following is the schedule:

7 p. m.—Howard's Horseless Highballs, Dirrenberger's Dusty Diamonds, Schindler's Shining Stars, Centurys No. 2, Parsill's Tigers, Phoenix league, Tom Palmers, Grand Crossings No. 2. 9:15 p. m.—American league, Forwards, Lake View league, Coughlin league, Diocesan league, Argyle league, La Ezetas, Drexel league.

High School Athletic Notes.

Cold weather and the snow storm were responsible yesterday for the calling off of a baseball game between Hyde Park and St. Cyril's college.

The Oak Park baseball team is slated to play the La Grange High school aggregation at La Grange this afternoon. Putnam is to pitch for the school boys.

The Oak Park girls' champion "prep" school basketball five will meet the Calumet girls this afternoon at River Forest. Both teams are fast, and a lively game is expected.

The North Division baseball nine was scheduled to meet the Northwestern university team at Evanston today, but the game has been called off on account of the bad weather.

The track team of R. T. Crane is billed to go to West Aurora to meet the West Aurora high track men today. Crane, although weak in the indoor contests this winter, has a strong team outdoors.

OXFORD DISPLAYS HIGH CLASS FORM

Easy Victory at Bennings Makes Him a Favorite for Carter Handicap.

TOP WEIGHT, HE GALLOPS

Pair of John Madden's Two Year Olds Cleverly Beat Their Rivals.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Oxford received his public trial for the Carter handicap at Bennings today. He picked up top weight in the last race, a handicap at a mile, over a fast track, with Miller in the saddle, and stepped the distance in 1:43 3-5. Oxford made all his own pace and won in a gallop, his performance being so impressive that the turf sharps are predicting tonight he will be a hard horse to beat at Aqueduct on Monday. At the wire he had two and a half lengths over Buttons, who in turn had eight lengths over J. E. Madden's Faust.

Madden won both of the 2 year old races, with Servile and Senator Barrett. Servile had plenty of speed and outgamed Ben Cole, the favorite, whom he defeated in a drive by a neck. Senator Barrett went to the front when Miller cut him loose and won in a mild drive by a length and a half from Marston.

Joe Marrone, the New York contractor, put over a real good thing in the first race for platers at five and a half furlongs, in L'Amour, a 30 to 1 shot, who with McDaniel up made a runaway of it.

Cobleskill beat the favorite, Lally, by three parts of a length in the fourth by a spirited drive, and the fifth went to Mammymoo, practically neglected at 15 to 1, with the heavily played Canvas in the place.

GOOD DAY FOR FAVORITES.

Five Pronounced Choices Land in Front at New Orleans—Corrigan-Daly Crowd Successful.

New Orleans, La., April 12.—[Special.]—All there was to relieve the dull monotony of the game at City park today was the winning of five pronounced first choices, a second favorite, and one outsider, which was smartly played by the stable connections.

The Corrigan-Daly crowd won three races, two of which came from M. J. Daly's barn and another from that of Galen Brown. The last named was the 2 year old filly, Rose Daly. In with an ordinary lot of youngsters she was a strong favorite and simply romped over the four and a half furlongs and won as she pleased.

In the other half of the 2 year old split E. R. Bradley's Bucket Brigade was so much the best that she won after having been knocked back to last position in the first sixteenth.

First race, ¾ mile, selling—Vohoome, 106 pounds [Pickens], 6 to 1, won; Hyperbole, 5 to 1, second; McAllister, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:14 4-5.

Second race, 2 year olds, 9-16 mile—Rose Daly, 103 pounds [D. Boland], 7 to 5, won; Orlandot, 9 to 2, second; Edna Motter, 7 to 1, third. Time, :55 3-5.

Third race, 1 mile—Kara, 101 pounds [J. Lee], 4 to 5, won; Omar Khayyam, 12 to 1, second; R. F. Williams, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:41 3-5.

Fourth race, 1⅛ miles, selling—Rather Royal, 108 pounds [J. Lee], 2 to 1, won; La Cache, 10 to 1, second; Macbeth, 5 to 2, third. Time, 1:54.

Fifth race, 9-16 mile, selling—Bucket Brigade, 103 pounds [Gaugel], 11 to 10, won; Dick Rose, 12 to 1, second; Col. Brady, 20 to 1, third. Time, :55 4-5.

Sixth race, 1⅛ miles, selling—Savoir Faire, 102 pounds [Taylor], even, won; John McBride, 4 to 1, second; Cull, 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:56 1-5.

Seventh race, ⅝ mile, selling—Prince Brutus, 113 pounds [J. Daly], 8 to 1, won; Kohinoor, 7 to 2, second; Miss Leeds, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:01 1-5.

TRUE WING SPRINGS SURPRISE.

In First Start at Oakland 20 to 1 Shot Lands in Front—"Killing" When Kinders Wins.

San Francisco, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—True Wing, starting here for the first time this season, created a big surprise by winning the last race at five and one-half furlongs at 20 to 1. With an even break Ethel Day would have won. The race was run in the fast time of 1:06 4-5.

Jocund scored a lucky win over Waswift in the fifth race, Bedell getting the former through on the rail in the closing strides. Gov. Orman scored in the fourth race at 12 to 1. Daruma, heavily backed, failed to secure a chalk mark.

The Applegate confederacy made a cleanup on Kinders. The books showed an inclination to lay 30 and 40 to 1, but there was such a rush to get aboard that her price was cut to 4 to 1. She won all out by half a length from Galvestonian.

The Thornton Renewal, at four miles, is to be run tomorrow, with five starters. Mamie Algol promises to be a slight favorite over Los Angeleno, which beat her by a nose in the last four mile race. The winner stands an excellent chance of breaking the world's record tomorrow.

Walter Jennings leaves for the east today with Proper, Shot Gun, Elondy, Mary F., Confederate, Ingham, John Keene, Boas, Raconteur, and Mandator in the same car. Today's winners:

First race—Raleigh, 9 to 5; Balnade, 8 to 1; Rhinestone, 7 to 2.

Second race—Kinders, 3 to 1; Galvestonian, 7 to 1; Maia, 30 to 1.

Third race—Eduardo, 2 to 1; Corrigan, 16 to 1; Belvoir, 18 to 5.

Fourth race—Governor Orman, 12 to 1; Head Dance, 7 to 1; E. M. Brattain, 4 to 1.

Fifth race—Jocund, 10 to 1; Waswift, 13 to 5; Massa, 6 to 5.

Sixth race—True Wing, 20 to 1; Ethel Day, 13 to 5; Gossiper, 25 to 1.

Pomeroy Back from the Coast.

P. P. Pomeroy, clerk of the scales at the Ascot track at Los Angeles, returned from the coast yesterday and reports an exceptional meeting. He also said the city authorities are favorable to racing, despite reports to the contrary, and that the track owners anticipate a successful ninety days' meeting next winter.

In the doubles Vollmar and Rosendal won all three from Schmidt and Vandersyde, while in the singles Vollmar got the odd from "Pa" Blouin. Vollmar averaged 214 for the nine games. The Steeles went even faster in the team games, averaging 980 1-3 and winning three from the Bensingers, who counted 919 2-3. Collier averaged 211 1-3 and Steele 207 2-3.

Watch Your Thirty Feet of Bowels!

YOU have thirty feet of Intestines! What makes food travel through them?

A set of Muscles that line the walls of these Intestines or Bowels.

When a piece of Food rubs the walls of the Intestines these Muscles tighten behind it, and thus it starts a Muscle-wave which drives it through the whole length of the Bowels.

It should take about 12 hours to do this properly, so that nutritious parts of the food may have time to be digested and absorbed.

* * *

But,—if it takes twice or three times that period the food spoils in passing, and becomes as poisonous as if it had decayed before being eaten.

Now, the cause of delay (Constipation) is simply Weakness, or Laziness of the Bowel-Muscles.

Want of Exercise, Indoor Employment, weakens these Bowel-Muscles, just as it weakens Arm and Leg Muscles.

* * *

"Physic" like Salts, Calomel, Jalap, Phosphate of Soda, Mineral Waters, simply flush-out the Bowels for the one occasion only.

They do not remove the Cause of Constipation.

But this is different with Cascarets.

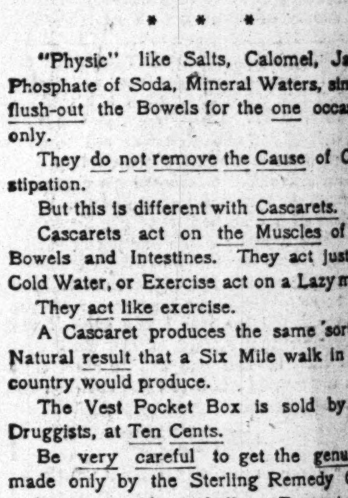

Cascarets act on the Muscles of the Bowels and Intestines. They act just as Cold Water, or Exercise act on a Lazy man.

They act like exercise.

A Cascaret produces the same sort of Natural result that a Six Mile walk in the country would produce.

BUSINESS TONE IS STRONG

PRODUCTION OF LEADING INDUSTRIES STEADILY INCREASES.

Commercial Loans Exhibit the Greatest Aggregate Yet Attained Here—Winter Wheat and Rye Condition Satisfactory—Heavy Demands on Jobbers for Textiles, Footwear, Clothing, Furniture, and Hardware—Fewer Failures.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

"Aside from the temporary effect of unseasonable weather the prevailing conditions impart sustained strength to business. Commercial loans exhibit the greatest aggregate yet attained here, but while the tone is easier, the discount rate may not decline appreciably until there is a further gain in deposits.

"No notable changes are seen in costs of raw materials for factory conversion, but the markets for foodstuffs exhibit a moderate recession in hog products and sharp advances in the prominent grains, cattle, and sheep. Advices testify to spring merchandizing equaling expectations at most interior centers, farm work well forward, and attention turning to expensive improvements.

Activity in Jobbing Trade.

"Distributive trade generally is upon an encouraging basis here and in the west, and there is yet much activity in the jobbing branches upon demands for textiles, footwear, clothing, furniture, and hardware.

"Manufacturing progress is unabated. The capacity of most plants is exerted to the limit, and the machinery and labor employed exceeds all previous experience in iron and steel, power, car, and forge work.

"Bank exchanges, $236,080,138, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1906 by 8.2 per cent.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 11, against 13 last week and 26 a year ago."

Trade in Nation at Large.

New York, April 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Erratic weather makes trade reports irregular, retail sales of spring wearing apparel being retarded by storms and cold at many points, although some sections experience seasonable conditions. Temporary interruption to retail distribution has no ill effects upon jobbing and wholesale business, however, heavy transactions and shipments testifying to confidence in the future. Textile mills, machine shops, steel plants, and footwear factories have little idle machinery, forward business appearing more rapidly than the rate of production in many cases.

"Most encouraging news comes from the iron and steel industry, large sales of pig iron being made for delivery up to the end of the year."

As Seen by Bradstreet's.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Trade and manufacturing conditions are in high degree favorable despite the lull in demand usual at this stage of the spring season. Some odd cross currents are visible because of the scarcity of stocks in so many lines, necessitating buying in other markets to eke out supplies sold ahead some time ago. In retail trade, cold weather and bad country roads are a bar to fullest activity, but the volume of business doing, as a whole, exceeds the corresponding period in other years.

"The situation of money is toward further ease; shipments of currency to the interior are heavy, but collections are still backward, though they are said to have notably improved in the northwest and in the eastern dry goods trade. The labor situation, despite local disturbances, is good, and wages in many lines have been advanced. Railway congestion is less acute.

"Business failures for the week ending April 11 number 194, against 137 last week, 161 in the like week of 1906, 196 in 1905, 198 in 1904, and 160 in 1903. Canadian failures for the week number 28, against 29 last week, and 15 in this week a year ago."

Bank Clearings for Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending April 11 shows an aggregate of $3,053,450,000, as against $3,066,959,000 last week and $3,178,508,000 in the corresponding week last year. Canadian clearings for the week total $80,975,000, as against $64,226,000 last week and $69,937,000 in the same week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

STOCK PRICES HAVE FALL.

QUOTATIONS DROP ON SMALLER VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

Pressure Absent at Close of Trading, but There Is No Vigorous Recovery—Drop in Copper Securities Abroad Has Sympathetic Effect on General List—Continued Decline in Money Rates Fails to Incite Active Demand for Speculative Issues.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Special.]—Prices of stocks suffered a decline today on a smaller volume of business. There was an absence of pressure at the close, but there was no vigorous recovery.

Copper securities abroad, including the important Rio Tintos, fell sharply in price. This movement had more or less sympathetic effect on the whole market.

Professions of apprehension over the prospects for the crops were a factor in the depression. These were founded on reports from crop experts traveling in the crop regions, and their influence was increased by the firm tone perceptible in the wheat market.

The continued decline in money rates both here and abroad seems to have failed to incite any active demand for securities. The failure of the market to respond to this development has much to do with encouraging the bears to attack the market. Currency movements with the interior indicate a balance in favor of New York of less than a million dollars. The subtreasury operations have contributed $2,809,000 to the banks since the last bank statement.

Bonds were heavy. Total sales, par value, $1,204,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call, easy, 1¾@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2¼ per cent; closing bid, 2 per cent; offered at 2¼ per cent. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¾ per cent; and 90 days, 4½@5 per cent; six months, 5 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 6@6½ per cent. Sterling exchange easier with actual business in bankers' bills at 485.45@485.50 for demand and at 482.55@482.60 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 483@483½ and 486@486½. Commercial bills, 482⅛@482¼. Bar silver, 65⅝. Mexican dollars, 50½. Government bonds, steady. Railroad bonds heavy.

The ending of Lent this year coincides with the beginning of April, the gayest and most distinguished month in Atlantic City's famous Spring season. During this month more eminent visitors and "nice people" are to be found in the great hotels than in any other month of the year, and the absence of the Easter Sunday "INTERRUPTION" enables guests to completely enjoy all the attractions of climate and artificial entertainment of this festive season with entire satisfaction.
The hotel claims distinction for its location, its ample public space devoted to its guests, its high class music every night throughout the year, but particularly attractive with solo singers at the week-ends during the Spring season, and its ownership management.
All the four dining rooms (two American plan, with the excellent cooking heretofore so popular, and two a la carte, with separate kitchens and French cooks) have white service throughout and in one of the American rooms called the "American Palm Room" and in the a la carte rooms smoking is permitted. There are particularly attractive ocean end suites, with large rooms, 24 by 20 feet; and a private bath (supplied with both sea water and fresh water and with running ice water) is with every alternate room in the Marlborough and with every room in the Blenheim, which in construction is reputed to be the most completely fireproof hotel in the world. ALARM OVER CROP ACUTE.

SENSATIONAL DAMAGE REPORTS GIVE WHEAT A BIG UPTURN.

Frightened Shorts in Scramble to Cover—Drought Unbroken and "Bugs" Increasingly Active—Freezing Temperatures in Kansas—Bearish News Ignored—Corn Sharply Higher—Oats Values Elevated to New High Level for the Crop Year.

Sensational crop damage reports from the southwest yesterday created mild panic in the liveliest and most exciting wheat market in many weeks. Enormous buying was prompted by the mass of highly unfavorable advices from the heart of the winter wheat region, prices soaring to advances of almost 2c. Shorts fairly fell over themselves in their scramble to cover, and confident bulls bolstered up their lines on a pretentious scale. There were occasional reactions as a result of profit taking by scattered longs, but every dip witnessed increased desire on the part of the distressed shorts to seek shelter. Pronounced color was given to the reports of increasing seriousness from the long drought and the spreading invasion of "green bugs" by the execution of buying orders for traders in the suffering sections. The market strength was almost at its best at the close, which marked 79c for May, 81¼c for July, 83⅝@82⅞c for September, and 84¼@⅜c for December, net advances of 1⅜c, 1½c, 1⅜c, and 1⅝@1¾c respectively.

The market moved within a range of 1⅜c, highest prices being 79¼c for May, 81½c for July, 83c for September, and 84½c for December. Temperatures in all directions were low, being at the freezing point far into the southwest, with climatological conditions indicating scant prospect of relief to the dry and crusted regions. There was considerable of a bearish color in the day's news offerings, but traders practically ignored it in their overwhelming apprehension over crop conditions.

The coarser grains also displayed good strength, both corn and oats advancing sharply, the latter being elevated to new high marks on the crop year. With the exception of pork, easiness marked the provision trade, which received but little attention.

Shorts in Scramble at Start.

The opening bell was the signal for a panicky rush of buying in the wheat market. Supporting orders came from all sides, commission house brokers being more active than at any time in weeks. There was a mass of sensational damage reports received overnight, these, with an advance of ¾@⅞c on the Minneapolis curb, continued unbroken drought in the needy sections of the southwest, and freezing temperatures in Kansas creating consternation in the ranks of the shorts. Aside from the enormous covering by shorts there was a big volume of buying by local bulls, and the bulk of outside orders executed by commission concerns served as a tonic to the market. The upturn was checked by the pocketing of handsome overnight profits, but subsequent recessions witnessed renewed buying and a consequent stiffening of values. While some of the early sharp edge was taken off of activity, the trade throughout was lively and feverish. At the end of the initial hour prices were boosted to 79¼c for May, 81⅜c for July, 82⅞c for September, and 84⅜c for December, going a shade higher after a slight reaction.

Minneapolis Curb Reflects Fears.

The sensational upturn on the Minneapolis curb was said to have been based on reports of extensive damage from experts sent out by big northwestern interests, although deductions made by these experts were not made public. It was said that the coterie of northwestern shorts covered both here and at Minneapolis, disguising their operations by trading through new brokers. Oklahoma advices indicated almost total damage to the wheat crop from the invasion of "green bugs," many farms being plowed up because of the hopeless prospects. Kansas also sent in messages of a character to chill the marrow of the shorts, many fields heretofore unaffected being reported full of the insects, with signs of damage rapidly becoming more pronounced. Hitherto unsullied regions of the best wheat producing part of Nebraska wired that "bugs" were plentiful and destructive. Many of the buying orders executed in this market were for Nebraskans, it was said. Expert Snow sent in bullish talk on the conditions in Oklahoma and southern Kansas. The Modern Miller was about a standoff in its weekly review.

Despite the deluge of damage reports, there were numerous advices to the effect that the stories of injury in southern Kansas and Oklahoma were highly overdrawn. A Kansas City correspondent of Clement, Curtis & Co. writes that "green bug" damage had been greatly exaggerated, and that damage from invasion had reached its maximum. Other messages of similar tenor were received from Oklahoma and Kansas, but the majority appeared to have eyes and ears for the unfavorable advices only. Anxiety over the long drawn out dry spell was more acute in all sections, some Kansas farmers expressing more apprehension over drought than over the "bug" ravage.

Big Argentine Exports Ignored.

The trade ignored the big weekly shipments from Argentina—4,448,000 bu, compared to 2,744,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool closed ⅜d firmer, chiefly on the fact that the united kingdom received only a small part of the Argentine shipment. Receipts at primary points were liberal at 688,000 bu, there being no comparisons because of a holiday a year ago. Duluth and Minneapolis reported 536 cars. Seaboard clearances were 454,000 bu. The official forecast held out practically no hope for a breaking of the drought southwest, most sections being promised freezing temperatures. Further reports of winter killing in Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois added to the general nervousness. An improvement in the export flour business was reported, large quantities of the breadstuff going east via the lakes. Stocks of wheat northwest showed an increase of 1,425,000 bu, compared to a gain of only 79,000 bu a year ago.

Sharp Upturn in Corn.

As in wheat, there was a rush of buying at the start in the corn market, although the volume of trading was light in comparison. Shorts were active in covering, and there was important buying for provision interests. Offerings were far from pressing even on the hardest spots. Cash houses also were good bidders. In the early trading advances of ⅝@⅞c were scored, a little reaction following on profit taking. There was subsequent firming of values, the close being only a shade under the top—47⅝@47¾c for May, 47½@47⅝c for July, and 48⅛@48⅜c for September, net advances of ⅝c, ½@⅝c, and ⅝@⅞c respectively.

Weather conditions were considered unfavorable, receipts continued light—216 cars, practically as expected—and the demand for kiln dried corn was brisk for both small lots and cargoes. Although cash prices showed improvement, the advance was not in keeping with the upturn in futures, the east not showing expected activity. Cash concerns were good buyers of the May, selling July, which was unloaded by some longs and well taken by shorts and other confident holders. The day's clearances at the seaboard were 255,000 bu, exports for the week totaling 1,476,000 bu, against 1,726,000 bu a year ago. Argentine exports were light at 40,000 bu, compared to 252,000 bu a year ago. Estimated local receipts for today were 228 cars.

Oats Highest in Crop Year.

Freezing temperatures in recently seeded sections and "bug" ravage in the southwest created consternation among shorts in the oats market, activity in which was pronounced. According to a mass of reports received great and irreparable damage has been done by the insects, many fields showing total loss. The low temperatures were said to be doing big damage in Iowa and Nebraska. These advices were given much color by the lively demand from the producing regions for the deferred futures. The enormous demand lifted May oats to 44½c, July to 40⅜c, and September to 36c, final quotations showing net advances of ⅝c for May, 1⅛c for July, and 1⅛c for September. Longs took profits freely in the May, some of the leading holders of that month supporting the September. Cash prices were firmer, the demand being fair, but the east, evidently expecting a setback, did little in a buying way. Local receipts were 165 cars, the estimate for today being 201 cars. Shipments hence were 264,000 bu. Seaboard clearances were 5,000 bu.

Provisions Dull and Dragging.

There was comparatively little doing in the provision market. Moderate demand lifted lightly offered pork to a good advance, but lard and ribs ruled a little easier most of the time. The close showed 10@12½c higher for pork, unchanged to 2½c easier for lard, and 2½@5c lower for ribs. The western run of hogs—55,500—was 9,800 in excess of that of a year ago. Shipments of meats and lard hence were 2,012,000 lbs and 1,500,000 lbs respectively.

Rye a Shade Firmer.

Rye was quiet and a shade higher. No. 2 free on board was quoted 68x70c; No. 3, 60@67c; No. 4, 50@60c; May, 69c asked. Receipts were 1 car.

Barley ruled firm but dull. Feed was quoted 55@60c; malting, 64@71c; screenings, 40@58c. Receipts were 17 cars.

Flaxseed was firm. No. 1 northwestern was quoted $1.19; No. 1, $1.12; rejected northwestern, $1.12½. Receipts were 2 cars, 36 cars at Minneapolis, and 59 cars at Duluth.

Timothy seed was stronger. Contract spot was quoted $4.25; September, $4.60; country lots, $3.00@4.00.

Clover was in small supply and firm. Contract spot was quoted $15.25 and country lots $8.00@13.00.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Southwestern crop reports assumed the most sensational character yesterday. A multitude of reports was received bearing out the claims previously made and making more astounding statements as to the havoc wrought by the "green bugs" in Oklahoma and southern Kansas and Missouri. All of the best known crop experts now are in the field, but not all of them are reporting, at least not for publication. The advices received from Snow were the most bullish of any so far given out, and the trade was suspicious that John Inglis and H. V. Jones, who found conditions to their liking a few weeks ago, would not confirm their previous views. B. W. Snow now predicts that Oklahoma will not raise more than 5,000,000 bu of wheat, compared to upward of 18,000,000 bu a year ago. The most serious phase of the situation now seems to be the fact that fields in Oklahoma, which a couple of weeks ago were in the same condition as the Kansas crop is now, are found to be practically destroyed on late investigation. Damage in Oklahoma of from 50 to 75 per cent now is admitted on all hands, but there still are well posted grain men who refuse to believe that the Kansas crop is endangered, unless the drought continues. B. C. Christopher of Kansas City, who was here yesterday, said that the condition of the crop at the present time is practically perfect, and would be all right for two or three weeks yet without rain if it keeps cool, and, admitting 60 per cent damage in Oklahoma, that the increase in the Kansas crop if present conditions were unchanged up to harvest would be more than the total normal production of Oklahoma and Texas.

Commission houses had the largest trade in wheat yesterday that they have had in more than a year, some of them reporting the largest business in two years. The southwest, which has been more liberal recently with "bug" reports than orders, sent in a goodly volume of buying orders. The buying was general throughout the day, and the selling principally against upward indemnities, which showed a profit right from the start, and profit taking. There was some liquidation of May by scattered commission house holders. Logan-Bryan was a good seller of May on the advance. Armour and the J. Rosenbaum Grain company bought May and sold July, the transactions of the former concern being estimated at about 2,000,000 bu. Booth sold Pardridge 500,000 bu just at the close. Pringle-Fitch-Rankin, Ware-Leland, Bartlett-Frazier, and Logan-Bryan were good buyers of July and September. The Bartlett house was credited with purchases of about 1,250,000 bu July and September. Roberts and Bartlett-Frazier were the leading buyers of corn. Rosenbaum Grain company sold July and bought May. Comstock was a seller on the advance. Bartlett-Frazier, Northern Grain, and scattered commission houses bought July and September oats. Comstock sold September on the advance. There was a moderate demand for pork, with offerings practically nil.

Low grade cash wheat did not follow the full advance in futures, but other grades were strong, and there was a fair inquiry from the millers. Country offerings were said to be fairly large at this advance. No. 2 red on track sold at May price to ½c over. Local exporters reported a slow demand, but New York wired that there was a better inquiry, especially from the united kingdom. Kansas City wired that flour dealers were advancing the price of flour from 50 to 75c per brl, and that country dealers were not inclined to sell. Minneapolis wired that there was a continued good demand for cash wheat, with No. 1 northern selling at 2½@3c over May. Winnipeg claimed that exporters were buying wheat there freely. Cash corn here was irregular, choice grades of white and yellow selling at ½c advance, while medium and poor grades were steady. The Glucose people were not in the market, but local elevator interests were buying moderately. Oats were ½c higher, with a fair demand from shippers. Elevators bought a few oats to mix, and there was some buying by eastern people who have not been in the market recently. Local sales were 25,000 bu wheat, 125,000 bu oats, and 180,000 bu corn. The seaboard reported sales of 25,000 bu wheat and 25,000 bu corn.

B. W. Snow wired from Kingfisher, Okla.: "Two weeks ago I estimated Kingfisher county at 60 per cent of crop. Drove same district today; one-half fields now absolutely dead and no chance for half crop on balance. Never saw such destruction in a week, plowing up both oats and wheat. Good rain last Saturday, but made no difference in fields' first hit. Bugs are dying as wheat does, but in fields that have any grain they are as active as ever. Three weeks ago there were no more bugs here than I saw in Sedgwick county, Kas., yesterday. The situation here cannot be exaggerated." Snow also wired from Caldwell, Kas.: "Today drove Kingfisher to Waukomis, forty miles; best wheat destroyed; for thirty miles wheat destruction practically complete. Last three days shows complete collapse; north limit of complete loss now within sixty miles of Kansas line. Not a spear of oats left; fields bare as if never seeded. North of Hennessey for ten miles wheat dying fast, but still some prospects. Fields now badly infected that a week ago hardly showed a bug. Situation exceedingly grave; aphis seems to have gotten away from its natural enemies."

The Modern Miller in its weekly crop summary said: "Special inquiries regarding bug damage in southern Kansas, northern Oklahoma, and southwestern Missouri show improved conditions in Oklahoma, slight to serious damage in Missouri, little or no damage to 25 per cent loss of the crop in Kansas. Elsewhere in the winter wheat belt the crop conditions are unchanged. Reports generally continue favorable except that rains are insufficient in the west and southwest."

Sidney Love & Co. had advices from the northwest saying that from present indications wheat seeding would be late this spring. Snow was reported in many sections, deep in northern counties of North Dakota. Winnipeg wired: "Under most favorable circumstances seeding will not start before the 20th of April, or be general before the first week in May."

Said a trader: "One would be led to believe that Expert Snow is doing his 'driving' in Oklahoma and Kansas on a cannon ball limited. He covers miles faster than any man I ever heard of."

Oats are said to be at 40c selling on the farm in the vicinity of Kingfisher, Okla., and few to be had at that price. "Bugs" are said to be eating young corn as well as wheat and oats.

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ⅜d higher; Paris, unchanged to 1c up; Antwerp, delayed; Berlin, ½c higher, and Budapest, 1¼c lower.

New York wired: "If foreigners start to buy wheat they will probably take fair quantities of springs, as their stocks are about exhausted."

Estimated receipts today were: Wheat, 15 cars; corn, 228 cars; oats, 201 cars; barley, 21 cars; hogs, 17,000.

BISCUIT FACES NEW RIVAL

EX-OFFICIALS OF NATIONAL COMPANY PROMOTE OPPOSITION.

H. F. Vories and J. H. Douglas Reported to Be Principal Movers in Independent Concern in South—Corn Products May Make Its Own Cans—Nothing Doing on the Local Exchange in Street Railway Shares—Chicago Edison Touches 147.

H. F. Vories, formerly vice president of the National Biscuit company, and J. H. Douglas are reported to be the principal movers in a new independent biscuit combination which proposes to operate largely in the south. The company has a large plant in going order at Memphis and is arranging for a new plant at New Orleans. Mr. Douglas was formerly a director in the National company.

Additional competition against the National Biscuit company in other quarters also is springing up. There recently was organized at Cedar Rapids the Cedar Rapids Biscuit company, and there is said to be a new plant likely to be built at Omaha.

The North American Biscuit company soon will have in operation a large plant in Boston, which is bound to affect adversely other eastern plants. This company is expected also to increase its capacity in Chicago. It recently has enlarged its plant at Dallas. The company has large plants in St. Louis and Kansas City. A large percentage of the biscuit trade of the middle west long since has passed to the hands of the independent biscuit men.

The Vories-Douglas people have taken some good men from the National Biscuit company.

Corn Products-American Can.

Officials of the Corn Products Refining company have discussed a proposition for the company to build a plant to furnish its own cans. Various parties have been asked for prices of materials, with a view of seeing whether the company can profitably go into the can manufacturing business. It is a large consumer of cans, and has done business with the American Can company since the latter was organized.

The relations between the American Can company and the Corn Products company are most cordial, and their dealings have been mutually satisfactory; but the Corn Products people wish to see if they can make a profit themselves out of cans.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have gained $3,359,400. Of this amount $730,400 was derived from the interior.

The figures still indicate small disposition of money to return to New York from the interior. But for unusual subtreasury operations the banks would apparently be in a poor way for cash.

Steel Common.

It comes from Philadelphia that at a recent meeting of the executive and finance committees of the United States Steel corporation, the question of a dividend on the common stock was discussed and it was practically decided not to make any change in the rate at this time.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, April 12.—Money was obtainable at easy rates in the market today. Discounts were quiet. There was a healthy undertone on the stock exchange, but the prospective new issues and the fact that some of the securities which were tied up by the recent failures were being marketed reduced the buying power to a minimum. Quotations in most departments had a sagging tendency. Mexican rails recovered sharply after yesterday's setback on the dividend disappointment. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 101⅛. Copper shares declined in sympathy with the drop in the price of metal. Americans shared the general dullness. They opened below parity and gradually hardened during the session, but the New York opening caused weakness. Prices picked up later and the market closed quietly steady. The Indian secretary purchased $125,000 in gold in the market today due here May 4.

BERLIN, April 12.—Trading on the boerse today was quiet and prices had a weak tendency.

PARIS, April 12.—Prices on the bourse today were weak and trading was inactive throughout. Rio Tinto declined strongly. Russian imperial 4s closed at 74.00 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 491.00.

Hunter Taken Off Ice Floe.

Amherst, N. S., April 12.—A story of the terrible experience of a hunter and of his heroic rescue from death on an ice floe was told by telephone from the Bay of Fundy today. Murray Siddall was saved as the ice cake upon which he had climbed after his boat capsized was being swept away on the swift tide of the bay. It is feared that Frank Fillmore, who accompanied Siddall on the hunting expedition, was drowned, as Siddall did not see him after the boat upset. Fillmore has a wife and four children.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

MRS. CHARLES BARNES TO RECEIVE FOR HER SON'S WIFE.

Cards Will Be Issued Today for the Reception Which Is to Take Place April 24—Mrs. George W. Dixon Gives a Tea This Afternoon in Honor of Mrs. S. K. Martin—Wedding of Miss Lucy Simpson to Mr. Richard Fairchild.

Cards will be issued today for a reception to be held by Mrs. Charles J. Barnes, 297 Ontario street, Wednesday, April 24, from 4 to 7 o'clock, in honor of her son's wife, Mrs. Nelson Ludington Barnes, formerly Miss Anna Barker. The affair will be followed by a dinner for twenty-four guests. Mrs. Barnes has not entertained for many months, having been in mourning, so that this reception will be not only extremely large but brilliant. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes left yesterday for a ten days' stay in New York.

Mrs. George W. Dixon, 2706 Michigan avenue, will give a tea this afternoon in honor of Mrs. S. K. Martin.

The wedding of Miss Lucy Simpson, 1446 Wilson avenue, to Mr. Richard Fairchild will take place Wednesday, April 24. It will be a small house wedding, the ceremony, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to be witnessed only by relatives.

Miss Sara Walker, 401 North State street, entertained at bridge last evening in honor of Miss May Merryweather.

Mrs. John H. Barker of Michigan City entertained a party of six guests at the opera last evening, followed by a supper. Among her guests were Baron and Baroness von Spanje, who recently came from Holland and have taken up their residence in Michigan City.

Miss Phillips, 347 Dearborn avenue, will entertain the members of the Causeries du Samedi today, when Dr. Alice Brugnot will deliver a lecture on "What the Automobile Has Done for France."

Mrs. Graeme Stewart and her daughter, Miss Mercedes Stewart, accompanied by Miss Inez Fuller of Milwaukee, will sail on April 25 for Europe, where Miss Stewart and Miss Fuller will spend six months studying art and the French language.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Howard have returned from California. They are at the Virginia hotel until their house in Division street is ready for them.

Mrs. Samuel Parliament, Miss Parliament, and Clarence Armour Parliament of Highland Park have returned from spending the winter in southern California.

—THE— HOUSEKEEPERS' CALENDAR.

Edited by the School of Domestic Arts and Science, 39 State Street.

THE furnishing and daily and weekly care of the dining room were the subjects for instruction in the serving class at the School of Domestic Arts and Science Tuesday afternoon. Cheerfulness and immaculate cleanliness are the requisites of a dining room.

Methods of dusting were thoroughly discussed. The feather duster should be banished, as it merely misplaces the dust and does not remove it. There should be covers for all the furniture which cannot be moved, soft cheese cloth dusters for woodwork and ornaments, a damp duster for the inside of the registers, and a floor cloth dampened with water and a little kerosene keeps the floor in better condition.

The dusting of windows is important and when regularly done reduces the number of times it is necessary to wash them. Cleaning is made an art, this being only one of the phases taken up.

HOLD 3 YOUTHS FOR ROBBERY.

Police Find, However, They Are Not College Students, as They Had Maintained.

Three young men, arrested Tuesday night on a charge of robbing A. H. Lemon, 156 Lincoln street, have been held to the Criminal court in bonds of $1,500 each by Municipal Judge Goodnow.

When arrested they gave the names of Henry D. Robertson, 18 years old; Robert B. Matak, 18 years old; and Frank Lonegan, 19 years old. They told the police they were students at the west side branch of the Metropolitan Business college.

Investigation showed they had not attended the school nor any of its branches. They were well dressed and detectives at first were inclined to believe their story.
